VAN LEAR BLACK MISSING FROM YACHT OFF JERSEY; WIDE HUNT BY AIR AND SEA

VANISHED ON WAY SOUTH

Last Seen Sitting on Rail, Publisher and Flier May Have Fallen.

LOS ANGELES JOINS SEARCH

Coast Guards and Planes Also Go Out After His Own Craft Scans Sea Most of Night.

HUNT TO BE PUSHED TODAY

Washington Gives All Aid—Baltimorean, 54, Known for His Daring Flights.

Van Lear Black of Baltimore, publisher and capitalist and one of the country's most famous aviation enthusiasts, is believed to have been drowned late Monday evening. It was discovered that he was missing from his yacht, the Sabalo, when it was steaming just outside the outer New York Harbor some eight miles southwest of the Shrewsbury Rock buoy, off the Jersey coast.

Last night, after a day of intensive search, his body had not been found. His own boat had led a fleet of Coast Guard and other craft in slow circles about the spot where he disappeared. Overhead droned the motors of four amphibian planes, flying low over the water as their pilots scanned the whitecaps. In mid-afternoon the navy dirigible Los Angeles joined the search, drifting slowly along over a ten-mile course. But they found nothing.

The man who had successfully flown some 125,000 miles over the jungles, deserts and forests of four continents is believed to have perished through a boyish habit of sitting on the railing of his boat. A handkerchief was found on the afterdeck and it was supposed he had dropped it as a sudden swell caused the vessel to lurch, and so rocked him from his precarious seat. No clues to any other possibility were discovered. Mr. Black was 54 years old.

Just at dusk last evening, when the Los Angeles could be seen in the distance continuing her search, the Sabalo put into Gravesend Bay. Aboard her were Paul Patterson, the president of the A. S. Abell Publishing Company, of which the missing man was chairman of the board; Thomas W. Rogan, secretary to Mr. Black, and Captain John M. Kelley of the Sabalo. Together they pieced out the story of what probably had happened.

The Sabalo, they said, left the New York Yacht Club wharf off East Twenty-sixth Street Monday evening at about 6 o'clock. Mr. Black had that day flown to Newport to see his grandchildren, the son and daughter of Lieutenant and Mrs. Albert J. Bolton. Almost as soon as he returned the yacht got under way. It steamed out through the harbor, bound for the publisher's Summer home on Chesapeake Bay.

Mr. Black ate a leisurely dinner in the cabin with Mrs. J. Walter Lord, a cousin, who was a guest on the trip, and then, as was his custom, went to the deck. Some one forward saw him a little later sitting on the railing at the rear, his feet caught in the guardrail and one hand on a stanchion to give additional support. He was smoking a cigarette.

At a few minutes after 10 o'clock, when the Sabalo was sliding quietly through the water about twelve miles south of the Scotland Light, Percy Sellers, Mr. Black's valet, went to the after deck to consult him. He could not find him on his usual seat and became worried. Sellers looked through the cabin hastily and then ran to report to Captain Kelley, who was on the bridge. The latter ordered the engines reversed, and while other officers went thoroughly through the vessel he turned the craft about.

Long Search Is Begun.

Then started the search that was to last all yesterday. The Sabalo went back over the course slowly. The big searchlight was turned from side to side and all the members of the crew of fourteen who were not needed in the actual running of the ship took up their positions in the bow. The yacht covered a six-mile zone—the course for her last hour's

BAR CHIEFS UPHOLD POLL ON PROHIBITION

Reject Protest Against Questionnaire on Eve of the Convention in Chicago.

FIGHT PLANNED ON FLOOR

Prison Outbreaks Laid to Dry Law Convicts by Colorado Mutiny Investigator.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The executive committee of the American Bar Association, meeting today in preparation for opening the annual convention at the Stevens Hotel tomorrow morning, refused to rescind its action of last January when a postcard questionnaire was sent to the 28,000 members asking their views on a poll on the Eighteenth Amendment.

Opposition to the questionnaire reached a point today where a delegation waited on the executive committee and protested against any further action. The committee announced that "they could not see their way clear of rescinding their action in this matter."

George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, will address the delegates tomorrow afternoon on the program of the commission.

Argue Against Referendum.

Those protesting against the association referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment were Judge Andrew A. Bruce of Northwestern University, one of the men behind the recent Illinois crime survey; Nathan William MacChesney, Chicago attorney, who has served on many religious and philanthropic boards; George Wilson, Anti-Saloon League leader from Quincy, Ill.; Judge J. Weston Allen of Boston, former Attorney General of Massachusetts; Frederick F. Faville of Des Moines, and Judge William M. Hargist of Pennsylvania.

The protesting group argued that prohibition is a question of national policy, and not a legal matter that should come before an association of lawyers. It was argued that such a referendum is unconstitutional. The executive board took the position that the question was all in the field of legislation, that it was not a matter that could be dodged, and that

HOOVER NAMES BODY TO AID THE STATES IN DROUGHT RELIEF

Secretary Hyde Heads Commission to Coordinate National and Community Measures.

WINTER SUFFERING FEARED

President Says Most Aid Must Be Supplied Then—Families Lack Food in South.

300 COUNTIES FACE CRISIS

Great Degree of Recovery Believed Impossible in the Acutely Affected Areas.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Hoover today named Secretary Hyde to head the national committee which will undertake to coordinate Federal and State activities in rehabilitating the sections of the country affected by the drought and administer such relief as may be needed on the approach of Winter.

Secretary Hyde announced immediately that he would soon call a meeting of his committee to plan its work. This work will not begin, however, until the various State organizations have been perfected.

Others named on the national committee were Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board, Chairman Bestor of the Federal Farm Loan Board, Governor Roy A. Young of the Federal Reserve Board, John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; Richard H. Aishton, chairman of the American Railway Association; Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and Henry M. Robinson, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

In announcing the committee and commenting on the drought situation, President Hoover said that "continuing reports confirm the severity of the situation and the inevitability of distress over the Winter in the acutely affected counties," which, he said, numbered something over 300.

The President expressed the opinion that the rains of the last few days "stemmed the spread" of the drought and had improved the situation generally, but that in the most heavily affected sections crop destruction was "beyond any great degree of recovery."

Text of the President's Statement.

The President said:

In accordance with the conclusions of my conference with the Governors, I have appointed Secretary Hyde to undertake coordination between Federal and State activities as chairman of the national drought committee. The members of this committee are:

Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board.

Chairman Bestor of the Federal Farm Loan Board.

Governor Young of the Federal Reserve Board.

Chairman Payne of the Red Cross.

Chairman Aishton of the American Railway Association.

Under-Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Henry M. Robinson, chairman of the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

These members from the different national organizations will appoint alternates or additional members from those agencies from time to time to undertake the special problems before the committee. Mr. Robinson has consented to serve on the committee for purposes of coordinating Federal with State and private credit activities. The headquarters of the National Drought Relief Committee are being set up in the Department of Agriculture.

The Governors of the various States are moving rapidly in the creation of their organizations. The Governors of Illinois and Vir-

Chicago Baby Mix-Up Settled by Exchange; Bambergers Give Up Child on Experts' Ruling

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Watkins-Bamberger baby controversy reached a settlement late today that promised to be final, when the mothers of the boys born June 30 in the Englewood Hospital amicably exchanged babies, shook hands and promised each other they would bicker no more. Health Commissioner Kegel officiated as master of ceremonies.

A turn toward settlement of the case, which promised to drag indefinitely through the courts, came at 4 P. M., when Joseph P. Power, attorney for Charles Bamberger and his wife, telephoned Dr. Kegel that Mr. Bamberger was at last persuaded that the findings of Dr. Kegel's board of experts were correct and that the infants were in the wrong homes.

Aware that William Watkins and his wife were already of this view, Dr. Kegel hastened to the Bamberger home.

Upon reflection, Mr. Bamberger told the commissioner there he had reached the conclusion that, as the medical experts contended, the babies had been switched before leaving the hospital. He renounced his previous view that the baby Mrs. Bamberger took home looked exactly like him and that the infant in possession of the Watkinses resembled him not at all.

Nothing remained but to go to the Watkins apartment and effect the transfer. The Bambergers, their lawyer and Dr. Kegel telephoned of their coming and Mrs. Watkins received them warmly. Her husband was not at home.

A little tearful, the two mothers undressed the respective infants, exchanged them to each other's arms and embraced.

Davis Opens Way for Balchen to Citizenship, Based on Byrd Flier's Service Under Flag

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Declaring that Bernt Balchen, pilot of Admiral Byrd's South Pole airplane, is a "heroic figure" who has "shown exceptional fitness for American citizenship," Secretary of Labor Davis in a letter to Raymond F. Crist, the Commissioner of Naturalization, recommends the waiving of technicalities and the prompt issuance of the papers necessary to establish the citizenship of the aviator.

The provision in the law which provides that a continuous absence of one year preceding the date of filing of the petition for citizenship breaks the continuity of residence, in Secretary Davis's opinion, should not operate against Balchen.

During his long absence in the Antarctic as a member of the Byrd expedition Balchen, Secretary Davis points out, was on ships of American registry, was in the company of Americans and was in part, at least, on territory claimed by the United States. The latter statement is one of the nearest approaches yet made to an official intimation that such claims may be forthcoming.

The secretary's letter to Commissioner Crist reads, in part:

"It has been suggested that Mr. Balchen may not be eligible because of the clause in the act of March 2, 1929 (45 Stat. 1513), which reads as follows:

"'Absence from the United States for a continuous period of one year or more during the period immediately preceding the date of filing the petition for citizenship for which continuous residence is required as a condition precedent to admission to citizenship shall break the continuity of such residence.'

"Notwithstanding this provision I rather incline to the view that because Mr. Balchen's service with Commander Byrd was exclusively on vessels of American registry, in company with Americans, and in part at least upon territory which, it is understood, has been claimed for the United States, this absence from continental United States may quite properly be construed by the court hearing his petition for citizenship as residence within the United States, within the meaning of the naturalization law.

"It is suggested that you communicate with Mr. Balchen, request that he fill out the preliminary form heretofore forwarded to him and comply with the other instructions on the form, after which the usual certificate of arrival should be obtained and Mr. Balchen should be assisted in the filing of his petition for citizenship.

"At the final hearing thereon the court should be acquainted with the facts, and in the light thereof will be in a position to make a judicial ruling as to his admissibility to American citizenship."

BRITAIN PREPARING NEW STEP FOR PEACE

Geneva Hears London Plans to Accept Compulsory Settlement of All Disputes.

WILL TAKE LEAD IN LEAGUE

Dominions Appear Favorable—Move Likely to Win Nations Now Holding Back.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 19.—With the entire British commonwealth now bound to accept compulsory jurisdiction of the World Court—Australia having deposited the final dominion ratification of the optional clause here today—the Labor Government, according to authoritative private advices from London, is now seriously considering announcing during the coming session of the League Assembly in September its acceptance of the general act for the compulsory peaceful settlement of all disputes.

Foreign Secretary Henderson is said already to have begun consulting all the dominions with the view that all members of the commonwealth adhere to the general act this September, as they signed the optional clause simultaneously last year.

It is hoped to make the coming session known as the "general act assembly" as the commonwealth's action, which was followed by ten other States, made the last session known as the "optional clause assembly." A year ago only eighteen States had bound themselves to let others hale them into the World Court on any legal dispute. Now with Australia's action there are thirty such States, or more than half the members of the League.

The general act includes compulsory jurisdiction of the Court and goes much further, providing also for either compulsory arbitration or conciliation of all other non-legal disputes. This has the great advantage of leaving no loophole whereby adherents can escape peaceful settlement of their differences. At present only three States are completely bound by the general act, Belgium, Denmark and Norway. Finland also ratified it but has not yet officially notified the League. The French Chamber of Deputies in June ratified the entire act almost unanimously as well as the optional clause and it is considered certain the Senate will complete the ratifications when it meets next Autumn. In addition, Sweden and Holland ratified all but the arbitration section of the act.

It was considered that announcement of British adherence to the general act, following French action, would lead many smaller States to take the same plunge in September. According to word received here, Mr. Henderson is encountering no opposition among the dominions to the proposed step. The Irish Free State announced last year that it was going to adhere to the act even if the others did not. It is understood that the British Admiralty, having shot its bolt unsuccessfully against ratification of the optional clause, is offering little resistance to the government taking a further step in the same direction.

Japan is now the only great League power that has not joined in either of these moves for compulsory peaceful settlement of disputes, for Germany long ago ratified the optional clause and Italy has signed it.

FIX ABRAHAM'S TIME BY PALESTINE FINDS

Excavators Also Believe They Uncovered House Where Lot Defended Angels.

EVENT PLACED IN 2000 B. C.

Dr. Kyle, Expedition Chief, Says Discoveries Support Biblical Stories of Many Periods.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19.—Discoveries by the joint American expedition at Kirjath Sepher conclusively prove biblical stories and fix the date of Abraham's time. Dr. Melvin Grove Kyle, director of the joint expedition of the Xenia Theological Seminary and the American School of Oriental Research of Jerusalem, asserted here tonight. Assisted by a staff of ten archaeologists, including many Americans, the 110 native workmen, the expedition uncovered a mound containing ten distinct cities, one above the other, linking Abraham's arrival in Canaan from Chaldea to the period of Nebuchadnezzar, who raided Canaan.

"These excavations give the world in a remarkable way a history of the culture in Palestine that it is possible to read alongside biblical history as the supreme test of its trustworthiness," said Dr. Kyle. "Only real events leave anything which can be dug out of the ground.

"The fortress at Tell Beit Mirsim, thirteen miles directly southwest of Hebron, which is the ancient Kirjath Sepher, proved to be a mound of ten cities, each separated by burned levels. These ten cities represented only five civilizations."

Civil Wars Brought Ruin.

Dr. Kyle said civil wars accounted for the destruction of the cities.

"The first city dates from 2000 B. C., perhaps earlier, which is Abraham's time in the Scriptures," he continued. "The same social and political conditions of the story of Lot and the angels are reflected in the ruins of this first city which approximates the civilization of that time and not the time of the Kings of Judah in the eighth and seventh centuries B. C.

"There was only one city in the early bronze age, but in the middle bronze age, about 1900 to 1600 B. C., there were six different cities, one above the other, the first two representing the transition from the early to the middle bronze age, the next four being typically middle bronze. These were definitely distinguished by their pottery.

"The turmoil evidenced by these six burnings in the middle bronze age approximates the turmoil of the Hyksos period in Western Asia. The Hyksos kings seemed against everybody except the Israelites, who were royally favored in Egypt.

"In the later bronze age, 1600 to 1200 B. C., there was a city destroyed by Othniel (Judges XV, 17). At the time of the Israelites and the Canaanite conquests in the early iron age there is evidence of terrific warfare, shown in a great layer of ashes.

"Naturally, the Israelites in coming to Canaan after forty years of nomadic life in the wilderness built a very poor city. This city in turn was destroyed about 900 B. C., undoubtedly by Pharaoh Shishak, who smashed Judah's defense fortresses, according to the scripture account and according to Shishak's inscription on the Karnak Temple in Egypt.

City Razed by Nebuchadnezzar.

"The last city on the mound was the city of the Kings of Judah, destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, as is conclusively testified to by the discovery of stamped jar handles which served as tax receipts from King

FOOD DEALERS GET POLICE PROTECTION; MILK RING TRIAL SET

Mulrooney Guards Market, Picks Squad to Aid Inquiry and Offers Merchants Help.

FAY CASE TO BE SPEEDED

Crain Acts to Press Year-Old Indictments After Evidence of New Milk Racketeering.

PRICE IS CUT BY ONE DAIRY

Groat Says Investigation Is Bringing Results—Abe Tiger, Called Chief of Revived Band, Put on Stand.

While a picked squad of Police Commissioner Mulrooney's men went on duty yesterday to prevent any violence by food racketeers, District Attorney Crain moved to bring to trial Larry Fay and 140 others indicted nearly a year ago as members of a milk ring. Mr. Crain's action followed testimony by witnesses appearing at the two inquiries of the Attorney General into food profiteering here, indicating that the Fay ring had been revived and had raised prices of loose milk to new high levels.

Mr. Crain's chief aide, Assistant District Attorney Albert B. Unger, appeared before Assistant Attorney General William B. Groat yesterday afternoon and assured the latter of the "wholehearted cooperation" of the District Attorney's office in the State investigation of food profiteering. Mr. Unger declared that the trial of the Fay ring would occupy the immediate attention of the new term of General Sessions opening the first week in October.

A blanket indictment charging conspiracy in restraint of trade was returned on Oct. 16, 1929, against Fay and others of the New York Milk Chain Association, Inc. From that day the grand jury indictments have lain dormant in the District Attorney's office, where, it was said yesterday, a "thorough investigation" has been under way to determine the advisability of bringing the defendants to trial.

Assistant District Attorney Joyce will conduct the trial of Fay and the others. He is to attend the hearings being conducted by the Attorney General to obtain any further information that may prove valuable in prosecuting the milk ring.

Pledges Aid of Crain.

Assuring Mr. Groat that Mr. Crain "is one with the Attorney General in the desire to wipe out food racketeers," Mr. Unger added that the District Attorney's office was ready to take immediate action to punish any infringement of the criminal law or the Donnelly act.

"The State investigation has our enthusiastic and whole-hearted cooperation," Mr. Unger asserted. "It will be the policy of the District Attorney to assist the Attorney General in every way possible to this end.

"District Attorney Crain will deal harshly with any infringement of the criminal code or the Donnelly act uncovered in the present inquiry. We are ready and eager to prosecute any person or group of persons shown to be combined to illegally raise the prices of foodstuffs.

"An assistant District Attorney will cover the State's hearings. You may call on him for assistance at a moment's notice. He will report the revelations of the inquiry to Mr. Crain."

Mr. Unger told Mr. Groat and Referee John Holly Clark Jr., who is in charge of the food inquiry, that any cases of perjury at the investigation would be taken care of by the District Attorney's office.

"The doors of the grand jury room are wide open to you," he promised.

Following a request of Mr. Groat for police protection, Commissioner

Police Bullets Tested to Find Who Shot Thug So the Right Patrolman Can Be Promoted

The question of who killed Angelo Pessalano in Brooklyn last Saturday is puzzling high police officials and the department's ballistics experts, it was learned yesterday, but their motive is not the usual police determination to punish the slayer.

Pessalano was one of four bandits who engaged in a pistol battle with six policemen during a chase through the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn. Pessalano was killed, a bystander and another hold-up man were wounded, and a third robber was captured after the fugitives had been trapped at Third Avenue and Fifty-first Street.

The policemen who took part in the battle were commended for bravery by Commissioner Mulrooney at the line-up at headquarters Monday, and one of them, Patrolman William E. Drake, who while off duty started the chase after he had recognized an ex-convict in a passing car, was promoted to second grade detective.

The men involved, who were, besides Drake, Detective George V. Grundelman and Patrolmen John T. McAlevey, Arthur Heine, Carl E. Weitzen and George Schmitt, were then taken to the pistol range at headquarters, where they fired their weapons into wads of cotton. The bullets were then taken for comparison with the one which killed Pessalano.

Commissioner Mulrooney denied this action was the result of a controversy in which each of the policemen claimed credit for killing the fugitive. He said the comparison of the bullets was a routine police action. Captain George H. Bishop, in command of detectives in the Eleventh District, said he thought there was little doubt that Drake had fired the fatal shot, although he admitted that at first some of the others wanted credit because so many were firing at the same time.

GOVERNOR ACTS ON EWALD; ORDERS INQUIRY BY WARD BEFORE A SPECIAL COURT

CRAIN IS SUPERSEDED

Justice McCook Named to Hold Extraordinary Trial Term Sept. 15.

WIDE INVESTIGATION LIKELY

Governor Said to Be Working on Plan for General Study of Bench Corruption Here.

BAR AND DR. WISE LAUD HIM

Ewald Principals to Face Tax Hearing Today—County Grand Jury Defers Report.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt took the Ewald case out of the hands of local officials yesterday after studying the minutes of the New York County grand jury which failed to find an indictment and then reconsidered its action.

The Governor in Albany ordered Attorney General Hamilton Ward, who is a Republican, to supersede District Attorney Crain in the investigation into charges that George F. Ewald paid more than $10,000 to Tammany politicians for his appointment to the magistracy three years ago.

Then, asserting that he was satisfied that the "public interest requires it," Governor Roosevelt designated Justice Philip J. McCook to convene an extraordinary term of Supreme Court in New York City at 10 A. M., Sept. 15, and to draw a special grand jury to serve at such term.

The limited scope of the inquiry, which is strictly confined to the Ewald case, tempered the enthusiasm with which leaders of the bar and others who had sought State intervention received the news of the Governor's action. But in Albany a person close to Governor Roosevelt said that the Governor is anxious to delve into the whole system of judicial appointments in New York City and is considering several methods of procedure.

One plan under consideration, it was said, is to place the responsibility for investigating charges of widespread bartering of judicial offices in the hands of the Appellate Division. Another is to ask the association of the bar to investigate and turn its findings over to a grand jury. An announcement of his plans may be forthcoming from Governor Roosevelt today, it was said.

Governor Roosevelt's intervention occurred while the grand jury still was trying to make up its mind whether to follow District Attorney Crain's advice to indict Ewald, his wife, Mrs. Bertha E. Ewald; Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader and suspended First Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures, and Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk in the office of Sheriff Farley.

Federal Grand Jury Acts Today.

These four, all involved in the charges centring on a $10,000 loan from Mrs. Ewald to Healy through Tommaney a few days before Mayor Walker named Ewald to the bench, are to appear today before a Federal grand jury seeking evidence of income tax evasions in connection with the transaction.

Alleged irregularities in Ewald's appointment were first brought to light by United States Attorney Tuttle before the Federal grand jury which indicted the former magistrate and several others for mail fraud in connection with the sale of stock in Cotter Butte Mines, Inc.

District Attorney Crain, who had spent considerable time in the forenoon "advising" the grand jurors on what they should do and who left in the afternoon with their assurance that they would reconsider the case and possibly ask him to call additional witnesses, showed no surprise when informed of Governor Roosevelt's action at his country home in West Hampton, L. I.

His first move after receiving formal notification from the Governor that he had been superseded, he said, would be to inform the grand jurors and communicate with the Attorney General. His future course, he said, would be decided by their wishes. Discussing the status of the investigation now in progress, he said:

"It is an interesting question of law. As a matter of law, the power of the county grand jury is not affected but as a matter of courtesy and precedent, when I am notified of the action of the Governor I will communicate with the grand jury

JURY IN DOYLE CASE LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Debates for Six Hours Over Evidence on Perjury and Tax-Evasion Charges.

CALLS FOR MORE DATA

Tuttle, Summing Up, Calls the Defendant a Dealer in "Special Favors."

After deliberating for almost six hours last night the jury in the trial of William F. Doyle in Federal court was locked up for the night in the Hotel McAlpin at 11 o'clock. Doyle waited anxiously for reports from the jury room, but none other than that the jurors appeared to be arguing heatedly among themselves and were at a deadlock came to him.

Judge John E. Martineau did not come down for the ceremony of the night lock-up, as he had ordered at 10 o'clock that this was to be done if no decision had been reached at 11. Doyle has been on trial for the last two weeks on charges of income tax evasion and perjury. The original indictment contained five counts.

Two of these counts charging that he failed to report the full amount of the fees he received for representing clients before the Board of Standards and Appeals during 1927 and 1928, were dismissed by Judge Martineau on Monday, ruling that his court lacked jurisdiction. Returns for those years were filed in Brooklyn.

The jury thus was empowered to deal with charges of income tax evasion for 1929, when the return was filed in Manhattan, and perjury for 1927 and 1928, when he is alleged to have given a false oath to the statement in his tax returns for those years.

Jury Asks for Data.

When the jury retired its deliberations began at once. About 6 o'clock the members asked for copies of Doyle's income tax returns for all three years. They asked for a copy of a letter which he sent to the Treasury Department in 1926, outlining the nature of his business. They also asked for a statement of the amount claimed by the government as the total of fees he received in 1929—$95,083—and the amount he declared in his tax return for that year—$76,800. They also requested an itemized statement of the fees in and inform them and determine afterwards what steps are to be taken.

"I don't want to embarrass Attorney General Ward and I am willing to leave it to him to say whether the steps being taken will embarrass him. I shall let him decide whether we shall proceed."

Mr. Ward, located in Buffalo late last night, learned of his appointment from newspapermen and said he would lose no time in starting his preliminary investigation although the empaneling of a grand jury probably would take some time.

Then he said:

"I trust the Governor's authorization will be broad enough to enable me to render some public service. The empaneling of a grand jury will take some time but orders will be given to my force in the morning, to take over the inquiry. I will give the matter my personal attention."

Mr. Tuttle when informed of Governor Roosevelt's action promised complete cooperation in the Attorney General's investigation, but beyond that would say little.

"It is very interesting," he said, smiling, "but I do not think I care to make any comment."

Mayor Walker was not available after the Governor's proclamation was made public. In the afternoon, however, discussing State intervention as a possibility, he said:

"I don't care what any one does so long as we get better service."

Dr. Wise Praises Governor.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who first urged intervention upon Governor Roosevelt after the failure of the grand jury to indict, received the news that District Attorney Crain had been superseded at Lake Placid, where he is spending a holiday. Governor Roosevelt acted with the "promptness and vigor I anticipated," he said.

Rabbi Wise said he hoped that "this first step" would be followed by others which would lead to a "complete divorce of the judiciary from politics and the corrupting influence which politics has exercised upon the courts of our city." His statement, read over the telephone, follows:

"It cannot have been easy to supersede the District Attorney of New York, but the situation called for no less drastic act. Judge Crain in himself is negligible but the office of District Attorney is of the highest importance at all times in our judicial system and above all at such a juncture as this in the breakdown of the administration of the judiciary in New York City, due to the alliance between politics and the courts.

"Filled by a man of indeflectible purpose, the office of District Attorney may be made a part of a new order which will have as its objective the purifying of the courts.

"After the pitiable vacillations of the District Attorney, it is well that the Ewald case in all its overt, and what is more important, its covert ramifications, should be explored by free and competent agents of the State.

"But grave as the Ewald case is and hopeful as Governor Roosevelt has led us to be that it will be dealt with unflinchingly, the real importance of the Governor's act in appointing Attorney General Ward and Justice McCook lies not in the case itself but in the promise it gives that this first step will be followed by such further steps as are now necessary in order fully to restore the public sense of confidence in the integrity of our courts through complete divorce of the judiciary from politics and the corrupting influence which politics has exercised over the courts of our city.

"The Ewald case must not now be made a scapegoat in order to avert further and more searching inquiry into our political and judicial systems in all their relationships."

Bar Chief Pleased At Action.

Charles C. Burlingham, president of the Association of the Bar, which has advocated a general investigation into possible corrupt practices in making appointments to the minor judiciary, greeted Governor Roosevelt's action "as the wise and proper thing," although he appeared somewhat regretful that the Governor had not provided the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court with more scope.

Speaking over the telephone from Niantic, Conn., where he is spending a month's holiday, Mr. Burlingham said:

"I think this was a very wise and proper thing for the Governor to do. I do not consider this action a reflection on Judge Crain, the District Attorney, who is an entirely honorable man, but I think the temper of the public mind is such that it was the part of wisdom for the Governor to refer the matter to an entirely new body.

"Mr. Justice McCook, a man of the highest integrity, conducted the Westchester trials, it will be remembered. The Governor has selected the right method of reinvestigating this matter. It is important that the investigation by the Attorney General, who was himself a candidate for the Governorship, should be conducted without any political bias and removed from political consideration. The way to do that would be for the Attorney General to designate some able and serious lawyer to assist him in the matter without regard to politics, so that the public confidence can be completely established.

"I do not know what the Governor is going to do about the broader and larger question of investigating the methods of appointments to the magistrates' bench, the question as to whether or not there is any system of appointments. Unless the Governor refers that matter to this new grand jury in direct terms, it cannot be acted upon by them. They are limited to what the call states. Apparently he has not asked Justice McCook or the Attorney General to investigate that matter but has confined his order to the Ewald case. However, it will be interesting to see."

While the Governor was considering what action to take in the Ewald case he had before him the letter from the Bar Association, urging, it was understood, a sweeping investigation into the general practices in appointing magistrates. He refused, however, to make the letter public, saying:

"This letter is largely of a personal nature and I see no occasion for making public its contents at this time."

Justice McCook, who, like Mr. Burlingham, is spending a vacation at Niantic, Conn., was in Yorktown, Me., last night. He did not know that Governor Roosevelt had appointed him to preside over the Ewald investigation until he was so informed over the telephone by newspaper men. He preferred not to comment until he received official notification, he said.

The Governor's proclamation designating Justice McCook to convene the extraordinary term of Supreme Court follows:

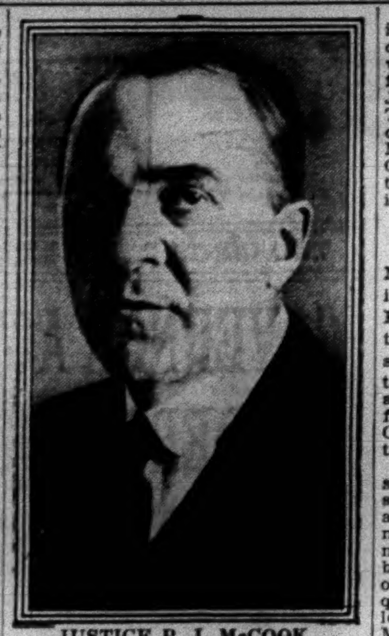
State of New York.
Executive Chamber, Albany.

It appearing to my satisfaction that the public interest requires it:

Therefore, in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, I do hereby appoint an extraordinary special and trial term of the Supreme Court to be held at the County Court House, New York County, New York City, on the 15th day of September, 1930, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day and to continue so long as may be necessary for the purpose of inquiring into any and all unlawful acts or alleged unlawful acts of any public officer or officers or of any person or persons of any description committed or alleged to have been committed in connection with or arising out of or in any way relating to the appointment of George F. Ewald as a city magistrate of the city of New York on or about the 30th day of April, 1927, and for such other proper matters as may come before the court, and I do hereby designate the Hon. Philip J. McCook of New York City, N. Y., who is a justice of the Supreme Court of the First Judicial District, to hold the said extraordinary special and trial term as hereinbefore described, and among other things to cause to be drawn according to law a grand jury to serve at said extraordinary term of the Supreme Court, and I do further direct that notice of such appointment be given by publication of this order on the third day of September, 1930, and tenth day of September, 1930, in The New York Law Journal and in THE NEW YORK TIMES, both of New York City, newspapers published in the county of New York.

Given under my hand and the privy seal of the State at the Capitol in the city of Albany this nineteenth day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty. By the Governor,

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.
GUERNSEY T. CROSS,
Secretary to the Governor.



JUSTICE P. J. McCOOK,
Named by the Governor to Preside at Ewald Inquiry.

Order Superseding Crain.

The order superseding District Attorney Crain with Attorney General Ward was addressed to the Attorney General and read as follows:

Hon. Hamilton Ward, Attorney
General of the State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 62 of the executive law, I hereby require that you, the Attorney General of the State, attend in person or by one of your deputies an extraordinary special and trial term of the Supreme Court appointed to be held in and for the county of New York at the County Court House, New York County, New York City, on the fifteenth day of September, 1930, and that you in person or by said deputy appear before the grand jury drawn for said term of said court, and before any grand jury or grand juries which shall be drawn and sit for any later term or terms of said court for the purpose of managing and conducting in said court and before said grand jury and said other grand juries, any and all proceedings, examinations and inquiries and any and all criminal acts and proceedings which may be had or taken by or before said grand jury concerning or relating to its inquiry into any and all unlawful or alleged unlawful acts of any public officer or officers or of any person or persons of any description committed or alleged to have been committed in connection with or arising out of or in any way relating to the appointment of George F. Ewald as a city magistrate of the city of New York on or about the — day of April, 1927;

And further to manage, prosecute and conduct the trial at said term of said court or at any term at which any and all indictments which shall have been or may be found against any said public officer or officers or other persons may hereafter be tried, and in the event of any appeal or appeals, to manage, prosecute and conduct the same; and that in person or by one of your deputies, in the place and stead of the District Attorney of New York County, you exercise all the powers and perform all the duties conferred upon you by said Section 62 of the executive law and this requirement made thereunder; and that in such proceedings and actions the District Attorney of New York County shall exercise only such powers and perform such duties as are required of him by you or the Deputy Attorney General so attending.

Given under my hand and the privy seal of the State at the Capitol in the city of Albany this nineteenth day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.
By the Governor:
GUERNSEY T. CROSS,
Secretary to the Governor.

First Intervention by Governor.

The issuance of the proclamations was the first action Governor Roosevelt has taken to inquire into affairs of New York City, although there have been repeated demands for State intervention since last Winter, when the Republican legislative leaders sought to make the Governor responsible for an inquiry.

Each new disclosure of irregularity—the Vitale case, the scandal in the Board of Standards and Appeals, the Vause case and, finally, the Ewald case—brought new demands for a State investigation. On Monday the Republican majority leader in the Senate, John Knight, renewed his offer to provide Governor Roosevelt with any additional powers he needed for a full investigation of municipal affairs if the Governor would call a special session.

Despite Mr. Crain's statement regarding the status of the county grand jury, it is not expected that this body will continue with its investigation. While Governor Roosevelt was studying the evidence which they had found insufficient to warrant an indictment they decided to delay definite action until this morning.

Mr. Crain had said that the grand jurors, who, after deciding to drop the case last Thursday, had the transcript of testimony read over to them to see if they had made a mistake, had promised to let him know today whether they wanted to hear additional witnesses and, if so, whom they wanted him to call.

It was considered likely that the grand jury, should it go through with its unusual procedure of reopening a case that was considered closed, would ask that George W. Olvany, former leader of Tammany Hall, and John Mara, Democratic leader of the Twenty-third Assembly District, be called. Neither Mr. Olvany nor Mr. Mara was called before because, Mr. Crain explained, he did not believe their testimony was germane to the issues.

Mara Testimony Recalled.

When Mara was first questioned by Mr. Tuttle, who was then investigating the sale of stock in the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., the Tammany district leader was reported to have said that Mr. Olvany had asked him to support Ewald's appointment as a magistrate. Mara said he had refused to endorse Ewald and that Mr. Olvany thereafter addressed himself to Martin J. Healy.

Later Mara corrected himself and said that while he had some conversation with Mr. Olvany about the appointment of a magistrate he was not sure that Ewald's name was mentioned. When he was questioned by Mr. Crain, Mara held to this opinion, and Mr. Olvany was not questioned regarding the district leader's earlier testimony. Neither Mara nor Mr. Olvany was taken before the grand jury, although Mayor Walker told that body that Healy had not approached him on the subject of Ewald's appointment.

The decision of the grand jurors to put the Ewald matter over until today came after they had finished listening to the reading of minutes of the proceedings before them and after they had begun to hear evidence in routine cases. This led at first to the belief that they had decided to stand by their original verdict of "no bill."

Grand Jury Sends for Crain.

About an hour after the grand jurors had dismissed their official stenographer, who had been reading the minutes to them, they sent for Mr. Crain for the second time during the forenoon. When the District Attorney returned to his office he said:

"The grand jury has reconsidered its action and has voted to give further consideration to the case and has advised me that it will inform me in the morning as to what further evidence, if any, it would like me to produce."

Asked whether he would advise the grand jury to call Mara and Mr. Olvany, Mr. Crain said that had he thought their testimony important he would have called them in the first instance. Replying to a question as to whether these two men would be called today, Mr. Crain repeated that it was up to the grand jury, but he added it had not requested him to issue subpoenas for any one.

Although the mail fraud indictment naming Ewald as one of several defendants is on the trial calendar for today in Federal court, it is almost certain to be postponed. The "follow-up" investigation, dealing with possible income tax frauds, has become so important that Mr. Tuttle is eager to proceed with it at once.

Yesterday his assistants questioned several witnesses and looked over bank records and papers in preparation for today's grand jury session. Mr. Tuttle refused to make public any figures from the bank transcripts pending their presentation to the grand jury, although it was reported that they showed that Healy had large amounts on deposit when he borrowed money from Mrs. Ewald to purchase a house at Blue Point, L. I.

PRISONER SHOT, NEAR DEATH

Newark Policeman Wounds Engineer Trying to Escape Arrest.

Joseph Stoddard, 32 years old, an engineer, of 17 Elwood Place, Newark, was shot and critically wounded last night while trying to escape from Patrolman Charles Grauley, who had arrested him and a companion just a few minutes previously at Broadway and Elwood Avenue, Newark.

Stoddard and James Harrington, 35, of 147 New Street, Newark, had just alighted from a Broadway bus when Francis T. Plumeal, a letter carrier, who also had been a passenger in the bus, pointed them out to Patrolman Grauley and informed the patrolman that one of them had been flourishing a pistol in the bus and that both had been talking of jewelry.

Grauley arrested both men immediately and took them to a police box to call a patrol wagon. While he was telephoning, he said, a pistol dropped from the pocket of one of the prisoners, and as he leaned over to pick it up both men grappled with him. Plumeal came to the patrolman's aid, whereupon both prisoners fled in opposite directions. While Stoddard failed to obey the officer's commands to halt, Grauley said, he fired a shot intending to frighten the prisoner, but the bullet richocheted and struck Stoddard under the heart.

Harrington was caught and taken to the police station. He denied they had planned a hold-up, and was held for investigation.

GARDENER SLAYS 3, ENDS LIFE IN JERSEY

Kills Aged Woman Employer and Kin at Pleasantville in Dispute Over Estate.

SHARED LARGELY IN WILL

Tragedy Follows Quarrel at Breakfast Table—Slayer Confesses Before He Dies.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Mary Parr, a widow 81 years old; her sister, Mrs. Margaret Collins, 79, and her nephew, Leo W. Collins, 48, were shot to death here today by Mrs. Parr's gardener, Bernardo Juan Riutort, who then shot himself, dying a few hours later. According to the police, Riutort was aroused to maniacal fury by a dispute over Mrs. Parr's estate.

Mrs. Collins, who also was a widow, and her son, had just arrived from Philadelphia where they lived at 2,436 South Sixteenth Street. They came to Mrs. Parr's home at 33 East Walnut Avenue, for a brief visit, and the three were eating a late breakfast when the shooting occurred.

Neighbors had noticed, they said, that Riutort had been in an irritable mood for several months. This morning about 9:40 o'clock Christopher Gumnes, whose back yard adjoins the garden in the rear of Mrs. Parr's home, heard his dog barking furiously. Gumnes ran out the back door to investigate and through the vines and shrubbery in the garden saw Mrs. Parr stumble down the steps from her back porch and run around the side of her house. Then he saw a man run out and pursue the aged woman. Several shots followed in rapid succession and Gumnes rushed back to telephone the police.

Mrs. Anna Brooks of 407 East Verona Avenue, West Atlantic City, had been sitting outside the Parr home in her automobile when the shootings occurred, and she saw Mrs. Parr collapse at the side of her house. She also spread the alarm, and Mrs. Nicholas J. Waters of 26 Walnut Avenue hurried across the street to the Parr home. Just inside the doorway she found Riutort wounded and staggering from the kitchen. Mrs. Waters led him to a chair on the porch. At the side of the house lay the body of Mrs. Parr, shot twice in the head with an automatic pistol.

When State Troopers arrived they found in the kitchen the bodies of Mrs. Collins and her son. The mother had been shot in the chest with a shotgun. The son had been shot in the head.

Neighbors told the police they had heard loud words after the arrival of Mrs. Collins and her son, and the State police were inclined to believe that it was an argument based on the contents of Mrs. Parr's will, which they found when they searched the house. The will, made out in 1927, left practically two-thirds of the estate to Riutort and the remaining portion was divided between Mrs. Collins and her children. The contents of the will indicated that Mrs. Parr possessed at least $5,000 in cash or securities.

At the Atlantic City Hospital before he died Riutort, a Spaniard, when questioned, admitted the killings. He had apparently been acquainted with Mrs. Parr for about fifteen years, and for the last nine years, ever since the widow had bought the Pleasantville house, valued at $10,000, he had boarded with her or had been in her employ.

The police stated that Riutort was a man of many names. In addition to being known as "John La Tour," various records, including a certificate for twenty-five shares of stock of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company, indicated that he had been known as "B. John Ruitort," and "Bernard John Ruitort." He was born in Spain, and it is not believed that he had any relatives in this country.

FUMES OVERCOME FIREMEN.

Four Disabled by Chemicals at Chambers Street Blaze.

Four firemen were overcome by chemical fumes yesterday while fighting a fire in the loft of Reich, Ash & Co., manufacturers of toilet articles, on the fourth floor of 79 Chambers Street. The fumes spread over a considerable part of lower Manhattan before the fire was under control.

Those overcome were Firemen James Bach, Thomas McAvoy, Edward Wallace and Thomas Lane, all of Engine 7. All except Lane were able to return to duty after being revived. Lane was taken home after an ambulance surgeon had treated him.

Lipton, Visiting Walker, Invites Him on Yacht, But Canny Mayor Balks at 15 Pence a Night

Sir Thomas Lipton called at City Hall yesterday to ask Mayor Walker what was the use in keeping the America's Cup in the United States when the Americans had really nothing worth while to put in it.

"I hear you're going to do a little lifting this time," the Mayor said, as he shook hands heartily with the 80-year-old veteran of yachting.

"I'll give you a look at the cup if I win it," said Sir Thomas.

"A look at it!" said the Mayor, laughing. "That's all you've had at it for years. This time you'll be able to take more liberties with it than just letting people look at it."

The British sportsman invited the Mayor to be his guest on the yacht Erin during the international yacht race.

"That's a lovely invitation," declared the Mayor.

"I'll make you very comfortable, and I'll charge you but 15 pence a night. That will include your breakfast," Sir Thomas said.

With a canny gleam in his eye, the Mayor started to dicker about the price, declaring that times were hard. Sir Thomas thought it over for a few seconds and said:

"I'll throw threepence off and make it a shilling a night."

The Mayor recalled that he had met Sir Thomas on several happy occasions in Europe.

"There were two other purveyors of household articles there," the Mayor reminisced with a far-away look. "They were Lord Dewar and Lord Usher, and you, feeling the absence of a Walker, invited me."

After the visit indoors the Mayor and Sir Thomas posed for photographers on the steps. The sportsman received an enthusiastic reception from a large crowd gathered in the plaza. He goes to New London this morning to inspect the Shamrock V.

SEVEN ARE INDICTED IN OCEAN COUNTY

Action Follows Testimony of Seven Witnesses at Grand Jury Investigation.

NAMES ARE WITHHELD

Freeholder, Welcoming Inquiry, Says County Is "Lily White" Treasurer and Clerk Testify.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Aug. 19.—The Ocean County Grand Jury, which has been investigating alleged vice conditions here, handed up seven indictments today to Common Pleas Judge Arthur Gorman Gallagher. The nature of the indictments and the defendants named in them were not revealed. The indictments were turned over to John L. Holmes, Sheriff of the county.

Seven witnesses who appeared before the examining body included Howard Applegate, Freeholder; Theodore B. Cronmer, treasurer of Ocean County; Fred G. Bunnell, clerk of the Board of Freeholders, and Roy Pettit, editor of The Lakewood Free Press.

Robert H. McCarter, Deputy Attorney General, represented the State at today's hearing.

Before testifying before the grand jury Mr. Applegate said he would tell the investigators that he knew Ocean County to be as nearly "lily white" as any county in New Jersey. He said also that he did not fear an investigation of the Board of Freeholders, but would welcome it.

Mr. Bunnell, the clerk, said he was prepared to explain that the resolution adopted by the Freeholders on July 24, calling for the resignation of the grand jury, had been amended after a meeting with Justice Joseph L. Bodine at Trenton that evening. Eight words were added, he said, as follows: "and request the dismissal of the grand jury."

Harold Walburn, a certified public accountant, has been engaged by the grand jury to check up on the oil contracts and shipments of the Board of Freeholders, and began working on the books this morning.

KENNY PLANS METERING BID

Creditors' Meeting Adjourns to Await Contractor's Return.

William F. Kenny, building contractor, is planning to bid for the properties of the Meter Service Corporation, which has been in the hands of the Irving Trust Company as receiver since June 28, it was indicated yesterday at a meeting of creditors of the corporation called by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman.

David P. Landis, of counsel for the receiver, explained that Mr. Kenny would return from Europe within the next ten days, and that a plan for taking over the affairs of the corporation might be worked out by him along generous lines. At Mr. Landis's request and the request of former Supreme Court Justice John B. Delehanty, attorney for Mr. Kenny, Judge Coleman adjourned the meeting for three weeks.

The meeting had been called to consider a motion to make the receivership permanent. Mr. Landis explained that under the Kenny plan landlords, holders of notes, preferred stockholders and others would be reimbursed for losses they have sustained.

PERSIA WILL NOT JOIN TURKEY AGAINST KURDS

Turks Consider Reply—Lone Persian Attack on Tribes Is Seen as Friendly Move.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, Aug. 19.—Though the Turkish Cabinet Ministers are gathering at the Summer resort of Yalova to take a decision regarding the reply to the second Persian note in which Persia refused to take mutual action against the Kurds, the recent actions of Persian troops are regarded as a proof of good-will.

It is reported that Persian soldiers have pursued rebel bands in the interior after sharp battles, and that Persian forces stationed at Makou, where the Djelali tribesmen are strongest, are engaging in repressive measures. It is rumored that one of the most prominent tribal leaders, Youssouf Aptal, is a prisoner under a heavy guard at Tabriz.

All the Persian side of Little Ararat is occupied by Persian troops, cutting off the fugitives from Big Ararat. The Turkish advance guards have found many Kurdish corpses in the caves in conditions indicating the men had died of starvation.

Many frontier tribes have offered their services to Turkey, but the government has not found it necessary to accept, as the Kurds' attacks are apparently dwindling in importance.

In the latest skirmishes forty armed bandits unsuccessfully attacked the military post at Kotchviran, and the gendarmerie dispersed an attack in the Soroudj district, near the Syrian frontier.

CAREY LEADS IN WYOMING.

Tops Republican Field of Four in Senatorship Contest.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 19 (AP).—Former Governor Robert D. Carey was leading a field of four for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, long term, on the basis of returns from twenty-three of the 680 precincts in the State reporting in today's Wyoming primary.

The vote was: Carey 321, Winter 246, Deming 43, Walls 29.

Returns from the first precinct showed Carey leading also for the Senatorial short term.

Mr. Walls, former Attorney General, favors repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Deming, a Cheyenne publisher, is a former president of the United States Civil Service Commission, and Mr. Winter is a former Representative in Congress. The Republican Senatorial race was the outstanding one. There was no contest on the Democratic side.

FALLS OFF STEAMER, SAVED.

Fall River Man Rescued in Sound After Unexplained Plunge.

After plunging overboard from the Fall River Line steamer Commonwealth about 9 o'clock last night, a passenger, identified as Leo A. Dougherty of Fall River, was rescued from drowning in Long Island Sound, near Oldfield Point Lighthouse, by a lifeboat crew from the Colonial Line steamer Concord, according to radio messages received here by the Police Department and the Radio Corporation of America.

The message did not explain the manner in which Dougherty went overboard. In answer to radio calls, the Concord, bound for New Bedford from New York, and the New England Line steamer Plymouth stood by, turned on powerful searchlights and lowered rescue crews in lifeboats. The Concord sent a message at 9:32 P. M., announcing that Dougherty had been picked up and "was still alive and will be all right." He will be taken to New Bedford this morning.

JURY IN DOYLE CASE LOCKED FOR NIGHT

this difference which have been disputed by the defense.

The data were turned over to the jurors and they pondered on them for another hour. At 7 o'clock they were taken out for dinner, returning to the jury room at 8.

Judge Martineau had left the Federal Building, giving instructions that he was to be called back to the court to receive a verdict up to 11 P. M.

Doyle, in company with his attorneys, waited in a corridor outside the court room, occasionally pacing up and down, but most of the time seated in the semi-darkness on the steps of a rear stairway.

The jury received the case at 5:06 o'clock after taking of testimony had been reopened briefly in the morning and Alfred J. Talley and United States Attorney Tuttle had summed up for the defense and prosecution. The charge of Judge John E. Martineau was brief.

Mr. Tuttle, in summing up, pictured Doyle as a "veterinary who rose to be a millionaire," and who exacted "tribute" for appearing before the Board of Standards and Appeals. He referred to the testimony of cash payments to Doyle, and, asserting that Doyle's whole method of doing business was "furtive," asked where Doyle's split fees went.

"This case," he said, "is more than a mere matter of figures. It has more significance than that. It is against the background of his collection of almost $400,000 in fees in three years that we must approach it. The character of his business must be considered. Read the letter he wrote to the Treasury Department outlining his career and you will observe the enormous success of the business of this man whose practice was dealing in special favors."

Mr. Tuttle went on to assert that the defense offered by the veterinarian was "legal legerdemain" and centring his attack on the "character" of Doyle's practice, referred to evidence that the defendant had never rendered a single bill for the large sum in fees collected, nor had he given any receipt for the cash payments he got.

"I say that shows which way the wind blows," declared the United States Attorney. "A man does not do business this way unless he has something to conceal. He is trying to squirm out by a legal technicality. We have shown by testimony of payments in cash, and checks cashed at the bank by Doyle, that he received a total of $144,975 in cash in all in those three years."

Mr. Tuttle said the government had experienced difficulty in getting some of the witnesses to tell of the cash payments to Doyle and added: "They knew people would wonder why the payments were made in cash."

Compares Testimony and Deposits.

Taking up the assertion of former Judge Talley that some of the witnesses who testified to cash payments to Doyle had not really made them, but had used the money for some other purpose, the United States Attorney asked if the defense intended to characterize these witnesses as "liars."

Running down a list of the cash payments which the defense disputed, Mr. Tuttle compared the dates mentioned in this testimony with Doyle's deposit slips. He brought out that in almost every instance Doyle had deposited on the following day the checks received for those cases and cash amounts totaling about one-third of the cash payments testified to.

Mr. Tuttle said that the defense had offered no contradiction to government testimony that during the past three years Doyle received a total of $389,220 in fees and that he had declared only $229,075 in his tax returns. For 1929, the only year involved in the evasion count, he said, Doyle had received $95,083 and declared only $76,800. Efforts of the defense to cut this down by disputing the cash payment testimony, he said, were fruitless in the face of the deposit slips.

On the perjury counts, Mr. Tuttle said the evidence of the government witnesses was credible and he pointed out that Doyle's son, who told of seeing Doyle sign the 1927 and 1928 returns in his home in the presence of William A. Ruddy, a Brooklyn Internal Revenue agent, was counterbalanced by his admission that he did not know whether Doyle or Ruddy had taken the returns away. He contended that the defense had never presented any real evidence to meet the government's case.

Calls Testimony Valueless.

Mr. Talley, in summing up, took up the perjury indictments first and said that the testimony of the Internal Revenue agents, who said that Doyle appeared before them and swore to the 1927 and 1928 returns, was valueless. He pointed out that in their first appearance they had admitted that they had handled so many returns that their only reason for believing Doyle appeared before them was that it was their regular practice to have the return attested only when the man put in a personal appearance to take the oath.

"Now, with respect to 1929," said Mr. Talley. "Here is what we come down to. The government claims Doyle got $95,083 and what we reported was $76,800. The difference is $18,283. We are charged with attempting to evade the tax on that sum which would amount to about $1,700.

"With respect to this $18,283 we showed by testimony that we paid out in commissions $2,900 and that is then taken off the difference and then we also deduct $678 in interest we paid the bank which the government accountant finally admitted we paid.

"Now with respect to the 1929 payments, this reduces the difference to $16,740. I want to call attention to the items of this sum that we dispute."

Mr. Talley went on to enumerate the cash payments for that year testified to by Ely Maran, Bronx builder; Mrs. Lottie Cutler, Louis Haas of the Lefcourt interests and others. These sums under dispute, he said, totaled $12,500.

"So that we come down to these figures," he said, "that when we deduct all these from the $18,283 difference we find that the actual difference between the amount Doyle received and what he declared in his tax return is only $2,208. So we come down to that and you are asked to stamp the defendant as a criminal for that amount."

All the cash payments testified to in 1929, he averred, were not worthy of belief because they were "not backed up by credible witnesses." He charged that these witnesses had reasons of their own for saying they paid these fees in cash to Doyle and that they had never done so. Doyle, he said, had provided valuable service for the work he did and had conducted his business openly.

Judge Points Out Issues.

Judge Martineau, in his charge, confined himself to the counts remaining in the indictment and what the government had to prove to get a conviction. He directed the jurors to ignore anything but the strict issues of perjury and tax evasion for 1929.

"Why these clients paid the fees and the question of whether Doyle violated a State law or a city ordinance or any other law is not material," he said.

The four witnesses who testified in the morning when Mr. Tuttle reopened his case brought to an end just two weeks of testimony, mostly by about 100 clients whom Doyle represented before the Standards Board during the chairmanship of William E. Walsh, also under indictment for tax evasion.

William J. Cullen and Winant Gough, the Internal Revenue agents who testified to Doyle's swearing to the 1927 and 1928 returns, were recalled to affirm this, and Assistant United States Attorney Felix was summoned to tell of an unsuccessful search for Ruddy, the agent mentioned in the testimony of Louis Doyle, the veterinarian's son. Then Mr. Talley called William P. Doyle Jr., another son, to strike at the credibility of Cullen, who had said that Doyle's wife had appeared before him to swear to her tax return. The son said that his mother was in Aiken, S. C., on that day, as he had received a box of candy from her postmarked that day while he was at Notre Dame University.

MILLS, BACK, DENIES HE STUDIED TARIFF

Treasury Official, Home From Mediterranean Cruise, Says He Had No "Mission."

DISCUSSED FRENCH TAX

Finds Efforts Being Made to Alleviate Double Levy on Concerns Here—Mrs. Pratt Returns.

Every effort is being made here and in France to alleviate the French double extraterritorial tax on American corporations with subsidiaries in France, Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, said last night on his return from Europe.

Mr. Mills came back on the White Star liner Olympic, accompanied by Mrs. Mills, his three stepchildren; Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, Representative from New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay of New York, all of whom have been with him on a vacation trip abroad, most of which was spent on the Mediterranean.

While abroad Mr. Mills discussed the double tax, which he called "particularly burdensome to American competition," with former Senator Walter E. Edge, now American Ambassador to France. He said his conversations with Ambassador Edge had been unofficial and denied further that he had gone abroad as an emissary of President Hoover to sound out foreign opinion on the American tariff.

Mr. Mills was disinclined to discuss topics pertinent to American and European commercial conditions, declaring that he actually had no right to do so, inasmuch as he had been on a vacation and was, therefore, out of touch with things.

Finds Tax Situation Involved.

"I don't think it is right for me to try to talk about that tax because it is such an involved situation, in which experts are endeavoring to place it on a reciprocity basis to alleviate the condition," Mr. Mills said. "I am not entirely conversant with it nor with conditions abroad generally."

When asked if, in his talks with foreign leaders, he had gleaned any idea of the extent of business depression in Europe, he replied that he had been in the middle of the Mediterranean for five weeks and could not get a "very good idea of business from there."

He was asked about reports from Washington that he would sound out Europe on the American tariff and replied that he knew "absolutely nothing" about it.

Mr. Mills said he and his wife had been on the yacht Sans Peur, owned by the Duke of Sutherland, and for five weeks the yacht cruised in the Mediterranean. Mrs. Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. McKay were with them, he added.

When the revenue cutter went down to meet the Olympic at Quarantine on board were Philip Elting, Collector of the Port of New York; Thomas Whittle, Surveyor of the Port, and Frederick J. H. Kracke, Port Appraiser, who went to meet Mr. Mills. Mr. Mills was invited to board the cutter at Quarantine and proceed to the Battery ahead of the Olympic, but he declined and said he preferred to go on to the West Eighteenth Street pier as the other passengers of the Olympic would do, so those who met him went on board the liner and accompanied him to the dock.

Ship Delayed at Quarantine.

In so doing, the government party had a good opportunity to study port conditions and facilities for landing ships from Europe. The Olympic, which reached Quarantine at 3:08 P. M., was forced to remain there for more than three hours because the government mail boats which take off the mail at Quarantine for distribution were late in reaching the liner's side.

Officers and passengers were growing impatient at the unusual delay by the time the liner got under way at 6:22. The ship, due several hours earlier, finally reached her dock a little before 8 o'clock.

Mr. Mills and the port authorities hurried down the gangway and left the pier as soon as the formalities of stamping the baggage were completed. Mr. Mills said he would go directly to Washington.

Mrs. Pratt said she had had the first real vacation in several years. She will stay in New York and organize the work of her coming campaign, which will not get under way officially until after the primaries. Of her opponents she said she did not know Magistrate Louis D. Brodsky, and knew Heywood Broun only through his writings.

J. Griswold Webb, chairman of the New York State Aviation Commission, which coordinates State and Federal flying regulations, returned after a brief trip abroad. He said that, except for Germany, the United States equaled any country in aviation.

Others on the liner were Andrew Goodman, vice president of Bergdorff-Goodman, Lady Duff-Cooper and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

LAWYER HELD FOR ASSAULT

Lockhart's Bail Fixed at $1,500 on Charge of Cutting Woman.

Leslie S. Lockhart, a former Assistant District Attorney and Deputy Attorney General with law offices at 49 Chambers Street, who was arrested Monday night charged with attacking one of his clients, Mrs. Kate Shea, with a razor in her apartment at 1,072 Lexington Avenue, was held in $1,500 bail for a hearing Friday when arraigned on a short affidavit alleging felonious assault before Magistrate Dreyer in Yorkville court yesterday. The affidavit was signed by Detective Gilman of the East Sixty-seventh Street station.

Mrs. Shea was not in court. Her wrist was cut severely and, although she was not in a hospital, it was said her condition was serious. The lawyer has refused to answer questions concerning the slashing charge, according to the police.

RECEIVER FOR CLOTHIERS.

Lack of Liquid Assets Alleged Against Askin Brothers.

The Irving Trust Company and Samuel A. Bergen were appointed equity receivers yesterday for a chain of thirty-five clothing stores operated and controlled by Charles Askin of Mount Vernon and his brother, Joseph S. Askin, in New York and the Southern and Middle Western States.

The petition listed assets at $785,000, including $575,000 in instalment accounts, $160,000 in merchandise inventory and $50,000 in furniture and equipment. In addition, there are listed as of doubtful value accounts receivable amounting to $400,000. No liabilities are listed, but lack of liquid assets is advanced as the cause of the defendant's alleged inability to meet demands of creditors.

ROTOR AIRCRAFT, WINGLESS, IS TESTED

Ship, Adapted to Principle of Locomotion by Currents, Built Secretly Here.

REPORTED FLOWN ALREADY

H. E. Talbott Jr. and W. P. Chrysler Are Said to Be Backers of the Inventors.

WORK CLOSELY GUARDED

Construction Done Aboard a Barge Off Mamaroneck—Method Studied in Early Days by Wrights.

A wingless aircraft, an aeronautical adaptation of the Flettner rotor ship, which, if proved practical, promises to eclipse any aerial vehicle thus far built, is being secretly developed on Long Island Sound off Mamaroneck, it was revealed yesterday.

Backed by a group of New York financiers, three inventors and three assistants have lived in secret, built their new-type all-metal craft and conducted their experiments from a barge moored near Hen Island. Success in making several flights with the machine has been reported, although the project is surrounded by mystery, which neither the inventors nor the backers would clear yesterday.

One of the financiers was revealed as Harold Elstner Talbott Jr. of 230 Park Avenue, and on good authority it was learned that Walter P. Chrysler also was associated with the project.

At the offices of Mr. Chrysler it was said that he had not contributed toward the cost of producing the first all-metal craft now on the barge from the funds of the Chrysler Corporation and that nothing was known of his connection with the experiments. At Mr. Talbott's offices the secret was as closely guarded.

Inventors Are Isolated.

The glistening duralumin flying machine stood on the deck of the barge as a witness of financial support of the venture. Neither telephone nor telegraph connected the base with land, and the only communication with the outside world was evidenced by the small ferry yawl operated near the barge by A. H. Moody of Mamaroneck. Moody said the three men lived aboard the barge and rarely came ashore except for food and construction materials. He added that they had requested him not to pass close to the barge on his trips to Hen Island unless he had business with them.

Despite the reticence of those connected with the inventors and backers, the machine has been seen by several persons who have sufficient knowledge of aircraft to understand their principles of operation.

Aside from the elimination of the wing, it is similar in appearance to a seaplane. A single motor in the nose supplies traction through a three-bladed steel propeller. An auxiliary air-cooled Gypsy motor supplies power to rotate the cylinders which replace the wings.

These rotors, the central mechanism of the new theory of flight, are in four sections, two on each side of the centre longitudinal line of the craft. Forward is an outrigged rudder and behind is a small pair of tandem cockpits, together with a set of tail surfaces similar to those now in use on planes. Between the motor and the cockpits two long booms are used in place of the usual four longerons. The undercarriage, or landing gear, is of the usual design, and on the present model Edo floats are used. At the Edo Manufacturing Company it was learned yesterday that several pairs had been used and that one was badly smashed in a rough landing, indicating that the machine had risen considerably from the water on one of its flights.

Two-Foot Rotor Cylinders.

The individual rotors are closed at the ends by flanges which are much larger than the cylinders. The diameter of the cylinders is more than two feet, while the flanges are about four. The total span of the rotors is somewhat less than the wing span of conventional planes, thus requiring less storage space.

It has been declared that the machine will lift nearly ten times the load of an airplane of equal weight or lift area, and at the same time reduce the resistance so that greater speed will be possible when structural details for strength have been carried out.

When Anton Flettner crossed the Atlantic in 1924 in his rotorship Baden-Baden with no other power than that supplied by the wind against his two tall whirling stacks aeronautical designers predicted that the principle would be made applicable to aircraft. With simple formulae they arrived at conclusions showing pressures in many thousands of pounds at speeds lower than 500 revolutions a minute on the rotors.

Even before the rotorship was developed the Wright brothers showed considerable interest in whirling cylinders to obtain lifting power. When in Paris in conference with officials of the French Government, shortly after they had flown for the first time, they played the game of pra diavolo with children in the gardens. They became so proficient at whirling the small spools on strings the aviation pioneers were able to manoeuvre the spools more than 100 feet in the air. After sailing a whirling cylinder for a time the two brothers made notes and conferred with each other. Their conclusions have not become known.

The principle involved is one of changing the direction of air pressures and currents. It is built around the phenomenon that a whirling cylinder in an air stream sets up a high vacuum perpendicular to the direction of the current of air. A slight pressure is also present on the opposite side of the cylinder. In the ship the current was supplied by the wind.

Principle of Operation.

In the airplane, however, it was pointed out that the wind currents are higher and more constant when supplied by the resistance to the fast motion forward and augmented by the slipstream of the propeller. With regard to these forces inventors assert that the resultant force, diverted from one of locomotion to one of lift, becomes greater in multiples of the velocity, a progression which soon becomes powerful as the speed increases. The methods of control and details of construction are still in the early stages of experiment, and the present model is constructed along lines similar to conventional types, it was said, only because no better or more logical method has yet been evolved.

If several more test flights are successful, it is planned to demonstrate the new aircraft publicly within the next few weeks, it was learned yesterday, when the present method of control will be used, while further experiments will be conducted with other systems for regulating the direction and speed of flight.

R-101 BEING REFITTED FOR VOYAGE TO INDIA

Changes Increase Lifting Power and Reduce the Sleeping Accommodations.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The British airship R-101 is rapidly being completed for her pioneer voyage to India with Lord Thomson, the Air Minister, aboard.

The problem now under consideration is that of starting up her new crude oil engines, which are too heavy to be swung over by hand. Small auxiliary gasoline engines ordinarily are employed but in its desire that no gasoline shall be carried on this trip through the tropics the Air Ministry is experimenting with tiny crude oil engines to act as starter motors.

When the airship is reconditioned her lift will be about 172 tons compared with the 156 of the R-100.

The sleeping accommodations originally provided for 100 persons are now being reduced to fifty-two. The various modifications have been made necessary by the great changes in temperature the airship will experience while passing through the tropics and therefore in the lifting power of the gas.

On the homeward trip from India the airship will have to be far more lightly loaded than on the outward trip, for she will start back in a hot climate, gradually working her way into colder temperatures where the gas will contract and lose some of its lifting power.

Air Pilots Average $550 a Month.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Remuneration of airmail and passenger pilots was described as having reached a fair level in a survey by the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, which was made public today by Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics. The average monthly pay for airmail and passenger pilots was put at $550. The average monthly base pay was of $189, plus additions for each mile flown. Payments on a mileage basis averaged 5 cents a mile for day flying and 10 cents a mile for night flying. The highest monthly average of $850 was paid by one line to its night airmail pilots.

FIX ABRAHAM'S TIME BY PALESTINE FINDS

Jehoiakim, who reigned a few years before Nebuchadnezzar's destruction.

"In modern times Nebuchadnezzar stands as the symbol of military ruthlessness, although in fact his destruction was less terrible than any of the others of these ten burnings. The Israelites, for example, destroyed the city at the time of the conquest of Canaan so thoroughly that they destroyed all traces of it, but Nebuchandezzar left walls four or five feet high."

Dr. Kyle said it was possible in the course of his excavations to establish conclusively the date of the story of Abraham and Lot and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, which never before has been done. He continued:

"Early in the eighteenth century B. C. the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah parallels the break in the history of civilization in the Jordan Valley. Everything terminates at that point, and for 2,500 years thereafter there are no traces of history of the lower Jordan Valley. The pottery uncovered there is that of the early Bronze Age.

"At Kirjath Sepher the expedition found this year in the first city exactly the same kind of early Bronze Era pottery as that discovered in cities of the Jordan plain, which proves a contemporaneous civilization. At the beginning of the present century Professor Macalister found similar pottery pieces at Gezer. In the same layer of débris Professor Macalister found Egyptian remains from the twelfth and thirteenth dynasties, similar to the Kirjath Sepher finds, which have been accurately dated in early nineteenth century B. C. Therefore Abraham and Lot came to Canaan from Chaldea in the late twentieth century or early nineteenth century B. C."

Found House Like Lot's.

Dr. Kyle said it was possible to confirm that the Abraham and Lot story was true, because he found a house such as that described in the scriptural narrative of Lot and the angels, with a strong door capable of resisting onslaughts of a mob.

"This disproves the contentions that the story of Lot and the angels was written in King Hezekiah's period in the city of the Kings of Judah about 700 to 600 B. C. because the sociological and political conditions differ," he asserted.

"In the last city on the mound there is evidence of adequate police arrangement in the fact that no doors were found, merely arches with curtains or light coverings, whereas in Lot's time many heavy doors were uncovered, proving the people took their own defense precautions. It is unlikely that a historian of the time of Hezekiah would appreciate such a subtle distinction in sociological conditions, proving the biblical narration that Lot actually harbored celestial visitors from the fury of an attacking Sodom mob."

Dr. Kyle said he hoped to resume excavations in 1932 to elicit further conclusive biblical proofs.

ANCIENT JEWISH INN FOUND.

Hospice Uncovered in Palestine Dates Back 1,400 Years.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19.—An ancient Jewish hospice dating from pre-Mohammedan, post aelia capitolina times was uncovered today by the Jewish Archaeological Expedition excavating in Upper Galilee.

The expedition, headed by Isaac Benzvi, the Jewish labor leader and archaeologist, uncovered a door bearing an Aramaic inscription indicating that the building was a hotel of the Talmudical period, probably in the third to sixth centuries of the Christian era.

1929 AIRCRAFT OUTPUT VALUED AT $61,973,079

Rose From $21,161,853 in 1927—5,306 Planes of All Types Produced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The value of aircraft and parts manufactured in 1929 by establishments in the United States primarily engaged in such production was $61,973,079, the Bureau of the Census has announced as a result of data collected in the census of manufactures. This was an increase of 192.9 per cent over 1927, the last preceding census year, when the figure was $21,161,853.

In the 1929 output were 5,130 airplanes, valued at $38,724,987; 176 seaplanes and amphibians, valued at $5,949,671; 6,188 parachutes, valued at $1,734,602; 14,184 propellers, valued at $2,040,299; other complete aircraft, $639,990; airplane parts and engines made for sale as such, $8,187,285; repair and experimental work, $3,387,269; other products, $1,605,976.

The survey covered 117 establishments, as compared with seventy in 1927, and employing an average number of 9,856 wage earners in 1929, as compared with 4,422 in 1927. Money paid in wages during 1929 amounted to $18,804,527, an increase of 174.2 per cent over 1927, when the total wages amounted to $6,857,014.

The cost of materials used in manufacture, including fuel and purchased electric current, was $24,719,846. A value of $37,253,233 was added to the materials used as a result of manufacture.

5 LAND IN BURNING PLANE.

Passengers Fight Fire as Pilot Dives Craft in Michigan.

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 19 (AP).—While his four passengers—one of them a woman—protected him and themselves with fire extinguishers, Bernard Rawson, 22, a Bay City, Mich., pilot, yesterday safely landed a burning airplane from a height of 3,000 feet.

Rawson, handling a cabin monoplane for the Aircraft Corporation, was taking the passengers from Cleveland to Bay City. Near here, Cleo Slagle and Miss Florence Davis, on the front seat, discovered the fire and called to Rawson.

While the pilot dropped, looking for a landing place, Slagle, Miss Davis and the other passengers—George Commons and Bousfield Ward—seized fire extinguishers and kept the flames out of the cabin.

After dropping 2,500 feet Rawson saw that the blaze was growing more serious and landed at once, barely missing a hedge fence. A few minutes after the five left the plane it was wrecked by a gasoline explosion. Except for scratches due to their hurried exit, the occupants of the plane were unhurt. All of the passengers live in Bay City.

Airways Flier Killed at Tampa.

TAMPA, Aug. 19 (AP).—Phillips S. Neff, an aviator of Jacksonville, was fatally injured in an airplane crash today. He was a pilot for the Tropical Airways Corporation of Jacksonville, and was flying an Aeronca plane. He arrived at the Municipal Field from Orlando, and when he took off again a gust of wind got under a wing and turned his plane over fifty feet from the ground. Neff came to Jacksonville from Norfolk, Va., about a month ago. He formerly was a navy flier.

FALSE RUMOR OF TAX DELAYS DO-X FLIGHT

Dornier Hears Huge Plane Faces $180,000 Levy Here, but Washington Denies It.

EVERY FACILITY PROMISED

German Company Holds Any Big Impost Would Make Trip Here Impossible.

By GUIDO ENDERIS.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 19.—An unverified report here that the United States Government intends to levy a 30 per cent aircraft duty on the great seaplane DO-X, has led the Dornier Company to consider abandoning the flight of the giant twelve-motor craft to New York next month, it was learned today.

The trials which have been going on for the past ten days for the purpose of testing the new American motors have progressed sufficiently to permit the Dornier Company to make active preparations for taking the plane to Travemuende, from where the start was to be made for Southampton, Havre, Santander and Lisbon. From the last place the DO-X would take off for the Azores, Bermuda, and the Statue of Liberty, where it was proposed to make its final landing.

In view of the possible imposition of a heavy import duty, which based on the plane's estimated value of $600,000, would amount to about $180,000, the Dornier Company may now have to abandon the trip, as it says such a levy would make the flight impossible.

Though the nature of the levy has not been explained here, it is assumed that in view of the Dornier Company's intention of making a series of exhibition and passenger flights with the DO-X from New York to Detroit, Bermuda and other convenient points for revenue the plane would come within the scope of the American tariff regulations unless a special ruling was rendered by the department.

The Dornier Company, it is learned, has taken the matter under advisement and is awaiting word from Washington.

The company has been put to heavy expenses in getting the DO-X into shape for its transatlantic flight, which, with insurance premiums, is expected to cost about $150,000. The company takes the attitude that the flight is wholly in the nature of a scientific and experimental enterprise and as such should not come under the tariff regulations.

If the plans which have been tentatively drafted are carried out, the Prince of Wales may be invited to make the trip from Southampton to Havre. The King of Spain has also indicated a desire to participate in a short-distance flight between some of the European ports of call.

Washington Denies Levy Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Reports from Germany that the transatlantic flight of the DO-X had been postponed because the United States Government proposed to levy a 30 per cent duty on the plane brought emphatic denials tonight from Federal aviation and customs officials. They asserted, that, on the contrary, they would render every possible aid to make the proposed ocean flight of the huge Dornier plane a complete success.

Surprise that such a report should have originated was expressed by both the Bureau of Customs of the Treasury Department, which has jurisdiction over customs duties, and the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, which enforces regulations over commercial aircraft. In both instances, officials said they would stretch red tape to the limit, if necessary, to admit the Dornier machine.

Customs officials said they would no more think of imposing a tariff against the DO-X than against the Graf Zeppelin, or against an automobile entering from Canada. They said they would do nothing to interfere with international air commerce and would certainly refrain from efforts to hamper a flight so important in the progress of aviation.

Liberal Policy Assured.

It is possible that an entrance bond may be levied against the DO-X, whether she carries passengers or not, but it is said this would be only a nominal bond and would not be prohibitive in any way. The most liberal policy would be followed as to the bond, it was asserted.

At the Aeronautics Branch of the Commerce Department, it was said, many consultations had been held with officials of the German company regarding the airplane's entrance but that nothing had developed to indicate that any duty would be imposed by this government. Officials of the branch said they were sure that representatives of the company would bear them out in the statement that the United States Government eagerly awaited the flight of the DO-X and wished the plane the best of luck.

Some of the government experts wondered whether the reported postponement might not be due to a decision to make some change in the design of the plane.

Company Here Not Notified.

A representative of the General Aviation Corporation, of which the Dornier Corporation of America is a wholly owned subsidiary, said last night that no intimation had been received at the offices of either company here that the DO-X would be taxed at all on its prospective voyage to America.

"If a tariff was planned for this experimental plane on its first trip to America I think we should have been notified," he said. "I doubt very much if any such charge will be made."

DEEGAN TO OPEN DRIVE ON WEST SIDE TODAY

Plans to Take a Short Rest Before Extending Tenement Clean-Up to Brooklyn.

The drive to wipe out violations of the tenement house law in New York City continued yesterday with special attention being paid, as on Monday, to the Manhattan area east of Fifth Avenue from Eightieth Street to 133d Street and the Harlem River. Since William F. Deegan, Tenement House Commissioner, wishes no delay in beginning today the intensive drive for that part of Manhattan west of Fifth Avenue north of Fourteenth Street, he did not call for the usual morning reports from the inspectors engaged in making the clean-up yesterday and therefore had at hand no more figures than were available the day before.

Mr. Deegan announced that he planned to obey his dictor's orders, given a few weeks ago after the commissioner had collapsed in his office from a heart attack, and go on a short vacation. He hopes to leave tomorrow.

As soon as he returns, Mr. Deegan said yesterday, he will map plans for clean-up campaigns in other parts of the city and may from time to time go over territory already covered in order to weed out second offenders. According to present plans, Brooklyn will come in for attention next week or shortly afterward and at that time Commissioner Deegan expects to go over to Brooklyn and be in personal charge of the work done by the inspectors. He will use more than 100 men, many from the other four boroughs, he said.

The drive which opens today is west of Fifth Avenue from Fourteenth Street to 110th Street, and also west of Fifth Avenue from 110th to 155th Street, including Manhattan, Edgecombe and St. Nicholas Avenues. Stills, blocked fire escapes and locked doors leading to roofs will receive special attention.

NEW DRESS STRIKE NEAR.

7,000 Workers on Children's Wear Plan to Walk Out Next Week.

Organized manufacturers of infants' and children's wear will reply tonight to demands of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union for wage increases, the 42-hour, five-day week and abolition of sweatshop conditions for 7,000 children's dressmakers employed in the trade.

A general strike within the trade is predicted for early next week, union officials admitted yesterday, declaring that they will make strenuous attempts to stabilize the industry, the greater part of which is admittedly non-union. Only 1,500 of the 7,000 workers are members of Local 91, Children's Dressmakers' Union, which is affiliated with the International.

The conference, which will be held tonight at 3 West Sixteenth Street, is not expected to avert the general walkout. Union officials declared, however, that the strike's duration would be dependent upon the answer they receive from the organized employers.

STRIKERS THREATEN BOSS.

Leaders Dissuade Bessemer City (N. C.) Men From Attack.

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Aug. 19 (AP).—Striking employes of the American Mills, local textile plants, today attempted to drag George R. Spencer, general superintendent, from his automobile, but were dissuaded by strike leaders.

The workers said they held Spencer responsible for a wage slash in the mills, which precipitated a walkout yesterday. The mills are owned by Frank, Max and Robert Goldberg of Gastonia. The strikers are not union members.

Mr. Spencer, confirming reports that workmen had laid hands upon him, also said a girl who had wished to continue at work had been roughly handled by pickets.

Pizzoni Extradition Papers Signed.

ALBANY, Aug. 19 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt today signed papers for the extradition to Detroit, Mich., of Ted Pizzoni, wanted in Detroit in connection with the murder of Jerry Buckley, radio announcer. The application for extradition was brought here last week by a representative of the Detroit Police Department. Pizzoni's attorneys today withdrew their request for a hearing, and the papers were prepared without further delay. Pizzoni is now in the Bronx County jail.

AIMEE M'PHERSON IN RUMOR TANGLE

Reported Dying, Nearly Blind, Having Face Lifted and in Fight With Mother.

"BREAK-DOWN" ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Kennedy Accuses Evangelist of Fracturing Her Nose—Doctor Denies Most Tales.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—"Sister McPherson is dying!" exclaimed Miss Harriett Jordan, her assistant, late today as she raced from Angelus Temple to a waiting car and sped away for Malibu Beach, where the evangelist is sequestered in a cottage.

"I mean just that," Miss Jordan insisted when asked to repeat her statement.

The assertion was the latest sensation tonight in a maelstrom of rumors, partial confirmation, denials and repudiations that have swirled about Angelus Temple for twenty-four hours concerning the true condition of Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Hundreds joined in continuous prayer and fasting at the Temple in its leader's behalf.

A 3 P. M. bulletin at the Temple stated that Mrs. McPherson had suffered a "serious sinking spell" and was in a precarious condition.

The evangelist was totally blind and delirious most of the time, defying two nurses to restrain her, according to Miss Emma Schafer, her secretary for five years, who arrived from Malibu this morning.

Tells of Nervous Breakdown.

"This is the final blow of a nervous breakdown that struck Sister McPherson all of a sudden two weeks ago Saturday. Her optic nerve began to be affected and her sight began to dim," Miss Schafer said.

Quite another version of the case came from Mrs. Kennedy, who is at the Brentwood Sanitarium here, recuperating from a face-lifting operation and nursing a broken nose. The latter, she said, was sustained during an altercation with her daughter at the temple on July 31, when Mrs. Kennedy definitely severed all connection with the local institution to leave for Olympia, Wash., where she has established a new church of her own.

"I came here for a face lifting operation and so did Mrs. McPherson," Mrs. Kennedy said. "She is right now recovering from this, and if she has gone blind it is my opinion that it is a result of infection which set in after the operation."

Mrs. Kennedy asserted that she returned to Los Angeles especially to settle up her affairs with her daughter and the temple, but that Mrs. McPherson immediately started hostilities by accusing her of circulating defamatory tales about the evangelist's character and personal conduct. Reports from Malibu state that Mrs. McPherson, in delirium, raves about her mother.

In a message to Miss Jordon, Mrs. Kennedy insisted that Mrs. McPherson leave Malibu Beach and "let members of the Temple organization see how facial surgery has improved her appearance."

Not Seriously Ill, Doctor Says.

Dr. Edward H. Williams, who attended the evangelist yesterday, announced that Mrs. McPherson was not seriously ill and would be all right in a few days. The physician denied the talk of blindness and face lifting with the remark that there was "nothing to it."

Temple attachés deny that the evangelist had her face lifted. They blame Mrs. McPherson's reported nervous collapse upon her latest difficulties with her mother, starting about five weeks ago and climaxing with a fantastic tale about some unknown person throwing a five-foot boa constrictor into Mrs. McPherson's room.

"Sister McPherson collapsed then and had five other nervous fits within five days," Miss Mae Waldron, one of the evangelist's personal secretaries, said.

The temple board of directors issued a statement reading:

"The official board wishes to confirm its statement to the papers that Mrs. McPherson is suffering a serious nervous breakdown and to say that the condition reported shows a very slight improvement this morning. We are having continuous prayer and fasting in Angelus Temple for the recovery of our pastor."

Telegrams were sent early in the day to Roberta Semple, the evangelist's daughter, now living in Paris, and her son, Rolph McPherson, now on a mid-West evangelistic tour.

MARYLAND FILING CLOSES.

Four of Representatives in Congress Are Unopposed for Primary.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19 (AP).—Four of Maryland's six Representatives will go on the November ballot without contest for renomination in the Sept. 8 primary, it developed today with the deadline for filing candidacies past at midnight.

Two of the four are the State's Republican Representatives, Frederick N. Zihlman, Sixth District, and Linwood L. Clark, Second District, while the other two are Democrats, T. Alan Goldsborough, who has served five terms from the First District, and J. Charles Linthicum, who is seeking his tenth term from the Fourth. Fights for renomination are faced by Vincent L. Palisano, Democrat, Third District, with one opponent.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, seeking re-election for a fourth term, is unopposed along with his State-wide ticket, as is the Republican State ticket headed by William F. Broening, Baltimore Mayor.

SUES MAJOR KIRKPATRICK.

Former Mary Thomas Seeks Divorce in Reno.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Mary Thomas Kirkpatrick of New York filed suit for divorce today against Major Colin Drummond Kirkpatrick, British Army officer.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick is the former Miss Mary Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Frederic C. Thomas of Cold Spring Harbor, L. I. Her marriage to Major Kirkpatrick of the Royal Artillery, son of Brig. Gen. William J. Kirkpatrick, C. B., took place at her mother's home in July, 1925.

FARM ILLS PASSING, SAYS CORNELL DEAN

Mann Tells Agricultural Economists in Ithaca Conference That Recovery Has Begun.

FARM BOARD IS PRAISED

Prof. H. C. M. Case of Illinois Calls Stimulation to Cooperation "a Great Achievement."

CROP CURTAILMENT VIEWED

Many Whose Entire Capital Is in Farms Must Get Maximum Yield to Exist, It Is Said.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Agriculture as a whole is making distinct progress toward recovery from the depression of recent years and, while some branches are still suffering serious difficulties, the general curve is in an upward direction, according to Dean A. R. Mann of the Agricultural College of Cornell University, where the second International Conference of Agricultural Economists is now in session. More than 300 experts from this and other countries are attending the conference.

"The economic depression of agriculture in the United States has affected different parts of the country and different crop areas in very different manners," said Dean Mann today.

"During recent years, when wheat and cotton farmers have suffered acutely, dairy farmers in many parts of the country, particularly in the Northeast, and until recently general live stock farmers, have been making substantial recovery from the low point of earlier years.

"That agriculture as a whole, broadly viewed, has been making progress toward recovery, even though it has come slowly, is attested by a number of facts.

"This progress, however, has been obscured by the very serious conditions confronting hay, grain and cotton farmers more particularly, and it must be remembered that hay, grain and cotton are very large items in American production."

Praise for Farm Board.

A tribute to the achievement of the Federal Farm Board in teaching the doctrine and practice of cooperation to the millions of American farmers was paid today by Professor H. C. M. Case of the University of Illinois, who is president of the American Farm Economic Association, an organization of agrarian economists and research workers.

"The results of the Federal Farm Board act cannot be judged for some time," said Professor Case. "But whatever the ultimate results of this legislation may be, we can say now that it has already achieved one great thing—the stimulation of cooperative effort among American farmers. While no figures are available, it seems to me that the Farm Board has greatly stimulated agricultural cooperation. That in itself is worth while in an industry so individualistic and involving 6,000,000 workers."

Professor Case said that it is obvious that the board will have difficulty in dealing with the troubles of large numbers of individuals whose entire capital is tied up in their farm investments. There are many such individuals with an investment of from $40,000 to $60,000, Professor Case pointed out, saying that, while it might be well for agriculture as a whole to hold back on production, there are very many whose very existence depends upon the largest possible output they can market.

Speakers at Session.

The speakers at today's session of the conference included A. N. Duckman of the Rowett Institute, Aberdeen, Scotland, who spoke on "The Possibilities of Comprehensive Surveys for Agricultural Research"; J. J. W. Seedorf, Agricultural School of the University of Göttingen, Germany, "Methods and Results of Research Work in Increasing the Efficiency of Human Labor"; W. I. Myers, Cornell University, and A. F. Vass, University of Wyoming, who dealt with "Results of Farm Management Research Work in the Northeastern States"; K. Kobayakawa, Mizaki College of Agriculture, Japan, "Tenancy Problems in Japan"; A. Jones, Midland Agricultural College, England, "The Part of the State in the Organization of Live Stock Insurance"; F. F. Hill, Cornell University, "The Relation of Various Factors to Foreclosures of Farm Mortgages in the Northeastern United States," and E. H. Wiecking, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Washington, "Factors Determining Land Values in the United States."

$1,500 DENTAL GOLD STOLEN

Bronx Robbers Also Escape With $350 After Binding Two.

Two robbers held up the Samuel J. White Dental Manufacturing Company, on the third floor of the ten-story Areco Building at 391 East 149th Street, the Bronx, yesterday morning, bound and gagged two employes and escaped with $1,500 worth of dental gold and $350 in cash.

George Egogot of 198 Nagle Avenue, manager of the office, was alone when two well-dressed young men entered. He turned to serve them and found himself covered by two pistols. The robbers compelled him to lie down behind the counter and were binding him with wire when Walter Werrich, 17 years old, of 2,461 Elm Place, an employe, entered.

After Werrich also had been bound and gagged, the intruders ransacked the open safe and fled.

Reassure Argentina on Corn Duty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP).—Assurances have been given Argentina that there will be no increase in duties on Argentine corn imported into the United States until an investigation has been made by the Tariff Commission. The assurances were contained in a message from the State Department to Robert Woods Bliss, American Ambassador in Buenos Aires, after word had reached the department of concern among Argentine exporters over the demand by Senator McNary for an increase in the duty.

Navy Bureau to Save $1,815,000 Through Efficiency Methods

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. — The Bureau of Construction and Repair of the Navy, in response to the President's insistence upon rigid economy, expects to save $1,815,000 as a result of recently instituted efficiency methods.

Captain W. P. Roberts, acting chief, in a report to Secretary Adams, said that the savings have been made possible through the use of materials on hand, simplification of design, the use of equally efficient materials costing less than those formerly in use, improvement of administrative methods and the development of less costly work processes.

The principal saving cited results from the establishment in the New York Navy Yard of a central drafting office for all working plans for the cruisers New Orleans, Astoria and Minneapolis, building respectively at the New York, Puget Sound and Philadelphia Navy Yards.

DRY LAW CONVICTS JAM FEDERAL PRISON

1,600 Leavenworth Drug Addict Inmates Are Shifted to Make Room for Influx.

Special to The New York Times.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 19.—More than 1,600 Federal prisoners, all narcotic addicts, have been transferred from the United States Penitentiary here to the former military prison at Fort Leavenworth, to make room for the steady influx of men convicted under the prohibition laws.

In the fiscal year ending in June, 1927, 2,212 convicts were received at the penitentiary, of whom 362 were liquor law violators.

In 1928 the prison received 2,471 convicts, of whom 544 were sentenced under the liquor laws.

Last year 2,398 men were committed, of whom 636 were dry law convicts, and in the fiscal year ended last June, 3,094 convicts were received, of whom 1,469, or nearly half, were dry law violators.

In the first six months of 1930, the prison received 863 liquor law violators, which exceeds the total for the fiscal years of 1927 and 1928.

The penitentiary, which was designed to house 2,000 men, now has a population in excess of 3,500. The military prison, built to accommodate 1,700, has 1,600 drug addicts. The rate of increase in this class of prisoners indicates that the growing number of narcotic users is becoming a serious problem for the government.

Girl, 12, Killed as Pistol Falls.

CARLSTADT, N. J., Aug. 19.—Hannah Beckel, 12 years old, of 690 Bergenline Avenue, West New York, was killed today in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Giovanni Marini, 634 Garden Street, here, when a pistol lying in a closet which she was cleaning fell to the floor and exploded. A bullet lodged in the girl's heart.

FOOD DEALERS GET POLICE PROTECTION

Mulrooney yesterday ordered Inspector John Lyons and a squad of specially chosen men to assist the Attorney General's office in the investigation of food racketeers.

A force of detectives has been assigned to duty in the Washington Market district, where it was revealed at the inquiry, dealers found by racketeers to be underselling or in any way opposing the will of "the gang" have been threatened with violence. Another group of men, Commissioner Mulrooney said, will go to merchants who have been threatened and will report their findings to him. He will then assign police where they are needed.

"Any storekeeper, merchant or company who needs police protection and asks for it will get it right away," the Police Commissioner declared.

The Police Commissioner's move followed testimony given to Mr. Groat by about a dozen witnesses indicating that the Utah Poultry Producers' Association, a wholesale organization which says it can supply the finest quality of eggs to the city at five cents a dozen below present prices, had been threatened. Benjamin Brown, director of the company, has received threats, it was said, and truckmen and merchants dealing with the Utah concern have suffered sabotage and received warnings of death.

Abe Tiger Testifies.

Although a dozen witnesses testified before Mr. Groat yesterday, corroborating the existence of a widespread organization of food racketeers, the "star" witness of the day was one who said he had nothing of any importance to reveal. He was Abe Tiger, one of those indicted with Fay and said to be Fay's chief lieutenant.

State Troopers, armed with subpoenas, had been searching for Tiger for the last few days. Two troopers spent all of Monday night trying to find him. Hearings yesterday morning were delayed a half hour in the hope that the searchers might have succeeded in locating Tiger. Then, convinced that finding Tiger would be difficult, the State authorities began the day's inquiry.

Mr. Groat was in the midst of questioning a truckman when a young man, neatly dressed in a blue suit, a blue shirt and a blue necktie with red stripes, quietly walked into the room and sat down in an empty chair beside the prosecutor. Those in the room paid scant attention to the newcomer.

An assistant of Mr. Groat whispered excitedly in the prosecutor's ear. Mr. Groat looked at the young man, smiled, waved the truckmen away from the witness stand and called the man in blue to the chair.

"I'm glad to see you, Abe—I've got State Troopers out hunting all over for you," Mr. Groat said.

Tiger smiled back at the prosecutor and played nervously with his necktie.

Tiger's name had previously been introduced into the State investigation by several grocers who said he was a leader in the new milk ring. Tiger told Mr. Groat that he did not want to testify if any grocers were present at the hearing.

"That's all right, Abe. Sit down. You'll get a square deal," Mr. Groat assured him.

Began in Milk Business in 1924.

Tiger testified that at different times he had been associated with Harry Danziger, who was involved in a milk scandal three or four years ago, and with Fay. He said he started in the milk business in 1924, when he set up for himself. He later sold his business to the Kings County Milk Company, which was later absorbed by the Sachs Brothers' dairy. The latter, he said, later sold out to the Dairymen's League.

Tiger was hesitant when questioned concerning his relations with Danziger. He finally admitted that he had worked as an "organizer and collector" for Danziger for about six months. He insisted he had not been associated with Danziger when the latter was involved in the milk scandal.

As Tiger recounted in detail his former association he arrived at the point in his story which dealt with his first meeting with Fay.

Tiger said he had gone "broke" in Freeport, L. I., where he had been in business for himself for a while, and had decided to come to New York "to try my luck." Several milk dealers, he said, were influential in arranging for him with Fay and in getting him into the Milk Dealers' Chamber of Commerce, an organization headed by Fay.

Mr. Groat wanted to know the names of these dealers. Tiger protested that he could not remember. Mr. Groat urged him to remember. Tiger insisted he could not.

"If I knew their names I would be only too happy to tell you," he finally said.

"These men were handing you a nice job, yet you don't remember their names?" the Assistant Attorney General inquired.

Tiger said his first meeting with Fay had been in the latter's office, in the General Motors Building, Broadway and Fifty-seventh Street. He said Fay's first words had been:

"Hello, Abe."

"Oh, he knew you, did he?" Mr. Groat put in.

Tiger said that Fay had hired him to "go out and get new members." He admitted under questioning that the Fay organization already had had "nearly everybody in it." His salary, he said, was $100 a week.

When further questions by Mr. Groat elicited the answer "I don't remember," the prosecutor, who had complained throughout the hearing of the witness's "easy forgetfulness" abruptly ended his questioning. He adjourned the inquiry until today, when Tiger will again take the stand. Meanwhile Mr. Groat hopes to refresh Tiger's memory by giving him an opportunity to read some testimony he gave the Attorney General on another occasion.

One Dairy Cuts Price.

The Attorney General's investigation has already borne fruit in a price cut by at least one dairy, yesterday's hearings showed. Samuel Leffer, operator of a dairy stand in a market at 1,563 Winchester Avenue, the Bronx, said he had been obtaining milk from the Tiejen & Steffen dairy, which had raised its price on Aug. 11 to $4.40 a can. On Monday this company reduced its price to $3.80, he told Mr. Groat.

Mr. Groat's investigation of the "mysterious" ring, which is alleged to keep the prices of the city's food prices above a reasonable level, brought forth several witnesses, who, Mr. Groat charged, suffered from "a distinct loss of memory." Referee Clark commented that some witnesses appeared more in fear of some outside force than of the State of New York. He threatened punitive measures. For the present, he said, any witness who "doesn't remember" will have to attend every hearing of the investigation, "until his memory begins to work again."

Joseph Capelowitch of the Vineland Butter and Egg Company, 147 Reade Street, who was named yesterday by Mr. Brown of the Utah eggs concern as having threatened violence, appeared at the investigation with an attorney. He refused to waive immunity. Mr. Groat thereupon declined to take his testimony at that time, explaining he wished to make no move which might prevent criminal action later.

Calls Officers of Truck Group.

Mr. Groat sent out subpoenas last night for all of the officers of the Washington Market Truckmen's Association. One witness yesterday, Otto Wiener of 320 Greenwich Street, testified that truckmen were obliged to pay dues amounting to $3 a week, of $156 a year, to the association. Asked what was done in return, Wiener haltingly declared that "if you got a flat tire or something they helped you out." His testimony caused Mr. Groat to laugh and nearly caused an uproar among listeners.

The Washington Market Truckmen's Association has been described by witnesses as responsible for threats of harm to dealers doing business with the Utah organization.

In its third bulletin Health Commissioner Wynne's Fair Price Food Board pointed out yesterday that unfavorable publicity to profiteers had forced a general decline in food prices by retail dealers.

District Attorney George F. Brower announced yesterday that all the data obtained by him in an investigation of profiteering in milk would be turned over to Attorney General Ward.

FARM SHIPMENTS KEEP UP.

Carlot Movement Nearly Same Last Week as Week Before, Says Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Fruits and vegetables in big shipments, intended for the consuming markets of the larger cities, were well maintained last week, despite the toll taken by the drought, according to another of the Department of Agriculture surveys by which it hopes to prevent any unnecessary advances in prices with the dry spell as a pretext.

The survey showed that movements of some of the more staple vegetables actually increased last week, while the decline in others was explained by their seasonal nature.

A statement issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics setting forth the general trend, said:

"Combined carlot movement of thirty-three important fruits and vegetables during the week ended Aug. 16 aggregated 19,390 cars, or nearly the same as the week preceding, according to reports received from railroads by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. The corresponding total last year was only 400 cars greater, because of the heavier 1929 shipments of oranges, peaches, cantaloupes and Eastern apples.

"The recent relief from drought and high temperatures in most parts of the country is expected to aid materially in maintaining a normal volume of fruit and vegetable shipment until the annual peak of movement is reached, as usual, in early October."

WRIT AIMS AT UNION RACKET.

Plumbers Group Enjoined From Delaying Elmhurst Building.

An alleged union labor racket in Queens County resulted in the granting yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Untermyer of an injunction. The writ restrains Local 418 of the United Association of Plumbers and Gasfitters of the United States and Canada, Joseph Kennedy and Ben Davis, delegates of the union, and William Foley, chairman of the Queens branch of the master plumbers' organization, known as the New York Masters' Association, from interfering with the plumbing work being done on a six-story apartment house on the southeast corner of Elmhurst Avenue and Gleane Street, Elmhurst.

The injunction was applied for by the Greenleaf Construction Company, which was engaged to complete the building after it had gone into foreclosure and had been purchased by new owners. The company says it is to receive $135,000 for the work, and that unless it completes the building, as agreed, by Oct. 1, in time for Fall rental, it will be damaged $225,000. It alleges that the master plumbers' organization, as a result of a conspiracy with the union, has compelled the plumbers working on the building to quit because Joseph Gasman, who did $6,000 worth of plumbing for the previous owner, has been unable to collect.

CAMP TO HONOR HECKSCHER

Curtis, Walker and Smith Invited to 87th Birthday Party There.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Plans for the celebration of the eighty-seventh birthday of August Heckscher at the Adams Corners Camp next Tuesday include the presence of Charles D. Curtis, Vice President of the United States; Mayor James J. Walker and Alfred E. Smith.

Many other persons who have aided the philanthropist in his work also will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Heckscher were visitors at the camp today, and at the conclusion of an inspection said they were pleased with camp conditions.

HOOVER NAMES BODY TO AID THE STATES

ginia have reported their committees, comprising men of high leadership in their States.

The State Committees.

The State committees are:

ILLINOIS—Melvin A. Traylor, banker, Chicago; E. N. Hurley, manufacturer, Chicago; Earl C. Smith, president Illinois Agricultural Association, Pittsfield; Victor A. Olander, secretary treasurer, Illinois Federation of Labor, Chicago; L. A. Downs, president Illinois Central Railroad, Chicago; Harvey J. Sconce, farmer, Sidell; Julius Postel, miller and farmer, Mascoutah; John M. Krebs, farmer, banker and representative of Red Cross, Carmi; Stuart E. Pierson, director, Department of Agriculture, Springfield.

VIRGINIA — Ex-Governor Harry Flood Byrd, chairman; Frederick W. Scott, banker; R. H. Angell, representative Red Cross; A. C. Needles, and John R. Hutcheson. These committees are already actively creating their county organizations.

Continuing reports confirm the severity of the situation and the inevitability of distress over the Winter in the acutely affected counties, which now apparently number something over 300. The rains of the last few days have stemmed the spread of the drought and greatly improved the situation outside of the acutely affected area. In those areas the destruction of crops has proceeded to a point that is beyond any great degree of recovery, although pasturage should improve. It must be borne in mind that from a relief point of view the burden of the problem in the acute area will show very much more vividly over the Winter than at the present moment.

I have received from all sections of the drought area high appreciation of the railways for their prompt and constructive action. It is a notable act of courageous cooperation and has been undertaken in the face of seriously reduced income due to the depression. It emphasizes the public interest of maintaining the strength and financial stability of our railways that they shall be able to cooperate in times of national difficulty.

In order that there may be no failure to cover any case of distress pending the time when the States have completed their detailed organization, the Red Cross has given instructions to all their county agencies to take care of the situation.

Kansas Committee Named.

Secretary Hyde announced later in the afternoon that official notice had been received of the perfecting of the State organization in Kansas. The set-up of that committee, as Mr. Hyde was advised by Governor Clyde M. Reed, is as follows:

Chairman, M. A. Limbocker of Emporia; banking committee, B. W. Garvin of Erie and Otto H. Wuelfekuhler of Leavenworth; meat animals committee, C. W. Floyd of Sudan, Arnold Burns of Peabody and Will J. Miller of Topeka; dairy feed and grain committee, Ralph Snyder of Manhattan, Cal A. Ward of Salina and John Vesecky of Kansas City, Mo.; railroad committee, F. A. Lehman, general superintendent of the Santa Fe Railroad; Red Cross comcittee, W. H. Martin of Parsons.

Word was also received that N. J. Holdenberg of St. Paul had been named to head a drought committee in Minnesota.

Secretary Hyde said that the next step would be to get in touch with the State committees and prepare with them a scheme by which the requests for aid would be handled. It is the committee's purpose to classify these requests and send them immediately to the agency that can offer any possible aid.

Mr. Hyde said that the bulk of the mail received so far on the drought situation could be divided into two classes. The first, he said, is made up of offers from land owners and organizations in certain Southeastern States of free pastures for live stock of the West. Many offers have come from the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, he said.

Buying of Live Stock Suggested.

The secretary said that it was impracticable for live stock owners, unless they were big operators, to send their cattle such a distance. He has made the suggestion to the offerers of pastures that they form buying pools and buy up such cattle and sheep as are offered for sale as a result of the drought.

The second class of drought mail, Mr. Hyde said, is made up of requests for information on prices and available supplies of hay.

Seventy-one more counties in Wyoming, Louisiana, Montana and Oklahoma were certified by Secretary Hyde to the American Railway Association today as sufficiently affected by the drought to require the emergency freight rate of one-half the usual tariff on movements of live stock and feedstuffs. With the list today, 560 counties in fifteen States have been certified. So far no counties in Kansas and Nebraska, two of the States deemed the hardest hit, have been listed. Their drought distress, it is said, is spotted.

The next move of President Hoover, it is believed, will be one toward making credit easier for the drought areas. The President asked the thirteen Governors and State emissaries who planned the nine-point program of relief to name first the financier members of their State organizations so he could call them to Washington for a further conference on finances.

THOUSANDS IN SOUTH SUFFER IN DROUGHT

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Aug. 19 (AP).—E. L. Jones, County Farm Agent, said today that a water famine in the hill sections of Yazoo County was causing alarm and farmers were deserting their fields to provide water for their families and live stock.

He predicted a heavy loss in live stock unless more water was made available.

Mr. Jones said 3,000 families probably would suffer during the Winter because of the loss to crops. Yazoo County, he said, was the greatest sufferer of any in the Mississippi delta and immediate Federal aid was needed to relieve the situation.

Arkansas Plans Relief.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 19 (AP).—Families in need of food in some sections of Arkansas because of the drought were being given aid from local sources today as Governor Parnell made plans for bringing widespread relief through State agencies.

Freight Rates Cut in South.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 19 (AP).—The Southern Freight Association announced reduced rates today on stock feeds and live stock for drought-stricken States in the South.

J. E. Tilford, chairman of the association said that he had not received full details of the emergency rates, but that they would be 50 per cent of standard tariffs.

Alabama Appeals to Hoover.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 19 (AP).—Governor Bibb Graves today wired President Hoover asking that five counties in North and Northwest Alabama be included in the drought relief program.

He called attention to the abnormal drought in Alabama and declared conditions warranted their inclusion in the plans.

Texas Conditions "Disastrous."

DALLAS, Aug. 19 (AP).—Drought conditions in certain parts of Western Texas were described as "disastrous" in a telegram Governor Moody sent to President Hoover today, urging that assistance be given that region.

Seeks Aid for Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 19 (AP).—Governor Emerson sent an official appeal for Federal aid in the drought stricken areas of Wyoming to Secretary Hyde today. The Governor said crops, ranges and live stock in Wyoming had suffered seriously.

travel—and then swung around again.

Very early in the morning a Coast Guard vessel, seeing the mysterious searchlight sweeping the black waters with low, wide circles, came alongside. Its officer hailed the Sabalo, and learned of Mr. Black's disappearance. After flashing the word back to the headquarters the smaller vessel joined in the search. The two boats cruised in the six-mile course until dawn.

When it became light, Captain Kelley ordered his ship into Gravesend Bay. From there he telephoned to Baltimore, telling Mr. Black's associates on The Sun of his disappearance. Mr. Patterson and Mr. Rogan—the latter of whom had just returned to Baltimore from New York that morning—hired an amphibian plane and came to the anchorage. They boarded the yacht, and once again she set out toward Scotland Light.

Then started a search that has been almost unrivaled. The Sabalo led it, taking up her position beside the Coast Guard vessel, which had been with her throughout the night. Then the message from Chief Boatswain Estad of the cutter was acted upon, and four 75-foot patrol boats went out into the roughened waters from Guard Base 2 at St. George, S. I. Two more went out from Sandy Hook.

The fleet steamed slowly in a circle which gradually widened, the officers looking at the sea through glasses. They went forward foot by foot. Occasionally a box or barrel was seen ahead and there was a burst of speed. But when nothing was found the boats slowed down again to their careful search.

Planes Join the Searchers.

Then the amphibian planes were pressed into service. All owned by the Curtiss Flying Service, they set out from the North Beach Airport at the instigation of Mr. Patterson. Harry Rogers piloted a Loening; William Cleveland, who had brought the two men from Baltimore, had a Sikorsky; Edward Stafford an Ireland, and George Rummil a Sea Gull.

The four planes reached the scene in the middle of the afternoon. All the fliers were equipped with strong glasses, but it was necessary for them to travel comparatively low. Their motors droned over the tops of the ships rocking in the swell as they sped about seeking some faint trace of the missing man. Equipped with radio, the planes kept in touch with the airport as they continued the fruitless search until darkness fell.

From Albany Governor Roosevelt, a friend of Mr. Black, told his secretary to do everything he could to aid the searchers, and he expressed regret that the State owned no airplanes that could take part. The New Jersey police also offered their services, although they, too, lacked the planes with which to make assistance possible.

At the request of Governor Roosevelt, New Jersey State troopers and Coast Guardsmen were last night watching the beach from Sandy Hook as far as the Delaware in an effort to locate Mr. Black's body. Governor Roosevelt made the request of Governor Larson of New Jersey, and from his Summer home at Sea Girt the New Jersey executive transmitted the order to the proper authorities.

In the middle of the afternoon the Navy Department sent the Los Angeles to take part. The big dirigible was on a local training flight over New Jersey when the order was received from Washington. The Chief of Naval Operations took it over the telephone and at once had it radioed to Commander V. H. Clarke, who was aboard. The commanding officer replied that he would at once take the ship to the coast.

Soon afterward it made its appearance, flying eastward rather low over the water. When it reached the position of the searching vessels and the planes it slowed down, barely drifting along. It moved almost silently, its nose into the breeze, while the officers in the gondola cabin scanned the sea with their glasses.

Last evening, when the Sabalo finally edged its way into the Gravesend dock, the dirigible could be seen far in the distance continuing its painstaking search. The airplanes, too, were there, but they were indistinguishable in the distance. They kept up the watch together until it became too dark; then they returned to their hangars until daylight today.

Hunt to Be Pressed Today.

Mr. Patterson said last evening that the search would be continued this morning on an even larger scale. It will start as soon as there is light enough. The yacht will go back and so will the Coast Guard vessels. He said that airplanes would be used again, and that the Los Angeles probably would return. Captain Kelley will also officially notify the port authorities of the accident.

The Baltimore publisher came to New York on his most recent trip on Aug. 1. The Sabalo was anchored at the City Island property of the New York Yacht Club, and from there Mr. Black went on a number of short cruises along the Sound. Governor Roosevelt visited the yacht from Aug. 5 to 7, and Commander Richard E. Byrd was entertained at dinner there last Thursday night.

Last Friday Mr. Black flew to Saratoga, where he was the guest of William B. Woodward, the owner of Gallant Fox. Messrs. Patterson and Rogan were with him then and the former returned to Baltimore when they reached New York after a return flight on Saturday.

On Sunday twins were born to his daughter in Newport, so on Monday Mr. Black hired a Sikorsky amphibian piloted by William Cleveland. They took off from the North Beach Airport at 10:20 in the morning and arrived at the Rhode Island city at 11:55. After spending some time with his grandchildren Mr. Black started back to New York at 3:30 in the afternoon. He sent a wireless message to Captain Kelley asking him to be at the airport, and when the plane arrived at 5:15 the two at once drove to the Sabalo.

The yacht began its trip south as soon as the owner and the captain went aboard. It was Mr. Black's intention to make his first stop in the lower Chesapeake Bay, where he has an island home. In a message to a Baltimore friend, sent Monday night, he said he planned to spend several days there before returning to Annapolis and Baltimore.

He was in excellent spirits during the entire trip to New York, Captain Kelley said, and on Monday was particularly proud of his grandchildren. He was cheerful during dinner aboard the Sabalo and was smiling as he walked aft to his usual seat. Captain Kelley had warned him many times of the danger of sitting on the rail, he said, but Mr. Black continued to do so.

The Sabalo is of 204 gross tonnage and with a length of 104 feet. It is well equipped and furnished and is manned by a crew of fourteen. The railing is built around the ship in a tiny trough used to carry off the rain water or spray. Mr. Black's handkerchief was found in this small hollow, just where he had been sitting. Captain Kelley's theory was that the owner had dropped it while trying to regain his balance.

When he was informed of the disappearance of his friend, Governor Roosevelt, who is now in Albany, at once telephoned to his secretary, Louis Howe, in New York City, and asked him to aid in the search for the publisher's body.

"I am very sorry to learn of the drowning of Mr. Black," the Governor said, "and I have directed my secretary to aid in every possible way in the search."

The news of his disapearance was a severe shock to his daughters, Mrs. T. Buchanan Blakestone of Baltimore and Mrs. Bolton, who are spending the Summer at Newport. They were anxiously waiting word from New York, and kept in touch with Mr. Black's friends by telephone.

SEARCH FOR BODY SPEEDED.

Washington Orders Coast Guard and Navy Planes to Give All Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Both the United States Coast Guard and the Navy Department responded today to the call for assistance in making a search for the body of Van Lear Black. Each of these services put its available facilities at the disposal of those who hoped that the body might be found somewhere north of Scotland Light Vessel.

This vessel is anchored south of New York Harbor about forty miles from Sandy Hook, it was said today, and about ten miles from the New Jersey shore.

Information of Mr. Black's disappearance reached Washington shortly before noon and was at once laid before Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commander of the United States Coast Guard.

Although at the time the information was meager as to the exact course which the Sabola had taken after steaming south from New York, the Admiral immediately telegraphed Captain Randolph Ridgeley, commanding the New York District of the Coast Guard, to mobilize whatever craft were available and be prepared for a thorough search.

An hour or two later Captain Ridgeley reported to Washington that he had four ships available at the New York base for the search. All of them, he said, had steam up and were ready to put to sea as soon as word should be received from Captain Kelley of the Sabola which course to follow. He added that it might be advisable for his craft to steam south in company with the Sabola.

The district commander expressed an eagerness to do everything in his power to press the search. The same eagerness was shown on the part of Admiral Billard. Both officers, however, made it plain that only by good fortune would the searching ships be able to find the body.

It was explained by these experienced seamen that persons who drown after falling overboard from vessels at sea usually sink and do not reappear for days, if at all. The fact that the drowning took place not far from shore led them to believe that even if the search now in progress fails, the body may be washed up on the beach.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Jahncke was communicated with about the same time the Coast Guard's assistance was invoked. He issued orders at once to the Naval Air Forces at New York to send out such seaplanes as were at hand. He felt that planes flying low over the water might discover a body, if it should remain afloat, that might be missed by surface craft.

No report had been received by the Navy Department late today except the assurance that the Naval Air Fleet would cooperate with the Coast Guard, maintaining contact by wireless with the surface craft.

All operations of both the Coast Guard and the Navy will be carried on from New York and detailed reports of these forces will not be received here until the work has been completed.

LONDON LAUDS AIR FEATS.

Black's Casual Way of Making Dangerous Trips Recalled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—All the newspapers here pay tribute to Van Lear Black for the service he rendered aviation. They recall the almost casual way in which he accomplished difficult and dangerous flights with a single-engined machine. He so impressed Dutch public opinion that soon after his flight a regular Dutch air mail to the East Indies was started. The merits of Mr. Black's flights and their value to aviation, in the opinion of one of his friends here, lay in the fact that they were always occomplished in a commercial type airplane, never in a plane specially constructed for long-distance ventures. The interior of one of his planes, named the Maryland Free State in which he arrived in London, was decorated with the national arms of twoscore countries he had visited by air.

One of Mr. Black's chief pleasures while in England, it seemed, was to give his pretty 19-year-old daughter joy rides in the air. He frequently flew to her school near London and took her on week-end air trips.

BLACK RENOWNED FOR HIS AIR TRAVELS

Financier and Sportsman Had World-Wide Fame as the "Flying American."

BLERIOT HOP GRIPPED HIM

Saw Aviation's Possibilities 20 Years Ago—Made Flights From London to Capetown and Tokyo.

Van Lear Black, sportsman and financier, was known around the world as "the flying American." He cruised by air much as other wealthy yachtsmen cruise by sea and, although his exploits attracted comparatively little attention, he is said to have flown more miles as a passenger than any other man.

Although not a pilot, he was a leading figure in aviation. In Europe, as in America, he seldom traveled by train, and he was as familiar as any pilot with the world's principal airports.

His interest in aviation began twenty years ago when he watched Louis Bleriot, the French flier, first to cross the English Channel by airplane, soar over Baltimore in a trial flight from Halethorpe. Many men of sound judgment laughed at the Frenchman, declaring the airplane could never be anything more than a toy. But Mr. Black thought differently. He had witnessed the development of the automobile and he insisted that the airplane also had a future.

From that time on Mr. Black became more and more interested in flying. When in June, 1927, he started from Amsterdam in a chartered Fokker with two Dutch pilots and a valet, on his way to Batavia in the Dutch East Indies, he already had flown many thousands of miles. In two weeks he was in Batavia and four weeks later was back in Amsterdam. The only really exciting moment of the flight, he told friends afterward, was when a herd of wild elephants charged the plane during a take-off in Burma.

The object of this trip in Mr. Black's own words was for "first-hand observation of protracted commercial flying under varying conditions." Probably he did not consider it sufficiently "protracted," for in May of 1928 he took off again with his pilots, a secretary and a valet on a flight from Croydon to Cape Town. He got as far as Khartum, but in landing there the plane was damaged and he had to abandon the trip.

Mr. Black returned to the United States soon afterwards, but in February, 1929, he was back in London preparing for another attempt to reach Cape Town by plane. He left Croydon Feb. 11, was held up a week by the fog in Paris, but on Feb. 23 he was at Khartum again and on March 5 landed in Cape Town.

His return flight to London was delayed at Broken Hill in Northern Rhodesia, where the two pilots became violently ill. But on March 23, they got under way again and on April 3 reached Monte Carlo. Their plane made a forced landing at Monte Carlo, and although none of the party was injured some slight damage to the plane necessitated their returning to Paris by automobile. On the way, Mr. Black was badly bruised in a traffic accident.

By the end of May, however, he was flying again, and on May 31 took off with his retinue in a flight from Croydon to Japan. They reached Karachi June 4 without incident, but their plane was damaged while landing at Calcutta, and an Indian cyclone destroyed it soon afterward. The trip was halted there.

Undaunted by this misfortune, however, Mr. Black returned to the United States and bought a plane for himself. Up to this time he had done his flying in chartered planes. He purchased a huge Fokker air yacht which he named The Maryland Free State and on Feb. 9, 1930, left Croydon for Tokyo. The trip of 12,500 miles was completed in 113 hours' flying time. At Tokyo Mr. Black shipped his plane by steamer to Los Angeles and returned home.

It was after his return, while an official welcome was being given him in Baltimore, that Admiral Byrd, a close friend of Mr. Black, disclosed how, when his projected flight over the North Pole had been threatened with failure because of financial difficulties, Mr. Black came to his aid with the necessary funds. That was the first time Mr. Black's part in the flight became known publicly.

Mr. Black was born in Cumberland, Md., Dec. 18, 1875, he son of H. Crawford and Ida Perry Black. The early years of his childhood were passed in Western Maryland mining towns, but when he was 7 years old his father's good fortune in the coal industry brought the family to Baltimore.

For many years they lived at Barnum's Hotel, a famous old hostelry in that city. Young Black attended private schools until he was 16, when he was sent to a preparatory school near Boston. His business career began in May, 1895, when he became a clerk in the offices of the Fidelity and Deposit Company. The late Governor Edwin Warfield of Maryland was president of the company at the time.

For five years young Black filled various clerical jobs, then he was elected assistant secretary and treasurer. But after a few months he resigned that post to become secretary and treasurer of his father's coal operating company, Black, Sheridan & Wilson. Two years later he became a director in the Fidelity and Deposit Company, and later, when the Fidelity Trust Company was organized to separate the Fidelity and Deposit Company's bonding business, he was made vice president of the new company. When Governor Warfield died he was made president.

Besides being chairman of the board of the A. S. Abell Company which publishes The Baltimore Sun, Mr. Black was a director in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, the Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust Company, the American Ship and Commerce Corporation, the Fidelity Trust Company and the Fidelity and Deposit Company.

On Nov. 3, 1899, he married Miss Jessie Gary, daughter of the late Postmaster General James A. Gary. They had six children, H. Crawford, James Gary, Van Lear Jr., Jessie Gary, Ida Perry Gary and Madeleine. All except the first named are living. There are three grandchildren. There is also a brother, Harry C. Black.

Mr. Black was a member of the Maryland, Baltimore, Metropolitan, Recess, New York Yacht, Green Spring Valley Hunt, Maryland Polo and Chesapeake Clubs.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 19.—Dr Eugene S. Alling of Sound Beach, who, on Feb. 15, was found dead at his home, was today held a suicide by a representative of an insurance company which has refused to pay $15,000 policies on his life. The insurance company has asked that the body of Dr. Alling be exhumed for an autopsy. All gas jets in the kitchen, where the body was found, were burning with the exception of one, from which gas was escaping. Officials of the Greenwich Gas Company have stated that asphyxiation of a person would be impossible with burners lighted on a stove.

LONDON DISCREDITS GANDHI NOTE 'LEAK'

Believes Rumor of Peace Terms Was Mere Guess or Move to Embarrass Government.

ONE TRIBE SEEKS A TRUCE

Air Bombing of Massozais Halted—Other Clans Reported Massing for Large Scale Attack.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The India Office in London has received no word of the alleged message of Mohandas Gandhi to the Viceroy setting forth the conditions on which he would end his civil disobedience and non-cooperation movement against the British Government of India.

The authenticity of the report purporting to reveal the contents of the letter is seriously doubted because of the impossibility for the communication from the Mahatma to have reached Lord Irwin at Simla between the conclusion of the Mahatma's conference in Yerovda prison with the intermediaries, Mr. Jayakar and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, and the time that the report of his conditions was cabled from India to London. The prison conference at Poona ended only the day before yesterday. The official plan was for the intermediaries to mail the results to the Viceroy. So it was impossible for their report to reach him before today at the earliest, and the Viceroy certainly would not reveal its contents before communicating them to the India Office in London.

The report on the message is considered here as possibly a mere guess on what Mr. Gandhi might be expected to say or a deliberately planted fake for the purpose of embarrassing the government in its preparations for the round-table conference.

That part of Mr. Gandhi's supposed ultimatum concerning amnesty for political prisoners, if he really made this condition, probably would cause no great difficulties, for the inclination and probable intention of the present British Government is to grant such amnesty, except in the cases of prisoners guilty of violence. It is more than likely that the prisoners would have been free before now if there had been no civil disobedience upheaval.

The other condition prematurely credited to Mr. Gandhi, if it proves to be authentic, would be more embarrassing. It is that the British Government agree, before the London round-table parley begins, that it will place before the conference as its own policy dominion status for India. It is already known that dominion status is the MacDonald Government's policy, for it has been avowed a dozen times both in London and by the Viceroy in India. It is the determination of the government, however, that the round-table conference this Autumn shall begin proceedings with an absolutely clean slate. It will start, without any agenda whatever, first to examine all evidence on every phase of the India question before undertaking to reach conclusions and to formulate recommendations for Parliament.

Nehrus Return to Own Cells.

POONA, India, Aug. 19 (AP).—Pandits Motilal and Jawarhalal Nehru, who have been here for conferences with Mahatma Gandhi, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Mr. Jayakar and Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, regarding a possible settlement of the present troubles in India, left today under police escort in a special train for Allahabad, where they will be returned to their prison quarters.

Tribe Sues for Peace.

PESHAWAR, Aug. 19 (AP).—Operations by the Royal Air Force in the Kurram area were suspended today when the Massozais, Afghan tribesmen, made definite overtures for a cessation of hostilities.

While this was taking place, the Ahmadzai and Ghilzai were massing forces on Peiwarkotal, with the prospect of a serious engagement in that quarter.

In the neighborhood of Utsar and Bargawisaw the British scouting airplanes were heavily fired upon. Military pickets in Upper Kurram also were subjected to the fire of the tribesmen. The government positions at Kurram were said to be adequately defended by village militia levies, whose spirit was described as excellent.

CALIFORNIAN WINS FRENCH APOLOGIES

Special Court-Martial Will Set Aside Today His Conviction as Spy and Death Sentence.

GERMAN TOOK HIS NAME

C. L. Hartmann, 75, Was Able to Show He Had Not Left America for 58 Years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—His conviction as a spy and condemnation to death by a court-martial, which resulted from the usurpation of his identity, will be set aside tomorrow with the apologies of a special French military tribunal to Charles Leopold Hartmann, 75-year-old Alsatian, who was arrested while revisiting his native village after living fifty-eight years in California.

Mr. Hartmann left Nordheim, in Bas-Rhin, at the age of 17, immediately following Germany's annexation of Alsace in 1872. He preferred to remain French, although he went directly to the United States to make his fortune. He settled in California.

When he returned, moderately wealthy, to Nordheim last month for the first time, he was greatly perplexed by the cold reception from the few boyhood friends who were still living. He sought the town's Mayor for an explanation and was still more astonished and mystified when he was informed of his conviction as a traitor and spy during the World War.

Mr. Hartmann's vigorous protest of innocence and his ability to prove he had never left California during the last fifty-eight years started an official investigation of the charges against him. It was revealed that a German spy arrested in London at the beginning of the war had obtained his freedom by adopting Mr. Hartmann's identity and showing forged papers to establish that he had chosen French nationality in 1872.

This impersonator proceeded to Geneva and continued to make use of Mr. Hartmann's name while engaged in publishing and spreading anti-French propaganda in Alsace.

Assistant Secretary William W. Husband said this afternoon that the application which he understood had been or would be made, would be handled "through the regular channels" on receipt, and that no reason for other than favorable action upon it was now known to the department. No question of deportation was involved, he said, or had been at any time under consideration.

PAPER LASHES RED WHO SCORED NEGROES

Communist Youth Pravda Calls Worker Suspended by Union a "Petty Bourgois."

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 19.—The Communist Youth Pravda publishes strong criticism today of the Anglo-Russian worker Tziprus. Two days ago he stood before a tribunal of brother workers and was suspended for three months from the union for remarking in connection with the beating of a Negro by Americans at Stalingrad that "Negroes are all snakes and should have their heads cut off."

Today the newspaper of the Young Communists exercises the favorite epithets of the Bolsheviki, scoring Tziprus variously as a "class enemy" and a "spineless, petty bourgeois who desires only to stuff himself." It asserts further that "American workers are led blindly on the leash of military Fascism," and that Tziprus, through having lived thirty years abroad, was "infected by this virus of national Chauvinism."

The local cooperative bureau of the factory where the trial was held is reprimanded for attending the trial instead of issuing tickets for the purchase of shoes.

The Russian workers at Stalingrad are criticized for not printing an English-language newspaper for the "education" of American workers there in the principles of communism and the fact that "all workers are brothers, regardless of the color of their skin."

CHIANG SHIFTS MEN FOR FRESH ATTACKS

Lull on All Chinese Fronts Also Permits Rebels to Prepare New Defense Program.

NANKING LEADER JUBILANT

Sun Fo Predicts Complete Victory in a Few Weeks—Feng Contradicts Claims of Honan Advances.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19.—A lull on all fronts in sharp contrast with the recent brisk fighting is permitting the Shansi Province rebels and General Feng Yu-hsiang to organize a new defensive program while Nanking redistributes troops for fresh drives against the Northern coalition.

Glowing optimism is evident in Nanking Government circles now. Sun Fo, Minister of Railways, publicly assuring the nation that the war will be ended in a complete Nanking victory within a few weeks and that an era of reconstruction is at hand.

Nanking's hold on Tsinan is evidently firm, the Shantung Government having returned there from Tsing-tao.

The closing of the British Consulate at Changsha has been officially set for Dec. 1, the beginning of low water when gunboat protection is not possible. All British firms have been advised to withdraw from Changsha.

Feng Contradicts Nanking Claims.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19 (AP).—General Feng Yu-hsiang, commanding the Northern rebels along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway in Honan Province, tonight sharply contradicted Nationalist claims to important advances in that sector.

In a communiqué from Kaifeng, capital of Honan Province, the rebel war lord said fighting in Honan had been greatly hampered during the past ten days on account of torrential rains, which transformed battlefields into rivers and bogs.

Despite the rain handicap, the communiqué said, 5,000 picked soldiers of the Kuominchun (people's army) supporting the Northern rebels made a desperate attack Saturday night on Nationalist positions fifty miles east of Lanfeng. During the engagement, the war lord said, 2,000 Nationalists were killed. The attacking party carried light machine guns and swords.

General Feng asserted Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist President and leader of the forces seeking to crush the rebels, escaped by airplane from his headquarters at Liuho.

The communiqué also said that on Saturday and Sunday heavy fighting raged in the neighborhood of Mamutsi, the rebels forcing the Nationalists to withdraw. Six hundred bodies were seen floating in flooded canals around Mamutsi.

General Feng said four airplanes from Nanking raided Chengchow, an important rail centre in Honan held by the rebels, and dropped many bombs, killing fifty non-combatants. Technical experts, he said, examined the bomb fragments and declared the missiles contained poison gas.

Nationalists Tell of Advances.

On the other hand, the Nationalists said the Shantung expeditionary forces had crossed the Yellow River and were advancing northward toward Techow, Shantung Province, where the Nationalists anticipate the rebels will attempt to oppose the advancing Southerners.

The Nationalists further asserted that their forces along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway had occupied Lanfeng, following the reported evacuation by the Kuominchun. It was believed the retreating rebels west of Lanfeng were destroying the railway, thereby seeking to cripple the Nationalist advance.

Although the government's position following the recapture of Tsinan, capital of Shantung, was considered improved over that of two weeks ago, the Nanking régime was believed to be greatly weakened as the result of its more than three months of campaigning against the Northerners. This condition is resulting in distressing disorders within Nationalist territory, such as the constantly recurring Red depredations, which are further paralyzing trade, and increasing popular discontent with the Nanking régime.

Although a greater proportion of foreigners in China believe the Nationalist Government offers the country its greatest chance for peace and prosperity, they consider Nanking too weakened as a result of the continuous civil war to be capable of affording foreign life and property inland much protection. Therefore foreign trade in that section is at a low ebb.

Such opinion is evidenced by decision of the Standard Oil Company of New York to withdraw from Changha, the company considering the government unable to maintain peace and security within its confines despite its claims to the contrary.

CAROL MAY WED ANOTHER.

Bucharest Believes He Is Seeking Hand of Duchess of Guise.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 19.—The story is constantly gaining ground that all the reports carefully launched from court circles concerning the impending reconciliation of King Carol and Queen Helen are groundless. All Bucharest now believes King Carol has abandoned hope of resuming relations with Queen Helen and is intending to seek the hand of another of European royalty—popular opinion says the Duchess of Guise—in marriage.

Carol already is rapidly losing popularity in this connection, both the government and political parties standing behind Helen. The situation may well lead to another serious political crisis.

Further indication of a new crisis is the fact that Dowager Queen Marie today left Bled in Yugoslavia, where she had been staying with the Yugoslav royal family, in desperate haste. She hopes to effect an eleventh-hour reconciliation between Carol on the one side and Helen and her political supporters on the other.

IRAQ SAID TO SEEK NEW DEAL FOR OIL

King Feisal Is Reported to Be Trying to Form Company to Break Monopoly.

HIS ROYALTIES TOO SMALL

He Believes Petroleum Is Being Held in Ground So as Not to Upset World Prices.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—A new explanation, as yet unconfirmed, of the recent visit to England of King Feisal of Iraq is to the effect that he is trying to organize a new company to break the monopoly rights to oil in his country already held by the Iraq Petroleum Company, a combination of big interests in the United States, England and Europe, including the Standard Oil and Shell companies.

These various concerns united about three years ago in an agreement with King Feisal by which they have exclusive rights to the country's oil resources in return for big royalties to the King. King Feisal expected his country's share would amount to about $5,000,000 annually. But so far he has received very little, because the companies holding the monopoly have not begun to pump oil in any large-scale operations.

The King complains that the Iraq Petroleum Company is delaying development because it is convinced the oil supply of that country is so rich that if it were suddenly made available it would create a great oversupply in the world markets and depress prices, so they are deliberately holding it in reserve.

That does not help King Feisal, because Iraq wants revenue now and oil is her chief resource. So the King is said to have been convinced by his advisers that the Iraq Petroleum Company's monopoly is not absolute as to the entire country and that various oil areas in Iraq are still at his disposal.

It is now asserted the King seeks to induce financial interests in England and on the Continent to organize a new oil company to do business with him on the basis of a 25 per cent royalty and to start operations as soon as possible.

A representative of the interests which are already in possession of Iraq oil said tonight that the delay in operations in that country had been due entirely to physical causes, such as the lack of adequate transportation facilities.

"We are working as fast as we can to provide these facilities," he said, "but until we have pipe lines to take the oil to the seaboard there is no sense in taking it out of the ground. As to the monopoly arrangement, the Iraq Petroleum Company has exclusive rights in certain areas and prior rights of selection in all other areas. We have heard of no other company being organized to contest these rights."

TORIES PREPARE ATTACK.

Plan Campaign Against Laborites With Jobless Total at Record.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP).—Well-informed political circles assert that Conservative politicians are preparing a heavy campaign against the MacDonald Government, basing their chief talking point on the failure of the Laborites to solve unemployment.

With 2,000,000 workless clamoring for relief, the Conservative leaders are understood to be planning to strike while the unrest is high. The present unemployment figures break all previous British records, and word has been passed around the Conservative strongholds to try to force a general election before the tide turns.

Next month will see the beginning of the Tory bombardment, and when Parliament reassembles on Oct. 28 all parties are likely to be prepared for a vital division. A general election coming at such a time probably would cause the postponement of the round-table conference on India.

The Ministry of Labor announced today that there were 2,050,737 persons unemployed in Great Britain as of Aug. 11. The figure indicated an increase of 832,669 in a year.

NEW LAND TENURE PLAN URGED FOR PALESTINE

Simpson Would Divide Tracts Jointly Farmed by Arabs Into Individual Holdings.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19.—Among the probable recommendations which will be submitted to the British Government by Sir John Hope Simpson, who was sent to Palestine to investigate immigration and land problems, your correspondent learns, is the reorganization of the whole system of the present cadastral survey with a view of dividing the present joint land tenures of Arab peasants into individual holdings to enable the peasants to obtain separate title deeds.

At present much village land is "mushaa," or areas of undivided ownership, in which each peasant cultivates a specified area. This prevents the peasants' agricultural expansion.

Under the system Sir John proposes it will be possible for a peasant to obtain a mortgage on an area larger than at present, thus making it possible to grant long-term farm credits against adequate security in lands and immovable property. Sir John regards this as an indispensable prior condition to the establishment of a government agricultural bank. The suggestion is said to be contained in the Simpson report that the British Government could float a bond issue of $1,000,000 in England to provide funds for an agricultural bank.

SPAIN REORGANIZES CABINET IN CRISIS

Finance Minister Quits and Peseta Recovers Slightly From Saturday's Drop.

FEAR FOR MONARCHY FELT

Republicans Openly Rejoice at Predicament of the Ministry Headed by Berenguer.

SPECULATION CURB URGED

Monarchist Paper Lays Currency Troubles to Conspiracy and Demands Drastic Punishments.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Aug. 19.—Manuel Arguelles, Minister of Finance, resigned today because of his inability to check the fall of the peseta. Premier Berenguer, at a special Cabinet meeting, hurriedly called because of the financial crisis, regretfully accepted the resignation.

Julio Wais, Minister of Economy, was appointed to the post thus vacated and in turn his discarded portfolio was assumed by Luis Rodriguez Viguera.

Formulation of new plans for checking the peseta's fall was postponed until a Cabinet meeting on Friday in order to allow the new Finance Minister to survey the situation. Señor Wais, an able member of the Cabinet, who is responsible for the recent new tariff, holds the view that Spain should purchase fewer foreign products.

Señor Rodriguez Viguera is an experienced politician, 49 years of age, Under Secretary of Supply in the Department of Public Works, director of the Bank of Local Credit, vice-president of the works committee, a brilliant lawyer, a staff Colonel, a vigorous orator, one of the most energetic leaders of the Liberal-Conservative party and a great opponent of the recent dictatorship. He left for San Sebastian tonight to take the oath of office before the King and will return to Madrid for a Cobinet meeting Friday.

Premier Berenguer told a reporter for the Conservative newspaper ABC that the fall of the peseta was not caused by specific reasons or abnormal conditions in Spain or instability of the government, which he asserts has gradually fulfilled its program of restoring the national liberties, that public order has been maintained better than for many years and that communism is a farce. He denied that the fall could be due to the mild censorship.

Trade Balance Improved.

The Premier added that Spain's trade balance had improved, and that the economic situation compares favorably with that of other countries. He remarked that peseta quotations on Saturday, when they went so low in Madrid that Cabinet members called off their vacations to return to the capital for today's meeting, were higher abroad than in Spain, which he construed as evidence that the problem is domestic.

The Premier denied there had been any rise in the cost of living except for the price of olive oil, which has risen through natural causes of demand and supply, because the crop is expected to be mediocre. Other ministers as well as the Premier are quoted in a general statement that there is no need for alarm.

José Calvo Sotelo, who was Finance Minister in the Primo de Rivera dictatorship, asserts that the cause of the peseta's decline is the unpatriotic attitude of certain Spaniards, many of high social standing, who are exporting their capital.

Despite the optimistic attitude of the ministers, persons behind the political scenes assert that the Minister of Public Instruction will resign about Oct. 1 because of the failure of his secondary education scheme.

The peseta strengthened today, closing at around 9.35 to the dollar, but the public is so accustomed to shocks on exchange that it does not believe the betterment will continue. The public is still politically quiet and an excellent impression was caused among the working classes by a decision today to reduce the military service period from two years to one.

In the meantime, all Spain, troubled by the inexplicable fall of the peseta, was wondering today if the monarchy itself was in danger. The perturbation of the government was evidenced by the hurried return of Premier Berenguer and the resignation of Finance Minister Arguelles after a long interview they had with the King at Santander.

Republicans are openly rejoicing at the situation, hoping it will make the monarchy unpopular.

Profiteering Plot Seen.

The monarchist newspaper La Nacion, said last night that the fall of the peseta was due to a despicable monoeuvre of known financiers, who made fortunes in other times and now are increasing them at the cost of the nation. The government, says the newspaper, should make a drive against these unscrupulous profiteers, isolate them and inflict severe punishments, thus ending their unpatriotic actions. Otherwise, La Nacion contends, Spain will sink to a position of ignominious unimportance.

During the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera, asserts La Nacion, these speculators did not dare to go too far, but now they are free to do all the damage they can. La Nacion suggests the following as remedies:

Only the Bank of Spain should be allowed to buy foreign bonds for persons really needing them and the amount should be limited to proved needs.

Temporary suspension of all foreign money exchange in Spain, with only the Bank of Spain and its branches allowed to quote official exchange rates.

A list should be kept of all persons and corporations acquiring foreign bonds, with the amounts and reasons for the acquisition.

Exportation of capital should be severely restricted and heavy punishments inflicted for infringement of regulations.

A strict watch should be kept on agents of foreign firms said to be working for the peseta's depreciation to force Spain to make concessions which the dictatorship resisted.

Finally, any proved act against the peseta should entail imprisonment or banishment from Spain of the author.

Although La Nacion's proposals are considered drastic, undoubtedly Spanish opinion supports the punishment of speculators and inclines to view them as enemies of Spain.

In the meantime, San Sebastian, Santander and other north coast resorts are overflowing with visitors from France, buying Spanish commodities while they can benefit by the low price of the peseta.

NEW INQUIRY IS BEGUN IN MRS. SEVIER'S DEATH

Department of Justice Agent Sent to Honolulu to Investigate All Phases of Case.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, Aug. 19.—With the arrival yesterday of H. C. Leslie, Department of Justice agent of Long Island, N. Y., a new investigation of the death, Aug. 27, 1927, of Mrs. Granville Sevier, wife of Colonel Sevier, commanding the Sixty-fourth Coast Artillery at Fort Shafter here, has been opened.

Mr. Leslie has come at the request of Sanford B. W. Wood, United States Attorney at Honolulu, who asked Washington to send a qualified man who could conduct an inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Sevier, into the charges of irregularities in her death made by her brother, Ralph Shainwald of New York City, and "into other matters which have developed in the course of other inquiries."

Federal officials here intimated today that Mr. Shainwald's activities in pursuing his own investigations for the last two years, in which numerous charges have been made against Colonel Sevier, Mr. Wood and others identified with the original inquiry into the woman's death, also will be looked into. Although the first autopsy on Mrs. Sevier's body showed her death was due to natural causes, her brother has intimated from time to time his belief that she was poisoned, basing his allegations chiefly on the fact that the viscera were removed from the body at the time of its embalming, supposedly to destroy all traces of a lethal dose.

A second autopsy was ordered last February by Patrick Gleason, Sheriff of the City and County of Honolulu, but this was blocked by Colonel Sevier's attorneys when it was learned that Mr. Shainwald would be permitted to attend the proceedings.

Auto Racer Dies of Injuries.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Aug. 19 (AP).—Charles Baumann, 33, Indianapolis race driver, who was injured Saturday on the dirt track here, died yesterday from his injuries. Baumann was impaled on a fence rail when his car left the track on the first lap of a fifteen-mile race at the Interstate Fair track. Byron Salpaugh, Taylorville, Ill., who suffered a broken arm and broken shoulder in the same race when he was thrown from his automobile, was able to leave the hospital today.

FARM CARTEL PLAN ATTRACTS FRENCH

East European and the Baltic States to Meet at Warsaw—New Era Predicted.

CONSUMERS' UNION SEEN

States Fear Increased Output of Soviet, but Cartel Might Hit American Exports.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—France is watching with keen attention the rapidly progressing plans of the Eastern European States for an agricultural cartel. The foundation for such cooperation has already been laid in the tentative agreement recently entered into by Rumania and Yugoslavia, but much depends upon the outcome of the international conference called to meet at Warsaw at the end of this month.

The Ministers of Agriculture and their experts from Yugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Poland and all the Baltic States will be present and a determined effort will be made to reach an accord which would bring into being the first European agricultural cartel.

It is not surprising, therefore, that countries like France, which have their own serious agricultural problems, are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the Warsaw meeting. Indeed, it has already been suggested that France and Germany, and possibly Italy and Switzerland, will be represented by unofficial observers, the theory being that these countries could not afford to stand by and watch the formation of such a potentially powerful cartel without arranging some form of participation.

The Warsaw discussions have been arranged primarily for the consideration of the agricultural crisis which is now confronting the producing States, but second in importance will be the question of industrial cooperation. Some of the countries invited to the meeting have both agricultural and industrial interests and it has been suggested that these States might find it advisable to form a consumers' union. It is obvious, according to this view, that such States, which include Czechoslovakia, Austria and Switzerland, are very much interested in marketing a considerable portion of their industrial output in Eastern Europe and would thus favor a mutually satisfactory accord with the purely agricultural States.

Those economists who attach significance to the Warsaw conference assert the decisions which may be taken there are likely to be a starting point for a new era in the commercial policy of the Continent. It is pointed out by agricultural experts that the post-war economic evolution has shown that commercial treaties and most favored nation clauses no longer form an adequate means for protecting agrarian States against the competition of American producers of cereals. To this extent, therefore, the proposed cartel might be construed as a move against the United States and Canada, although this is not at all certain.

As a matter of fact the real fear lies in the other direction. The greatly increased output of Soviet Russia, due to the new collective system of farming, is looked upon as a real menace and had much to do with bringing about the original cartel discussions between Rumania and Yugoslavia several weeks ago.

Excessive crops, the poor system of distribution and the reduced demand are the main problems facing the proposed bloc, but it is not unlikely that anything approaching a close agricultural agreement among the countries mentioned would result in reduced purchases of American grain by Europe.

BERLIN ENJOYS A WEEK OF PRE-WAR NIGHT LIFE

Cafe Owners Take Advantage of Failure to Promulgate 3 A. M. Closing Order.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Pre-war days with their all-night night clubs, cafés and restaurants, where one might industriously absorb champagne until the sunlight took its color out, are being revived here briefly this week as a result of an oversight by the Berlin police president, who forgot to promulgate the new closing hour ordinances when the old ordinance ran out.

A few days ago the enterprising manager of one of the smart night clubs suddenly awoke to the fact that the best known German word, "verboten," no longer could be applied by the police to close his club at 3 A. M. The old law had expired June 30. It had been superseded by a new law in which, however, was a clause requiring each city to make its own regulations regarding the hours its inhabitants must keep. This Berlin forgot to do.

When the indignant police entered his club shortly after 3 A. M., this manager blandly told them to go look at the law books and assured them they would not find anything to justify their orders. Such is the Prussian respect for the letter of the law that the police disappeared and failed to return. The news spread, until today busy "nachtlokale" can be found in all parts of the city at all hours of the night. Meanwhile the authorities are working hard to finish the new ordinances, put them through the red tape and get them into effect. It is expected that the high times will last but a few days longer at the most.

FRANCE TO LAY DOWN NEW TYPE OF CRUISER

The Algeria, Following British Lines, to Be Well Under Way at Brest by End of the Year.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—A new 10,000-ton cruiser, different radically from all previous cruisers built by France, will soon be laid down at the Brest navy dockyard. The plans already have been prepared and its construction will be well under way by the end of the present year.

Like the latest British cruisers, the craft will be flush-decked from stem to stern and armored against 8-inch shells. It will have one funnel instead of two, and its speed will be only thirty-two knots. It will be armed with 8-inch guns.

In keeping with the promise made when J. L. Dumesnil, Minister of Marine, paid an official visit to Algeria on the occasion of the centennial celebration there last May, the new warship will be called the Algeria.

REMOVES GREASE SPOTS WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING"
Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. GERARD AIDS FIGHT FOR EMPIRE TARIFF

In Pamphlet for Beaverbrook Crusade, He Urges British to Adopt Protection.

PREDICTS AMERICAN AID

Former Envoy to Germany Says England Can Stage Come-Back If She Accepts Plan.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—James W. Gerard, former American Ambassador to Germany, has joined the corps of pamphleteers writing for the crusade of Viscount Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook for empire free trade and British high protection against the rest of the world. At any rate, he has written a document which was issued today by the crusade directors, who describe the author as a "distinguished American diplomat and economist."

After summarizing the history of England's period of industrial and commercial supremacy from the days when Watt discovered the power of steam, Mr. Gerard paints a dismal picture of England's present plight, contrasting it with the great prosperity of America.

Unfortunately on the day of issue of the pamphlet, the London evening papers are carrying dispatches to the effect that the period of prosperity in the United States has ended and that the country faces a $200,000,000 deficit, partly due to the shrinking of customs' revenue despite the high tariff.

Mr. Gerard assures England she has still great resources which will enable her to come back if she adopts Lord Beaverbrook's plan, and, after enumerating some of these resources, he says:

"Give the forty men who rule the United States ten years for the development of this industrial empire and no country on this earth could approach it in per capita wealth."

Then he adds:

"About the great continent of the United States is the intangible ring of protection which built up the American industries and gave the mass of the people a degree of prosperity and happiness never enjoyed by the laborers of any other country.

"And at the doors of England, to be had by rubbing the Aladdin's lamp of legislation and making the empire a protected unit like the United States, lies a replica of this general prosperity to uplift the masses."

But America will not fear the British Empire when it is made over by the Beaverbrook plan, says Mr. Gerard. "We shall expect the same fair treatment we have always experienced in the territories under the King-Emperor," he writes, "and just as British capital has developed the railroads of many other countries, so will American capital and American engineers skilled in mass production, now help for a time in the development of the revived empire."

The price of the Gerard pamphlet is 2d (about 4 cents), but it is comprehensive enough to give the money's worth, for the writer refers to France and says the Briand plan for a United States of Europe is an impossible and iridescent dream.

He even goes as far afield as India, saying:

"I have never been able to understand why Mahatma Gandhi, if he has common sense enough to referee a duck fight, should go about with a little fool hand-spinning wheel instead of erecting modern mills, if he really wants to boycott British cotton goods."

MOB LYNCHES NEGRO IN NORTH CAROLINA

Takes Prisoner From Jail by Ruse —Governor Declares Slayers Will Be Punished.

TARBORO, N. C., Aug. 19 (AP).—Oliver Moore, 29-year-old Negro tenant farmer accused of attacking his landlord's two small daughters, was dragged from the Edgecombe County jail by a mob early today, swung from a tree by a rope under his armpits and shot to death.

A coroner's jury, called from Wilson County, in which the body was found, recessed without reaching a verdict. It will be resumed when the Sheriffs of both counties have completed their investigations.

An examination by V. C. Martin, Wilson County coroner, and Dr. J. E. L. Thomas, Edgecombe County coroner, disclosed that more than 200 shots were fired into the Negro's body as it swung from the tree.

Moore's nearest relative, Andrew Moore, a brother, refused to claim the body, and Sheriff W. E. Bardin of Edgecombe County made arrangements to bury it in the Potter's Field.

Deputy R. O. Watson, who was in charge of the jail last night, said the mob leaders gained admittance by pretending they had brought a prisoner. Once inside, they forced the deputy to surrender Moore and dragged him outside to an automobile.

Watson said most of the mob wore masks and that he recognized no one. He said the license tags had been removed from their automobiles.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., Aug. 19 (AP).—Governor O. Max Gardner, vacationing here, said today the lynching of the Negro near Tarboro was "a disgrace to North Carolina."

"I am horrified," the Governor said. "It is a black blot on a fine record which the State had made for nearly a decade and of which its citizens were justly proud."

The Governor said the State would do "everything in its power to find the guilty parties and bring them to justice."

FEAR OF COMPLEXES SEEN AS CAUSING SIN

Churchman Says It Scares Us From Virtue as Fear of Hell Scared Ancestors From Evil.

NEW EVOLUTION EXPOUNDED

Tennessean at Oxford Conference Propounds Theory Man Evolved "Out of Himself."

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The frank and outspoken views on the newer tendencies in morality again were expressed by leaders of church thought at the Modern Churchmen's Conference, which continued its discussions of the "Problems of Personal Life" at Oxford today.

The Rev. J. C. Hardwick, Vicar of Partington, said: "It would be no exaggeration to say that many people nowadays are as afraid of repression as they are of bad drains and contaminated milk. Just as the fear of hell frightened our grandfathers from the paths of vice, so the fear complex scares us from the path of virtue."

"Practice, fortunately for us all, does not follow too closely on the heels of theory," he continued. "People who hold extremist views often are excessively harmless in practice. The believer in Communism is fidgety about his money, and the theoretical free lover is afraid of his wife. The advanced thinker who advocates the new Chicago—I won't speak of the new Jerusalem—won't tell us how to get there.

"What part is the Church playing in the creative epoch lying ahead? The Bishops have been talking, but the leadership and initiative have passed from them. They are fighting a rear-guard action."

The Rev. A. Myers, who said it might amuse the conference, even if it did not interest it, to hear he was from Tennessee but none the less believed in evolution, declared: "At the same time I believe man evolved out of himself, not out of any lower forms of life." He contended that we could not understand man except in the terms of incarnation. In the words of an American teacher, he said, God was the infinite of what we were, and we were the finite of what God was.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw today characteristically went Dean Inge of St. Paul's one better in endorsing the "gloomy dean's" suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned murderers to commit suicide.

"I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged," he said, "and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Mr. Shaw declared that he always felt deeply obliged to a condemned killer who committed suicide "because he saves a great deal of trouble and expense."

BROOKLYN GUARDSMAN SHOT AT CAMP SMITH

Bullet Fired at Pistol Practice by Comrade Pierces Breast of Private N. P. Bari.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Napoleon P. Bari, 20 years old, of 384 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, a private in the First Battalion Headquarters Company, 165th Infantry, was shot accidentally while at record pistol practice on the Camp Smith range at noon today.

A shot fired by Private William N. Malloy of New York City, a member of the same company, entered Bari's left breast and took a downward course. Bari is in the post hospital in a serious condition.

While the Fourteenth Infantry Regiment of Brooklyn was at target practice today and the 165th Infantry of Manhattan was engaged in field manoeuvres Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commanding General of the New York National Guard, announced that about thirty commissioned officers of the Twenty-seventh Division staff and the State staff would report at Camp Smith, Peekskill, Sunday. The two staffs will train for two weeks under direction of Colonel Alexander Macnab, United States Army, senior instructor, and other regular army officers.

The Tenth Infantry Regiment of Albany and up-State cities, under Colonel Charles E. Walsh of Albany, at the same time will begin a two weeks' encampment, with special guardsmen of the Twenty-seventh Division. Former Governor Alfred E. Smith on Friday will review the Fourteenth and 165th Regiments, brigaded under command of Brig. Gen. John L. Phelan.

FIND SWIFT GOT PISTOL IN CHICAGO A YEAR AGO

Investigators Learn of Purchase of Weapon Used in Suicide—Norris Hearing Today.

The authorities who have been looking into the suicide on Saturday of William E. Swift, son of Louis F. Swift, the Chicago packer, in the private sanitarium of Dr. Edward S. Cowles at 591 Park Avenue, yesterday learned that the pistol used by the man had been his own, that he had bought it more than a year ago in Chicago.

Shortly after the investigation into the suicide had started, the New York police telegraphed the number of the pistol to the Chicago officials. Yesterday Chief of Detectives J. W. Morton of that city sent back word that it had been bought by William E. Swift, who gave his address as the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, on Aug. 9, 1929.

Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris will hold a hearing on the suicide in his offices at the Municipal Building today. Dr. J. G. William Greeff, Commissioner of Hospitals, said yesterday that it was unlikely his department would investigate the conduct of the Cowles sanitarium. He said that he had not received any complaint from Dr. Norris, and that he did not expect one. The department's jurisdiction over private hospitals is mainly in their licensing, he said.

"There is no reason to make an investigation as far as this department is concerned because we have no complaint," he said. "Since death occurred in the place, which may have led to some suspicion of irregularity or what has been referred to as the possible shooting of the patient by an attendant in a struggle to get the gun away from him, it seems to me that it is a matter within the jurisdiction of Dr. Norris, who is handling it.

"We have no authority to search patients who enter private hospitals, and we cannot regulate the visits received by the patients in them."

Dr. Cowles, himself, was not reached yesterday at either his office or his home. Nor was Rudolph Heitmanek, the nurse who had been attending Swift. Both have been asked to appear at the hearing in the Municipal Building today, as have some of the detectives who were investigating the case.

LOAN TO AUSTRALIA IS DENIED IN LONDON

Sounder and More Economical Financial Basis Demanded by Bank of England.

IMMEDIATE FUNDS ALLOWED

$15,000,000 Monthly Provided to Meet Interest on Sinking Fund and to Liquidate Debts.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Efforts of Australian Federal and State Ministers now assembled at Melbourne to put the Australian financial position in such a light that the confidence of British investors will be restored are attracting considerable attention in London, where heavy loans are outstanding. The Australian Federal and State governments together in round figures owe $5,000,000,000.

According to The Daily Herald, Sir Otto warned the Melbourne conference that drastic steps must be taken forthwith to end the Commonwealth's financial crisis. Representatives from various States have decided that the Federal expenditure must be cut by $150,000,000, and have appointed a national committee to formulate economy proposals.

An Australian report that the Bank of England had agreed to advance $150,000,000 to meet Australian commitments is denied here. Sir Otto Niemeyer, who is representing the Bank of England at the Melbourne conference, has stipulated, it is stated, that any credits the Bank of England may grant will depend on the Federal and State governments placing their financial affairs on a sounder and more economic basis. In any case the credit will not amount to anything like $150,000,000.

Australia's most pressing need is to obtain favorable terms for the repayment of Commonwealth treasury bills for $25,000,000 falling due Sept. 1 and relaxation of the pressure of the bank overdraft position in London since the last issue of treasury bills on June 30. Since then the general depression in Australia has become accentuated, and although a satisfactory arrangement has been made between the Australian Government and the banks whereby funds will be available in London at the rate of $15,000,000 monthly to meet the interest on the sinking fund and payments of loans, no provision has been made for the repayment of treasury bills on bank overdrafts here.

There is no question of the country going bankrupt or that in the last resort funds could not be found to discharge these national obligations, but if a country like Australia were forced to pay an exorbitant rate of interest because those in charge of its public affairs had failed to demonstrate to the world that she was placing her financial affairs on a stable footing it would be a reflection on the country from which she could not recover for some time and a heavy blow to taxpayers.

State Ministers Critical.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 19.—At today's session of the financial conference State Ministers expressed dissatisfaction with the financial methods of the Commonwealth Government as represented by Minister of Trade and Customs Fenton and Postmaster General Lyons, who is now Acting Federal Treasurer.

It was divulged, however, that neither of these two Ministers has been in the complete confidence of Prime Minister Scullin, who did not attend the conference because of a chill.

LARGEST ARCH BRIDGE CLOSED IN AUSTRALIA

Two 14,000-Ton Halves of Steel Lowered Into Place Over the Harbor at Sydney.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 19.—By gradually slackening the anchorage cables holding back two rainbow sections of steel work, each weighing about 14,000 tons, the largest arch bridge in the world was closed over the waters of Sydney Harbor last night. The northern residential part of Sydney is now joined to the business section by a steel arch with a span of 1,650 feet.

From the arch will soon suspend the main platform of the bridge, which provides for four electric railway lines, a roadway fifty-six feet wide between the curbs—sufficient for six lines of automobile traffic—and two footways, each ten feet wide. At maximum capacity, 168 trains, 6,000 vehicles and 40,000 pedestrians will be able to cross it hourly.

The arch rises to a maximum height of 410 feet and gives a clearance of 170 feet at high water, sufficient for the masts of the largest liners to pass beneath it.

The junction of the two great sections was made in the night when the work was less likely to be disturbed by expansion or contraction. The two arms had been built outward until when the last girder was placed in position the ends were, as planned, just three feet apart.

A fraction of an inch at a time, the two massive structures were then lowered together, engaging on a central pin which brought the two halves into perfect alignment. L. Ennis, structural engineer of the Dorman, Long Company, British engineering firm which is building the bridge, stood astride the gap as the two ends came together and locked the bolt which completed the most trying stage of one of the greatest tasks British engineers ever have undertaken.

The bridge, costing $30,000,000, will be completed in December, after six years' work.

PERIL ON THE TAHITI TOLD BY PASSENGERS

Menaced for Three Days, They Say Only Seamanship Prevented a Disaster.

PENYBRYN IN DANGER NOW

Freighter Which Stood By Doomed Liner Is Short of Coal and Faces Southwest Gale.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 19 (AP).—First stories from passengers of the ill-fated Pacific passenger liner Tahiti reaching here today from Pago Pago indicated that masterly seamanship on the part of the captains of both the Tahiti and the rescue ship Ventura prevented an appalling disaster.

Twice before the Ventura arrived, when there seemed no hope of rescue at hand, the Tahiti's captain gave orders to the passengers to take to the lifeboats.

All aboard the Tahiti were grateful for what appeared to be their deliverance when the freighter Penybryn hove in sight and made her way to a point near the distressed Tahiti. But although she stood by and was willing to succor the disabled and sinking craft, the Penybryn lacked equipment to transfer the Tahiti's company.

Fear ruled the Tahiti for three days but throughout their harrowing experience the passengers were orderly and obedient to the dictates of wiser minds. When rescue came to them the woman passengers first were transferred, then the men and finally the crew.

When all hands were aboard the Ventura an attempt was made to save the vast quantities of mail in the Tahiti's holds. With some of the bags already taken off, ship's boats were returning for more when the Tahiti lurched and took another roll.

The waves swept over her bows, which failed to rise again from beneath the water. Then the doomed liner straightened on an even keel. Her stern rose and she disappeared in a boiling white whirlpool.

There was a mass of splintered upperwork still floating as the Ventura steamed away.

The Penybryn was herself in danger today. The freighter, carrying sugar from Cuba to Auckland, is now running short of coal and is afraid to face an oncoming southwest gale she must battle to reach the New Zealand port. The vessel is endeavoring to reach Suva, in the Fijis, for recoaling.

Passengers bound for Europe and America who were saved from the Tahiti were listed today as follows:

Two Women Awaiting Tahiti May Have to Stay Year on Isle

By The Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—Two Seattle school teachers may be forced to remain for a year on the island of Raratonga as a result of the sinking of the liner Tahiti.

The teachers, Miss Jean Lane and Mrs. Irene Lansing, planned to return to the United States on the Tahiti. This liner stopped at Raratonga once a year and was the only transpacific ship calling there.

Miss Lane and Mrs. Lansing cabled relatives of their predicament. The government may be asked to provide special transportation for the teachers.

Portugal Seeks to Curb Emigration.

POVOA DE VARZIM, Portugal, Aug. 19 (AP).—The government, alarmed at the decline of the Portuguese population, today began a nation-wide drive to discourage emigration to Brazil and South America. The campaign was started in this important fishing centre because it provides many emigrants for Brazil.

ANOTHER ZUTA BOX FOUND IN CHICAGO

It Contains Checks Cashed by State Senator, He Declares, for Legal Services.

5 MORE NAMES DISCLOSED

Evanston Police Chief Asserts Loan Was Purely Business and That Zuta Was Not a Criminal.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Another safe-deposit belonging to Jack Zuta, slain leader of the Zuta-Moran-Aiello gang, was raided today by Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson.

The contents of this new Zuta vault, the fourth opened by the State Attorney's office since the murder of the gangster, remain a secret with the State Attorney's forces for the present.

It was reported, however, that the box, which was found in the basement of the Capitol Building, contained new evidence against public officials and politicians and that additional disclosures concerning those to whom Zuta paid tribute may be expected.

The prosecutors made public today further evidence in which five names were added to those named in papers found in the Zuta boxes, including Harry W. Starr, lawyer, State Senator, former city prosecutor and former election commissioner.

Senator Starr, it was found, had received two checks from Zuta, each for $200, one dated Oct. 5, 1926, and the other Oct. 16, 1926. The Senator's endorsement appeared, with that of his law partner, Robert C. Hardy, on the back of both checks.

"The checks were given to me by Zuta in payment for legal services which I rendered for him," Senator Starr told the prosecutors. "He came to me and stated that a judgment had been returned against him in connection with an automobile accident. He asked me to appear before Judge Robert Gentzel to make a motion for vacation of the judgment. I made the motion, and won the case. As I recall, my fee was in the neighborhood of $1,000, and Zuta paid it in a number of checks."

Chief of Police Freeman of Evanston, in part, repudiated today earlier statements regarding the discovery in Zuta's safe deposit vault of a note in which he besought "dear Jack" to come to the rescue of his "old pal, Bill," with a loan of $400. He declared he did not intend to resign until the return of Mayor Bartlett of Evanston from Radium Springs, Col.

B. M. T. PRICE UP AGAIN.

Transit Officials Continue Discussion of Purchase Terms.

Members of the Transit Commission and Board of Transportation continued yesterday their series of conferences designed to fix the maximum price to be used in negotiations for unification of B. M. T. rapid transit lines with the city's new independent subway system. The meetings will continue from day to day, although Chairman William G. Fullen of the Transit Commission will be out of the city for about two weeks to recuperate from a recent brief illness.

Those who attended yesterday's conference were Commissioners Fullen, Lockwood and Godley of the Transit Commission; Samuel Untermyer, special counsel, and Commissioners Delaney and Ryan of the Board of Transportation. The conferees again discussed proposed bases for price-fixing, predicated upon different theories of valuing the company's rapid transit properties.

Butler and Williams Faction of Queens Democrats Names Slate to Oppose Theofel Men.

WIDE RIFT IN RICHMOND

Rendt Forces Oppose Choices of Borough President Lynch in Struggle for Control.

MANN RIVAL OF MRS. PRATT

Makes Blanket Protest Against Her Petitions—Sheridan an Exception to Tammany Renominations.

Primary contests for party nominations and positions will centre in Queens and Richmond this year, it was disclosed last night when the time for filing designating petitions with the Board of Elections expired at midnight.

In Queens, the Democratic faction headed by County Chairman James Butler and former Tax Commissioner Richard H. Williams, named a complete slate against the candidates of the regular Democratic organization headed by Executive Chairman John Theofel. The contest also is for control of the county organization and there are opposing candidates for members of the County Committee and the Democratic State Committee.

Among the Queens Republicans the contest is entirely for party control, an agreement having been reached on candidates for county offices under which John Holley Clark Jr., a supporter of Borough President George U. Harvey, was named for Surrogate, and Samuel J. Wood, a member of the regular organization headed by County Chairman Joseph H. De Bragga, was named for County Clerk. The fight between the regulars and the Harvey faction is for members of the party committees and for delegates to the State convention. Raymond S. Richmond, leader of the Third Assembly District, is the probable candidate of the regulars for county chairman to succeed Mr. De Bragga, and Borough Secretary Frederick Sasse is the probable choice of the Harvey faction for the same place.

Democrats Split in Richmond.

In Richmond there is a fight all along the line between candidates of the rival Democratic factions headed by County Chairman David D. Rendt and Borough President John A. Lynch. Mr. Rendt is facing personal opposition for re-election as member of the Democratic State Committee from the First Assembly District, the Lynch faction having named William J. McDermott as a candidate against him.

George Hiram Mann of Brooklyn, who several times has been a candidate on a platform of back pay for navy yard workers, filed a petition as a candidate against Mrs. Ruth Pratt for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Seventeenth Congressional District.

Simeon J. Beckerman, who presented Mr. Mann's petitions, attacked the validity of Mrs. Pratt's petitions on the ground that they contained forgeries and an insufficient number of valid signatures. Mr. Beckerman's attack, which followed refusal of the board to permit him to examine Mrs. Pratt's petitions at this time, took the form of a formal blanket protest. As Mrs. Pratt is the Republican organization candidate, Mr. Beckerman's protest was regarded as technical and not likely to invalidate Mrs. Pratt's petitions.

Contest Among Republicans.

The only Republican contest of consequence in Manhattan is for the nominations for Municipal Court Justices in the new Tenth District. All four contestants for the two places are Negroes. Assemblyman Francis E. Rivers and Alderman John C. Hawkins, the organization designees, are opposed by two former Assemblymen, Lamar Parkins and Pope B. Billups.

In the Twenty-third Brooklyn Assembly District, former Assemblyman Joseph Ricca, filed as a candidate for member of the Republican State Committee against Walter Ludden, present member and district leader. Mr. Ludden is an employe of the Board of Elections and Mr. Ricca insisted upon filing his petition with him personally.

Just before midnight Francis P. Campbell filed a petition as a candidate for member of the Democratic State Committee against Alderman Peter J. McGuinness, leader of the Fifteenth Brooklyn Assembly District.

For the most part, Tammany and its allied Democratic organizations in the other counties of the city renominated the Democratic Representatives, State Senators and Assemblymen, a notable exception being Senator Thomas I. Sheridan of the Sixteenth District, who was turned down in favor of Assistant Corporation Counsel John J. McNaboe and decided not to make a primary fight.

Berg Seeks Senatorship.

In the Twenty-second Senatorial District, the Bronx, the Democratic organization named Assemblyman Julius S. Berg to succeed Senator Benjamin Antin, who declined renomination. Carl Pack was named in place of Mr. Berg for the Democratic nomination for the Assembly in the Third Bronx District.

Assemblyman Joseph H. Broderick, Democrat, of the Thirteenth Manhattan District, will be opposed for renomination by William J. Sheldrick, designee of the regular Tammany organization of the district, of which Andrew B. Keating is leader. Alderman Patrick S. Dowd, who failed by a narrow margin to defeat Mr. Keating for leader last year is a candidate for member of the Democratic State Committee against John K. Nugent, choice of the Keating faction.

REPUBLICANS FILE CONTESTS UP-STATE

Herkimer Wet Faction, Backed by T. D. Robinson, Outnumbers Regulars on Petition 2 to 1.

Contests in several up-State Republican strongholds for delegates and alternates to the State convention, as well as for local county and municipal nominations, featured the closing of the time for the filing of primary designations last night.

In addition to the fight being made in Westchester by the wets against the organization ticket, a strong bid was made in Herkimer County by the wet faction, supported by Theodore Douglas Robinson, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Wet Issue to Fore in Herkimer.

Special to The New York Times.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Herkimer County Republicans filed two lists of delegates and alternates to the State convention today, one being supported by 2,701 anti-prohibition partisans and the other by 1,329 organization voters.

The committee for the anti-prohibition faction, headed by Charles L. Earl, have declared that their delegation would vote for a State plank favoring a change in the prohibition laws.

Chairman John L. Crofts and the delegates chosen by the organization have clearly defined their position as supporting the present law.

The anti-prohibition faction has the backing of Theodore Douglas Robinson of Warren, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

The wet delegation is headed by Hon. I. R. Devendorf, former Supreme Court judge and the dry faction by Hon. Henry I. Patrie, State Senator.

Broome Woman Out for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 11.—All primary election contests in Broome County are on the Republican side. William H. Hill, Hoover triumvir, the organization leader, has adopted a hands-off policy for a free-for-all primary battle.

The principal contest is for the nomination to the district attorneyship. The four candidates are Herbert H. Ray, Binghamton's first assistant corporation counsel; Frank L. Wooster, now first assistant district attorney; Herman F. Nehlsen and Burton Orrell. As the filing time expired today Joseph E. North unexpectedly quit the race.

For the first time in the history of Broome County politics a woman has entered the Congressional primary race, Miss Margaret Smith of Binghamton running against John D. Clarke of Delaware, and Harold S. Tolley of Binghamton for the Republican nomination.

No Contests in Albany County.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 19.—No contests for party nominations for delegates to the two State conventions developed tonight in Albany County when the filing time expired. The Democrats submitted a list of twenty-nine delegates and alternates and the Republicans twenty-two, who will go uninstructed.

Race Each in Monroe and Chemung.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—With everything serene in the Democratic camp, the opposition of Glenn Simpson, Rochester merchant, to John H. Law, incumbent, for the Republican nomination for County Clerk is the only outstanding primary contest on the horizon in Monroe County today.

Special to The New York Times.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The only important contest before the voters of Chemung County in the filing today is that between Representative Gale H. Stalker of Elmira, seeking the Republican renomination for Congress on a bone-dry platform, and County Clerk Reuben B. Oldfield of Bath, Steuben County, standing for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Seymour Lowman, Chemung County leader, is said to be behind Mr. Stalker.

WET REPUBLICANS FILE CONTEST SLATE

Insurgents Oppose Nearly All Westchester and Rockland Organization Designees.

GOODRICH TO FACE RIVALRY

A. B. Campbell to Run Against Assemblyman — Democrats Virtually Unopposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Closing time tonight on the filing of petitions for delegates for the Republican and Democratic State conventions and for candidates for the Assembly and Congressional nominations, found the Republican party organization slate opposed for almost every post by insurgent wet candidates and with virtually no opposition to any of the Democratic organization nominees.

The fight centres chiefly in the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, comprising part of Westchester and all of Rockland counties, where John M. Holzworth of Port Chester, a pronounced wet, will seek the Congressional nomination in the primaries against Charles D. Millard and Robert A. Patteson, both of Tarrytown. Mr. Millard recently came out as mildly wet, while Mr. Patteson has the announced support of the Anti-Saloon League. The Democratic nominee, T. George Barnes of Ossining, is unopposed.

For delegates to the Republican State Convention the insurgent wets have filed full tickets, opposing the organization ticket in all but one of the five Assembly districts in the county. The exception is in the third district, where there is one less insurgent designation than the number proposed by the Ward organization.

The fight is particularly strong in the Second Assembly District, where William L. Ward, the Westchester County leader; Henry R. Barrett, Howard R. Washburn and others are opposed by Lee Parsons Davis, Joseph Clark Baldwin Jr., John M. Holzworth and others.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, announced today that his organization had not committed itself to the insurgent Republican group of candidates to the exclusion of all others.

Milan E. Goodrich, Republican incumbent and candidate for renomination to the Assembly from the Third Assembly District, found himself opposed by a wet candidate tonight when Allan B. Campbell filed his designating petition to oppose him in the Republican primaries.

Mr. Holzworth, in a pamphlet circulated from his headquarters today, said that his intention, aside from fighting for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, was to serve the people in his district, not to "boss" them. Mrs. William Gibson of Pleasantville, in a letter made public by the Holzworth headquarters, promised the support of 300 Pleasantville women to his candidacy.

1,000 INDIANS ACT IN AGE-OLD PAGEANT

They Portray at Albuquerque, N. M., Their Ancient History in Primitive Spectacles.

CONQUISTADORES DEPICTED

Mimic Battle With Whites Ends First of Four-Day Program—Many Spectators Present.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 19.—Age-old ceremonies tonight were reenacted by a thousand Indian performers in the opening performance of the four-day pageant of the redskin, the first American.

Student of Indian culture, artists, educators, tourists and home folk packed the grand stand to witness the spectacle which depicts the life of the Indian from primitive to modern days.

Modern lighting effects and staging added to the impressiveness of the ceremonies, which for centuries have been carried out in the Southwest.

As a red spotlight was turned upon the topmost ladder of the four-story pueblo set, Haske Naswood, Navajo baritone, clad only in loin cloth and with arms outstretched as to the sun, chanted the sunrise call, awakening his people to the day's activities.

With the dawn the pueblo dwellers were astir and the set became alive with Indians. In feathers and paint and costumes in brilliant hues these hundreds of Indians paraded before the stand, beating their tom-toms and chanting in mighty volume. The dark outline of the distant mountain formed the background.

Breaking up into groups as they passed out of the spotlight they danced their tribal dances, fading once more into the darkness to leave the set clear for an old Hopi snake priest, who, in his high-pitched voice, chanted the announcements of the day's activities in his native tongue.

Then followed the invocation to the Sun God by Taptuka, the Hopi tenor, and fire-making by the primitive Indian method, accompanied by the Navajo fire-making chant.

Cochiti maidens, accompanied by the chanting of a male chorus, demonstrated the primitive methods of corn grinding, while in the background Pueblo women walked in single file to the community spring, with water jugs on their heads.

There was a call for a rain dance, and when the dancers finished, runners to tell of having seen people as white as snow in the South, and more runners were dispatched to neighboring pueblos to call a council of war.

Then the Pueblo people were called together and the prophecy of the coming of a strange people was interpreted by Chief Yowlache, a Yakima Indian. Hunters reported a scarcity of game and a Hopi chorus made a plea for the game to return. Then followed the buffalo hunting dance of the Cochiti.

Tribes arrived for the council of war as Haske Naswood sang the council song. The council smoked the peace pipe, sang the war song and then were informed by smoke signals of the approach of the strange people.

Spanish conquistadores swept up and engaged the Indians in battle.

Thus the first quarter of the drama ended.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights subsequent eras in the life of the Indian will be portrayed.

300 PURSUERS FAIL TO CATCH HORRNER

Man Believed to Be Fugitive Is Sighted in Woods Near Letchworth Village.

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The search for William Horrner, who escaped from the Palisades Interstate Park police Sunday night after he had been charged with attacking a 15-year-old girl in Harriman Park, was pressed all last night and today by posses number 300, who were aided by four bloodhounds.

A man believed to have been the fugitive emerged from the woods bordering the park to the country estate of Briggs Buchanan at Letchworth Village early this afternoon. He seemed exhausted and confused, and when sighted by employes on the estate retreated into the woods.

Policemen were rushed to the place in automobiles and began beating through the woods and brush, but late tonight they had not succeeded in finding the man. The bloodhounds picked up a trail which seemed to lead in the direction of Letchworth Village.

Horrner was also believed to have been sighted twice during the night by searchers, who, however, lost him in the darkness as he vanished in the woods. Included in the searching parties are park, town and State police and civilians. Marines from the Iona Island naval station kept watch along the Hudson River.

BAR CHIEFS UPHOLD POLL ON DRY LAW

the lawyers should take a stand on it.

The questionnaire is as follows:

1—Do you favor a referendum by the Bar Association on the question of the Eighteenth Amendment?

2—Do you favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment?

It was intended to have the returns made public in October, but it was suggested that the result be withheld until after the November elections.

Plan Fight on the Floor.

Judge Bruce or Mr. MacChesney will attempt to bring the question before the convention tomorrow, hoping to have the executive committee's stand disapproved. The report of the committee is due tomorrow morning, after the address by the president of the association, Henry Upson Sims of Birmingham, Ala.

A new type of prisoner has come about since prohibition, according to William W. Grant Jr. of Denver, who investigated the Canon City prison mutiny for the Governor of Colorado.

"The liquor laws have put within our penitentiaries a new type of offender who knows no law, and who has money and organization outside at his command in many instances," Mr. Grant said. "It stands to reason that he is not ready to take his medicine as the old-time criminal did. This new type infects the rest of the prison population with discontent, resentment against any kind of discipline, and an unscrupulous disregard for the rights, feelings and obligations of the rest of the world, that, so far as I know, has never been duplicated in prison history."

"Lawless enforcement of law," a report made to the section on criminal law, states that the "third degree" is in use almost everywhere in the United States. Cases of whipping, beating, confinement in sweat boxes, dark cells, the use of the electric chair and various forms of torture are cited.

"We are a lawless people," the report states. "Crime exists among us to an extent unknown in Great Britain, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium, France or Germany. And our lawlessness is not an acute but a chronic disease.

Laws Here Unknown Abroad.

"While we are a lawless people, we prohibit by law acts not elsewhere forbidden. For example, our laws and ordinances against gambling, narcotics, lewd conduct, selling or possessing alcoholic beverages put burdens upon the police which those of England do not have to carry, and this state of things is likely to continue indefinitely.

"Our criminal procedure in the courts is cumbersome, slow, lax, uncertain. Our police, and particularly the detectives, are too often ill trained or untrained."

The committee recommended that the association declare that the examination of persons under arrest, except in the presence of the prisoner's attorneys, is contrary to sound practice and an obstacle to law and order. Laws and rules should be changed to permit the prosecution to comment on the fact that the defendant did not take the stand as a witness, the report suggested.

Recent legislation concerning crime was reported upon by Professor James J. Robinson of the University of Indiana. Legislatures, he said, have difficulty in drawing the line between criminal law and personal liberty, and this is left to the courts to define.

European Delegation Welcomed.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP).—The delegation of lawyers and jurists from England, Ireland, Scotland and France, touring Canada and the United States on its way to Chicago, where the lawyers will attend the annual convention of the American Bar Association, crossed the border from Niagara Falls, Ont., to this city today and was formally welcomed to the United States on behalf of the American Bar Association by William G. Guthrie of New York City.

The European delegation, which is headed by Viscount Dunedin, head of the judicial committee of the Privy Council of Great Britain, was escorted across the border by a committee of the Niagara County and Erie County bar associations and taken on a motor tour to old Fort Niagara, where they examined the historic castle and blockhouses of early frontier days.

Prof. Seager Better, Cable Says.

Professor Henry R. Seager of Columbia University, who is ill of bronchial pneumonia in a hospital in Kiev, Russia, is making normal progress, according to a cablegram received at the university yesterday. No complications have set in and Professor Seager soon should be convalescing, the message said. Professor Seager went to Russia about a month ago with a party of American economists to study the five-year industrialization plan of the Soviet Government.

BONE PIERCES ARTERY.

Flier Dies From Blood Flooding Into His Lungs.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, Aug. 19.—A strange death certificate was on file today at Wheeler Field covering the case of Lieutenant M. M. Works, who was killed yesterday when his plane crashed at Heleiwa. Physicians at first believed the flier had died of a broken neck, but an autopsy revealed he was literally drowned by blood flooding his lungs when his pursuit ship was wrecked after striking a sand dune in an emergency field.

He suffered a broken collar-bone, which punctured an artery, and the blood thus released ran into his lungs, causing his death by strangulation. The funeral was held this afternoon, and the body will be returned to Amarillo, Texas, his home.

MISS JEAN GRAVES TO WED ON OCT. 9

Miss Peggy Gould Chosen by W. H. White's Bride-to-Be as Only Attendant.

FOR CEREMONY IN CHURCH

Small Reception Will Follow at the Home of Miss Graves in South Orange, N. J.

Owing to mourning, invitations to the marriage of Miss Jean Stevenson Graves, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hale Graves, to W. Holden White on Oct. 9 will be restricted to near relatives and a few close friends.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Thomas Walkley in Grace Church, South Orange, N. J. A small reception will follow at the home of Miss Graves. Miss Peggy Gould will be maid of honor and the only attendant for Miss Graves, who is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Graves of Orange and of the late Mr. and Mrs. William N. Stevenson of South Orange.

Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Windsor White of Cleveland. His father founded the White Motor Company.

Other Wedding Plans

La Boyteaux—Purdey.

Miss Mary Stewart La Boyteaux, who will be wed to Captain James Alexander Purdey of London, England, on Aug. 28, will have but one attendant, her sister, Mrs. Edward S. Pegram Jr., the former Miss Elizabeth La Boyteaux.

Captain Purdey's best man will be the Hon. Charles Samuel Victor Allsopp, Lieutenant in the Royal Artillery. There will be no ushers.

The marriage will take place at River Fields, the Summer home of Miss La Boyteaux's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Harvell La Boyteaux, in Rumson, N. J. The Rev. Dr. Owen will officiate.

Captain Purdey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Athol Purdy of London.

Downing—Nisbet.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 19.—Miss Lucy C. Downing, daughter of Mrs. Sara P. Downing of New York, has chosen her cousin, Mrs. Graham Thomson of Greenwich, Conn., for matron of honor and her only attendant, at her wedding to Edward B. Nisbet, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. B. Nisbet.

The ceremony will take place at Mrs. Downing's Summer home, Hill Crest, in Great Barrington, at 1 P. M. on Wednesday, Sept. 10. William Browning Nisbet Jr. will be best man and George Franklin Brown of Syracuse, N. Y.; George B. Cluett of Troy, N. Y.; John Langdon Dodge Peters Jr. of New York; Paul Cort Downing Jr., brother of the bride, and Richard Durant of Hartford will be ushers.

Mersereau—Palmer.

The marriage of Miss Juliette Dix Mersereau, daughter of Mrs. Harmon David Mersereau of this city, to Brooks Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace Palmer of Bradford, Mass., will take place on Sept. 20 in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church. The rector, the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, will perform the ceremony. Due to mourning in Miss Mersereau's family, only relatives and intimate friends will attend.

Mrs. Walter Robert Barnes will be Miss Mersereau's matron of honor. Mr. Palmer will have Hugh Kilmer of Larchmont, N. Y., as his best man, and John Read of Swampscott, Mass., as usher.

Miss Mersereau, on her father's side, is of Huguenot ancestry. She is a descendant of General Joshua Mersereau, who served on the staff of George Washington. On the maternal side Miss Mersereau is related to the late Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, for many years rector of Trinity Church, and to J. Massey Rhind, the sculptor.

The engagement was announced in June.

Fain—Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hugh Fain of Round Hill Road, Greenwich, Conn., have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Fain, to Charles Dickerman Williams, son of Mrs. Howard H. Williams of this city. The ceremony will take place on Sept. 6 in Rosemary Chapel, Greenwich, and will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fain.

Miss Fain has chosen Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt Field for matron of honor, and the Misses Elizabeth Fain, her sister, Joy Dickerman, Mary Lambert and Katherine Covell of New York, and Isabella Hopkinson and Elizabeth Perkins of Boston for bridesmaids.

ELIZABETH ADAMS ENGAGED TO MARRY

Betrothal to Stuart C. Squier 2d Announced by Her Parents at Luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Adams of Greenwich, Conn., announced yesterday at a luncheon given at the Greenwich Country Club the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Elizabeth McCord Adams, to Stuart Craig Squier 2d, son of William Craig Squier 3d of Greenwich. Miss Adams is a granddaughter of the late George Herbert McCord, marine and landscape painter. She was graduated from Rosemary Hall in Greenwich and the Katherine Gibbs School in Boston.

Mr. Squier is the grandson of the late Stuart Craig Squier. He attended the Brunswick School, and now is with the Guaranty Trust Company of this city.

Kramer—Frolichstein.

PENELOPE WINSLOW FETED AT NEWPORT

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll D. Winslow Is Introduced at Country Club Tea.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Miss Penelope Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Dana Winslow, joined the ranks of the present season débutantes here today when she was informally introduced at a tea given by her mother at the Country Club. Miss Winslow will be formally introduced at a dance to be given in New York next Winter.

There were 200 guests present. Miss Winslow's grandmother, Mrs. Grenville Kane, was present. An orchestra played during the reception and there was informal dancing during the serving of tea.

Mrs. Richard Van Nest Gambrill gave a small luncheon at her home, Vernon Court, today.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James are to give a supper dance at Beacon Hill House on Wednesday evening, Aug. 27, in honor of Hayward Ferry Manice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William De Forest Manice.

There was another big crowd of Summer residents present at the morning and afternoon session of the annual tennis tournament at the casino. Among the morning arrivals were John Nicholas Brown and his fiancée, Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving, who were accompanied by Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. Nicholas Brown. The party joined Mrs. George Grenville Merrill in the grand stand.

Harold S. Vanderbilt was one of the interested spectators during the morning. Commodore and Mrs. Vincent Astor had the players and the officials of the Casino tennis committee as their luncheon guests at Beechwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, Mrs. William Goadby Loew and Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice also attended the tennis matches.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Banon, who are at their Summer home, registered at the Casino for the season today, and among the other visitors there were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Havemeyer, who are the guests of Miss Anna Sands at her home on Berkeley Avenue; H. R. Winthrop of New York, who is a guest of Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly; Miss Florence Baker of New York and Robert Grant of England, who was present with Miss Doris Duke.

Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt is to be the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner to be given at the La Forge on Thursday night. The dinner has been arranged in appreciation of her efforts in behalf of the children's welfare fund dinner, held at her home, Oakland Farm, last Saturday, when nearly $13,000 was raised. Mrs. Snowden A. Fahnestock, Mrs. Dan Jones, Mrs. Kenneth Shaw Safe and Miss Louise Van Alen are on the committee of arrangements for the dinner.

The final match in the women's doubles tennis tournament was also held at the Casino today. Mrs. Allen W. Morton and her sister, Miss Florence Michell, won two silver vases that had been offered by Mrs. Lorillard Spencer and Miss Natalie Winslow. A mixed doubles tournament will probably be started before the end of the week.

A large audience attended the Casino Theatre for the opening of the second last week of the season of the Casino Players when they presented "Let Us Be Gay," with Miss Francine Larrimore and Robert Lynn in the leading rôles.

Prior to the performance there were a number of dinner parties. Mrs. T. Shaw Safe and Mrs. Guy Cary and Mr. and Mrs. George Brooke entertained, while Mr. and Mrs. John J. Watson of Jamestown gave a dinner at the La Forge. Mrs. Robert Gardiner gave a dinner at Sunny Croft, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarecki also gave a dinner.

A TICKER AND TAPE DINNER.

Wall Street Atmosphere to Prevail at Central Park Casino Tomorrow.

Decorations characteristic of Wall Street will be features of a special dinner to be held tomorrow night at the Central Park Casino. The effect of a broker's office will be suggested by the use of tickers, tape, translux and margin books in the decorative scheme. A special program will be presented by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Among those who have made reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Newell W. Tilton, Mr. and Mrs. Jay F. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Gould and John K. Reckford.

WEST POINT PLANS FETE.

Cadets Will Don Costumes for "Camp Illumination" Saturday.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Following a precedent set by General Washington in 1781, when he directed from his headquarters here that the post be illuminated and decorated in honor of the birth of the Dauphin of France, the corps of cadets next Saturday night will celebrate what is probably the 149th camp illumination.

The festival now marks the end of the Summer's practical military work and the cadets this year will decorate their camp to represent "a night in Spain." Major Gen. William R. Smith, Superintendent of the academy, has authorized the corps for the first time in the memory of "old-timers" to attend in costume. Guests also will be in Spanish costumes.

Each of the six company streets in Camp Clinton will be decorated to depict a phase of Spanish life. Entertainments will be held on each street and a dance will be held on a floor to be constructed through the centre of the camp.

On Sunday afternoon a water carnival will be held at Delafield Pond and will be followed by a full-dress parade.

A Son to Mrs. Lawrence W. Snell Jr.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Snell Jr. of 955 Park Avenue on Monday at the Harbor Hospital. Mrs. Snell before her marriage was Miss Dorothy Donaldson, daughter of the late Keith Donaldson. The child will be named Keith Donaldson for his maternal grandfather.

VISCOUNT IKERRIN WEDS AMERICAN

Mrs. Marion C. Edwards of Philadelphia Becomes Bride at Doylestown.

CEREMONY LAST WEEK

Performed by Judge—Bridegroom Gives Occupation as Stock Broker—Couple to Live in India.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Marion C. Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Donoghue of 2,000 Spruce Street, this city, was married in Doylestown last Thursday to Theobald Henry Walter Somerset Butler, Viscount Ikerrin, of London, it was learned today.

The couple applied for a marriage license at the office of Thomas Ross, a Doylestown attorney, and the application was forwarded to the office of the Clerk of the Orphans' Court in the court house. The marriage was performed shortly afterward by President Judge Hiram H. Keller of the Bucks County Court.

The age of both was given as 27. Mrs. Edwards, who listed her occupation as journalist, received a divorce on July 28 from the son of Mrs. Richard Edwards of 2,217 Locust Street, Philadelphia, an aviator and World War veteran, who is employed in Calcutta by an oil company.

The bride is the mother of three children, who, it is understood, will accompany her and her husband to Calcutta, his residence, although he gave his home as London in the license application.

Viscount Ikerrin, who is the eldest son of Charles Ernest Alfred French Somerset Butler, seventh Earl of Carrick, a native of Ireland, gave his occupation as a stock broker. His mother was the former Rosmand Lindsay, a native of Wales.

The Viscount's title has been in the family since 1629. It is held by the eldest son by courtesy.

Other Weddings

Osborn—Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Edward Marshall of Columbus, Ohio, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Marshall, to Clarence H. Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Osborn of Staten Island, on Aug. 10 in Columbus. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Clark.

The bride had Miss Ruth Burke of Columbus for her only attendant. Arthur A. Marshall of Cincinnati, brother of the bride, was best man for Mr. Osborn. A reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Samuel M. Marshall, followed the ceremony.

McLaughlin—Calnon.

The marriage of Miss Genevieve Calnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calnon of Canton, N. Y., to William Patrick McLaughlin, son of Mrs. William McLaughlin of Cambridge, Mass., and the late Mr. McLaughlin, took place yesterday morning in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Graham, who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed.

The bride wore a traveling gown of brown velvet with a hat to match, and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Elizabeth Calnon, who wore a gown of rose crêpe with a beige hat. Mr. McLaughlin had his brother, John B. McLaughlin, for best man.

After a wedding breakfast at the Commodore, Mr. McLaughlin and his bride left for a wedding trip through New England. They will live in Cambridge.

Miss Gaethofs to Wed Cyclist.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 19.—Mary Filomena Gaethofs, 19-year-old daughter of the late August Gaethofs, the professional pacemaker who was fatally injured by a fall on the Cycledrome track here some months ago, has obtained a license to marry John Joseph Bruskie, a professional cyclist, known on New York, Newark (N. J.) and New England tracks. As Miss Gaethofs is under age, the consent of her mother was required. Mrs. Gaethofs married Charles Turville, manager of the Cycledrome, after her husband was killed and is now living in Newark.

DELAWARE TO GIVE FLAG.

Will Replace State Ensign Stolen From Saratoga Battlefield.

An emissary of the Governor of Delaware will present the flag of that State to George O. Slingerland of Mechanicville, N. Y., superintendent of the Saratoga Battlefield, at exercises to be held at Fraunces Tavern, Broad and Pearl Streets, the headquarters of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The reason for the presentation dates back to the dedication of the Saratoga Battlefield just after it had been taken over by the State in 1927. Flags of all the States were used in the ceremonies. Afterward it was found that four State flags—those of Alabama, Arizona, Delaware and Oklahoma—had been stolen. Failing to obtain an appropriation to replace the flags, Mr. Slingerland wrote to the Governors of the four States. The Arizona flag has already been received.

Official Trials to Select America's Cup Defender Begin Off Newport Today

TRIAL RACES START OFF NEWPORT TODAY

Series of Official Tests Likely to Be Curtailed if One Yacht Stands Out.

SELECTION DATE ADVANCED

America's Cup Defender to Be Named Before Sept. 6, Which Is Final Day for Choice.

RACERS FIT FOR CONTESTS

Today's Program Will Not Be Known Until Four Craft Reach Starting Line.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—With the official trial races of the four American defense candidates scheduled to start tomorrow, it was announced tonight that selection of the America's Cup yacht to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V will not be withheld until the stipulated time limit of a week before the international races, which open off here on Sept. 13.

Such leeway was permitted in the conditions governing the races agreed upon in the negotiations between the Royal Ulster Yacht Club of Belfast, Ireland, through which Sir Thomas challenged, and the New York Yacht Club, holder of the cup.

The cup defense committee also announced that the impending trial races not only would be the culminating series of contests, but that they would "continue until the committee has selected the defender."

This was in the form of sailing instructions issued and printed on shamrock green paper that, it was explained, bore no significance.

Ten Races Are Scheduled.

There are ten races scheduled up to and including Aug. 30, with a day of rest next Sunday. But the full program may not be held as a curtailment of the series is likely if one of the four contenders steps out promptly in marked superiority to the others.

The skippers and managers of the four boats, Weetamoe, Enterprise, Yankee and Whirlwind, were called together tonight and informed of this.

They also learned that there would be no advance information as to how they would race. Those in charge of the boats will not know until they get to the starting line tomorrow whether they will be in a four-cornered contest or whether there will be pairings, and if they are sent away in match contests, which their opponents will be.

This was decided upon so there could be no prearranged shifting of ballast, in order that one boat might be lightened, for instance, with the knowledge that she were to compete against a light air craft.

Notice of the line-up will be given the last minute. It may be that letters will be drawn from a hat and that A first will race B and C will trim sheets against D, as was the case in the observation series last month. Then there were three windward and leeward races, with changing partners, and three triangular ones in the round robin.

Lots May Be Drawn.

It is unlikely, however, that such one arrangement will be made. Lots may be drawn, without any prearranged lettering, and again the contestants in pairings may be selected at random.

The guess, though, is that the two light-weather boats will be paired to fight it out in several contests and the two heavy-weather ones. That would mean that Weetamoe and Enterprise would battle until one or the other showed marked superiority, and, on the other hand, Yankee and Whirlwind. Then the winners of those pairings would get together for a final showdown.

All this may be gone through before the end of the month. But there is one thing that may prolong the trials. The committee is determined that the contestants show ability or fragility in as much as a twenty-knot breeze.

The probability is borne in mind that with the international races to be sailed in September there is likely to be one fresh wind or more, and there is no willingness to let the candidates for cup defense honors get away with faint air standing, alone, such as they have had on all their races during the Summer except on three occasions.

The boat to be selected as defender must be one that shows she can stand up under a breeze as well as a zephyr. With this in mind, there is to be a test of masts and rigging under strain before any decision is made.

Weetamoe Has Slight Edge.

Unofficially, as the final trials start, it may be said that Weetamoe has a slight margin of consideration as a boat, and Harold S. Vanderbilt as a skipper. If Weetamoe can weather a blow and show a foot in one, she is likely to be put down as the choice.

Mr. Vanderbilt, at the wheel of Enterprise, has done the best work of the skippers in the races so far, and his perseverance and unflinching endeavor have stamped him for unquestioned consideration. Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams is expected to sail Yankee again, with George S. Nichols at the helm of Weetamoe and Landon K. Thorne skippering the Whirlwind.

There has been practically no change in the riggings of the boats. Enterprise will race with her new main boom sail shift. The boom is four feet wide on top, with slots so arranged that the sail shifts from side to side with the wind. When she is on the starboard tack, or with the wind on the starboard hand, the foot of the sail slides over to port, or to leeward, thus giving more of a belly and pull along the foot of the sail. Two new main sails have been made that fit this new condition.

While Enterprise is under sail, one easily can walk along the top of the boom. It provides a regular foot path.

Weetamoe has her light, round mast. It was stepped in her at the Herreshoff yard in Bristol, tested out in Narragansett Bay, and considered strong enough.

Yankee and Whirlwind both have new sails. No more major changes have been made in Whirlwind.

All four of the racers have been hauled out to have their underbodies scrubbed and polished so they will slip through the water at their best.

Enterprise and Yankee were out this afternoon for short sail stretchings and Weetamoe came down from Bristol under canvas.

At the meeting tonight of the skippers, certificates of measurements of the yachts were presented, showing that the boats rated in Class J, as required in the cup conditions, and also certificates from Lloyd's that they had been constructed according to its strength requirements.

The trial races will be sailed over the chosen international courses, with the start and finish nine miles southeast of Brenton lightship, off here. If the boats are matched, as is expected, the first pair will be started at 11:40 A. M. and the second fifteen minutes later, wind and weather permitting. It is probable that the contest or contests tomorrow will be fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return.

Symbol of Valor and Tragedy On Bargee Flown by Shamrock

Flying from the main masthead of Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin, and from the America's Cup boat Shamrock V when she is at anchor, is a blue flag that has attracted no end of attention and comment. On it is the British crown in gold and under that a red, bloody hand, with fingers extended. It is the burgee of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club of Belfast, Ireland, through which Sir Thomas challenged.

The legend of the hand is one of valor and tragedy. Years ago in the north of Ireland to win a yacht race it was necessary for a member of a crew to reach shore and place his hand upon the beach. One far-heralded race was close. A sailor suddenly realized a rival was ahead. He cut off his own hand and threw it ashore, thus technically winning for his boat. The bloody hand was adopted by the Royal Ulsters.

WASH HULL AND KEEL OF THE SHAMROCK V

Official Measurements of Cup Challenger to Be Taken When Sand-Papering Is Finished.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 19.—Sir Thomas Lipton's America's Cup challenger, Shamrock V, which was hauled out on the Electric Boat Company's ways late yesterday afternoon, is not expected to be lowered into the Thames River until sometime next Thursday.

A score of the shipyard employes at an early hour this morning, started washing the hull and keel of the racing sloop and at noon the scrubbing was finished. Then the task of rubbing began and many sheets of wet sand paper were used, with the work still in progress at dusk this evening.

Four men from Columbia University arrived this afternoon at the ship yard and were anxiously waiting for the polishing gang to quit work so that they could start in on the official measuring of the Shamrock V below the water-line.

The men, who are from the department of physics at Columbia, include Professor H. W. Webb, official measurer of the New York Yacht Club; Professor S. L. Quimby, S. Cooey, mechanician, and Professor I. I. Rabbi.

City officials and officers of local civic organizations are planning a reception for Shamrock V's owner, should the noted yachtsman decide to come to New London on his steam yacht Erin. Nothing definite is known of Sir Thomas's plans, but there is a feeling that he will arrive before the Shamrock V leaves for Newport.

In the event of the Erin arriving in the daytime, a fleet of small vessels will go out to escort her into the harbor, providing word of her coming is received in time. The Eastern Point and Fisher's Island Yacht Clubs have promised their cooperation.

PALMER ADVANCES IN JUNIOR TENNIS

First Seeded Player in Metropolitan Tourney Is Victor Over Barbank.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Ray Palmer of Malba, L. I., first of the seeded players, today turned back William W. Burbank of Larchmont, 6—3, 6—2, in the third round of the metropolitan junior tennis championship tournament on the courts at Briarcliff Lodge. Donald Morrison of Washington, New York State junior champion and third seeded player, defaulted his third-round match to Arthur Stein of Far Rockaway.

In the boys' matches, Ray Antignat of Ridgewood, N. J., turned in the first upset when he defeated John Dietz, seeded No. 1, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2. Later, Antignat in turn met defeat at the hands of Marvin Freudenheim in a semi-final match after a hard battle, 6—1, 5—7, 6—1.

THE SUMMARIES.

Junior Singles.

ENGLISH CREW WINS EMPIRE GAMES RACE

London R. C., Which Gained Grand Challenge Cup Abroad, Scores at Hamilton, Ont.

PEARCE SCULLING VICTOR

Olympic Champion Captures Special Event, Beating Beresford, Gilmore, Wright.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 19.—Rowing over the waters of Burlington Bay at the head of Lake Ontario, the London Rowing Club eight, England's fine crew that won the Grand Challenge Cup, triumphed in the Empire Games today. The winners held off the continued spurts of the challengers from far off New Zealand that had traveled some 10,000-miles to compete against them in the Henley Regatta of the British Empire Games and won by the margin of three-quarters of a length, with Canada's representatives, the Leander Boat Club, trailing by eight lengths.

The eight oared event came as the climax to the rowing program and it was after 8 o'clock before the starter's gun started them down a course of calm water while 25,000 persons watched.

English Lead Early in Race.

The English crew led almost from the start with Terrance O'Brien setting the beat at a 37 that kept the shell out ahead of the champion All-Blacks, who, with a longer stroke, rowed down in the low thirties.

Rigged with thole-pins, the New Zealand shell came closest to overtaking the Englishmen at the three-quarter mile mark when they were only a deck length back, but O'Brien met the spurt and Coxswain Justin Brown, who has steered Cambridge crews to four victories over Oxford, signaled with the electric buzzer, part of the shell's equipment, to the bow for speed ahead and shouted simultaneously and England kept the lead.

Although Bob Pearce, the Olympic sculling champion, has been pointing for the Henley race tomorrow, he won the quarter-mile dash, a special event, that brought some of the champions into action this afternoon when the water was roughest.

Gilmore Gains Advantage.

Garrett Gilmore, former American champion, off to a flying start, had a three-length lead in the early stages over Pearce and Joe Wright Jr., the Canadian, while Jack Beresford, the former Diamond Sculls holder, and Fred Bradley, England's representative, for tomorrow's Henley were only a length back.

Cutting over the course, however, Gilmore swung from the fourth lane to the second, and then Pearce fairly lifted his shell out of the water. He shot past Gilmore, who, seeing a collision almost certain, stopped sculling. Beresford finished second, a length back of Pearce, and Bradley was third, Gilmore being disqualified.

England's remarkable little swimmer, Miss Joyce Cooper, set a Canadian record in capturing the 100-yard free style swim, her time being 67 seconds.

Comparison of the Four Cup Contenders Based on Their Performances Thus Far

WEETAMOE.

While speed is a difficult thing to measure in yacht racing, with wind variance and tides to figure on, Weetamoe showed several bursts of speed that stamped her in the minds of many as the fastest all-around boat of the four in light breezes. Her rig is the simplest of all, so that her headsails can be handled quickly, and question as to its strength was about dispelled when she went through two days of heavy seas without mishap. She pointed high against the wind, and reached and ran fairly well. Her extreme cut-away forefoot caused some to believe that she could not hold on when slapped by cross seas. She did remarkably in them.

YANKEE.

Built for heavier weather than Weetamoe or Enterprise, the Boston boat Yankee did not get going in the light zephyrs of June and July except once or twice. When she did come to life she showed striking bursts of speed. With a wider beam than the others, she was expected to ride the seas well, but the days they rolled up she seemed to sit on top of them instead of sliding over them. Her rigging is strong, and if some early Fall breezes come along she may be up in the running. Yankee may be called the unknown quantity.

ENTERPRISE.

For consistent performances Enterprise surely has the call. She beat Weetamoe on several occasions, and was either first or second at the finish more times than any of the other three boats. She, too, pointed high, and showed well in light airs. Her best point was on the wind. Reaching and running off it she did not do so well at first, but improved later when her head was raised. She will have a new boom in the trials on which her mainsail will slide from side to side, affording it more of a pull on the foot. With it she may show even better than she has.

WHIRLWIND.

The largest of the four boats, Whirlwind was expected to be the one with the greatest power in a breeze and sea. She showed reaching and running speed from the first, but fell away on the wind. Her balance under sail was wrong, and twice her mast was stepped further forward to do away with a strong weather helm and consequent rudder drag. Further changes have been made in the hope of bettering her in windward work. It may be said of Whirlwind that she never has attained the point of speed that seems to be in her. Those in charge of her hope for Autumnal winds, under which they believe she will step out.

COLLEEN CAPTURES STAR CLASS EVENT

Leads Rival Boats in Test Preliminary to Title Series Starting Today.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHPORT, Conn., Aug. 19.—The annual Atlantic Coast International Star Class championship races, held under the auspices of the Pequot Yacht Club, were ushered in this afternoon with an unofficial open race for Star Class boats, in which the championship contenders and fifteen other Stars took part.

The winner was Colleen of the Pequot Yacht Club, one of the Western Long Island Sound fleet in the championship, sailed by Briggs Cunningham, with his wife's sister, Miss Ruth Bedford, aboard as crew. Colleen drifted across the finish line 6 minutes 25 seconds ahead of Lotus, owned by Harold L. Nash of the Pequot Club and sailed by one of his sons. Lotus is not a championship contender.

The race was sailed in a light wind that blew out of the south by east at the start and then got around a bit more to the south. The race committee, headed by Dr. C. G. Fox of the Pequot Yacht Club, laid a course to windward and return, intending to have the boats sail twice around it. The first leg was a two and one-half mile beat and then a run home.

The breeze was so light, however, that when the leading boats drifted within sight of the committee a signal was hoisted notifying the crews that there would be but one round.

SHIELDS CONQUERS DOEG AT NEWPORT

Davis Cup Player Eliminated by 6-4, 10-12, 6-2—Hall Turns Back Bell, 6-2, 7-5.

TILDEN IS HARD PRESSED

Hobbles Through Two Sets to Win From Millen, 8-6, 7-5—Hunter and Lott Also Gain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Ranking players met defeat today in the second day of play of the fourteenth annual invitation tennis tournament at the Newport Casino. One of them was John H. Doeg, Davis Cup team member and third in the national ranking, who was defeated by Frank X. Shields, the rising young New Yorker, 6—4, 10—12, 6—2.

Then J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange accounted for another "first ten man" when he defeated Berkeley Bell of Texas in straight sets, 6—2, 7—5.

Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion, entered the fourth round by winning from E. W. Feibleman, New York, a consistent tournament player, 6—2, 6—3.

It was a day of uncertainty throughout, and once or twice in the match that he finally won, 8—6, 7—5, William T. Tilden was in danger of losing to John S. Millen of New York. Tilden's leg continued to bother him and he hobbled through two long sets obviously in pain.

Of the seeded Americans, Tilden, Lott, Allison, Hunter, Wood, Mangin, Van Ryn and Sutter remain, and of the six foreigners seeded, only Perry and Avory of the English team are undefeated. Keith Gledhill, Bryan Grant, Shields, Hall, Edward Jacobs and Junior Coen are those not seeded remaining in the fourth round.

THE SUMMARIES.

MISS NUTHALL ADVANCES

Puts Out Mrs. Lamme at Forest Hills, 6-1, 6-1—Miss Gladman Loses to Mrs. Corbierre.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

The end of the second day of competition in the women's national tennis championship at Forest Hills yesterday found the younger generation of players almost completely in command of the situation, with the California and Boston representation occupying eleven of the sixteen brackets.

The defeat of Miss Eleanor Goss, formerly one of the most formidable rivals of Mrs. Molla Mallory and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and member of the first ten no less than ten times since 1918, by the 18-year-old Miss Helen Marlowe of Los Angeles served to emphasize the ascendancy of the rising generation, and at the same time put New York out of the running for the title that Mrs. Moody has allowed to go undefended, and which Miss Betty Nuthall is favored to carry off to England.

Only a handful of spectators witnessed the passing of Miss Goss from the tournament on an outside court, for most of the interest, naturally, was centred in the play in the stadium, where Miss Nuthall, the Baroness Giacomo Giorgio Levi of Rome and Miss Marjorie Morrill and Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston scored crushing victories.

Miss Goss Gains 5—3 Lead.

Miss Goss, who ranks seventh and was seeded third in the championship, was leading at 5—3 in the first set when Miss Marlowe suddenly found her stride. Hitting with beautiful length and fully as much pace as Miss Goss could muster, mixing in drop shots and serving irresistibly, the California girl exacted seven games in a row to win the first set at 7—5 and establish a 3—0 lead in the second.

From whatever quarter Miss Goss sought to meet the attack or launch a counter-offense, she found her weapons not quite severe or accurate enough to cope with the telling blows of her opponent. As untenable as was her back court, it was courting even more disaster to go forward, for Miss Marlowe smashed straight at her feet or passed her cleanly to the right and left.

When the Californian carried her 3—0 lead to 5—2 in the second chapter the end appeared to be immediately at hand, but here Miss Goss gamely rallied to pull up to 5—all.

The New York woman was hitting with such power and speed now that Miss Marlowe seemed helpless to hold her in check. But at this juncture Miss Goss suddenly slumped and lost all coordination, and Miss Marlowe, playing shrewdly, broke through in the fourteenth game to end the match at 7—5, 8—6.

Mrs. Corbiere Surprises.

Not all the honors, however, were with youth. Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere of Boston, who ranked in the first ten in 1926, 1927 and 1928, but who has figured very little in the major tournaments this season, accounted for the one other surprising development of the day when she defeated Miss Marjorie Gladman of the University of Southern California, ninth in the national ranking and winner on Sunday of the Eastern title, at 3—6, 6—3, 6—4.

The performance of Miss Morrill in defeating Miss Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati in love sets served to bolster the Boston girl's stock considerably as one of the most dangerous rivals of Miss Nuthall in the tournament. Miss Zinke has given an excellent account of herself in the big grass court fixtures this year and it was believed that the match would be one of the best of the early rounds. But Miss Zinke was completely at the mercy of Miss Morrill's withering ground strokes and never was able to get started. She stated after the match that she had never gone up against harder drives than she faced yesterday.

Miss Le Boutillier Loses.

The Baroness Levi went on the stadium court next to play an entirely different sort of game against Miss Florence Le Boutillier of Westbury, L. I. Miss Le Boutillier came to the match armed with a stout forehand and backhand, but the unorthodox strokes of the Baroness, who chops practically every ball she hits, including her service, volleys and overhead smashes, put her efforts to naught. And not until Baroness Levi had taken eleven games in a row was Miss Le Boutillier able to get her lone one of the match.

Miss Nuthall was little more generous to Mrs. Agnes Sherwood Lamme of Rye, whom she eliminated at 6—1, 6—1. Mrs. Lamme has no titles to her name but she has a well-rounded game and an activity and determination that are not to be taken lightly, and yet nothing that she did availed against the hard-hitting British girl.

Miss Palfrey won from Mrs. Bernard F. Stenz of New York also by 6—1, 6—1. Mrs. Stenz fought pluckily, but she was always on the defensive and generally out of reach of the cleverly placed drives of the Boston girl, who scored eighteen placements in the first set.

DUGAN WINS GOLF TITLE.

Scores 149 to Top Westchester Caddie Masters' Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

TUCKAHOE, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A representative of the Oak Ridge Golf Club, where Willie Macfarlane, former national open champion, holds forth as professional, won the annual Westchester County caddie masters' tournament at the Leewood Golf Club today. The successful player was J. Dugan, whose thirty-six-hole total was 149, a score that topped the field by four strokes. A. Manganello of Westchester Hills finished second with 153.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—Having been appraised by the majority of experts as a team that eventually would do just that sort of thing, the Giants catapulted themselves right into the thick of the National League's torrid pennant race by wrenching another game away from the Cardinals today, hurdling over the Robins into second place and moving to within three games of the pace setting Cubs.

The score was 4 to 2 and it marked the McGrawmen's ninth triumph in the eleven games they have played thus far in their spectacular dash through the West under the commendable leadership of McGraw's first lieutenant, David Bancroft.

Hubbell Pressed at Times.

It was something of a blistering struggle, in which the left-handed Carl Hubbell frequently found himself backed to the wall, but one sharp, decisive thrust in the second inning, in which the Giants scored three runs, proved sufficient to give Hubbell the decision over Jimmy Lindsey.

In this round the Cards attempted some inside baseball, which the Giants at once turned inside out. Ott and Hogan opened the drive with a pair of singles, and after Marshall had flied out Lindsey was instructed to pass Roettger, with the idea in mind of filling the bases and thereby presenting Hubbell with an excellent chance of splashing into a double play.

Unfortunately for the Cards, Hubbell slightly confused the issue by thumping a single into left field that scored both Ott and Hogan, and when Critz followed with a sacrifice fly that tallied Roettger the Cards were three lengths behind.

Douthit's Hit Scores Gelbert.

One of these they wiped out in the third on Gelbert's double and Douthit's single, and in the fourth they made three separate assaults on the home plate. But only one got by, for Hogan, standing like a colossus astride the platter, repulsed the other two on perfect throws from the outfield by Ott and Roettger.

From then to the end Hubbell declined to give another inch, and in the seventh the Giants picked up another tally, by way of making their position a trifle more secure, a pair of doubles by Leach and Lindstrom accomplishing this lofty purpose in scarcely no time at all.

Incidentally, that double marked Lindstrom's second two-bagger of the day. He also got two singles.

CARL HUBBELL,

Who Pitched the Giants to Victory Over the Cards.

WILSON HITS NO. 43 AS CUBS LOSE, TIE

Equals League Homer Mark as Phils Win, 9-8, and Deadlock, 6-6, in 16 Innings.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP).—Burt Shotton's Phillies knocked a game from the Cubs' lead over the Giants in the National League pennant race today by winning the first game of a double-header, 9 to 8. The Phils then proceeded to battle the National League champions to a standstill in a sixteen-inning nightcap, which was called because of darkness with the score 6-all.

An important feature of the afternoon was Hack Wilson's forty-third home run of the season, which gave him a tie with Chuck Klein of the Phillies as holder of the all-time National League mark.

Lester Bell, whose batting has been a big help during the last two days, saved the Cubs from defeat in the second game when he got a home run with two on in the eighth to tie the score. From that point on neither team was able to score.

George Kelly celebrated his first day as a Cub by getting five hits in the second game and a pair in the first.

ROBINS SHUT OUT BY THE PIRATES

Pennant Hopes Receive Severe Blow as Swetonic Hurls an 8-to-0 Triumph.

LOSERS ARE HELD TO 6 HITS

Only Two Batsmen Get Beyond First Base—Phelps Batted Out in Second Inning.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19.—Pennant hopes of the Robins flickered wanly tonight as they departed for Cincinnati. They succumbed almost resistlessly at the hands of Steve Swetonic of the Pirates today, 8 to 0.

The erstwhile league leaders seemed to be devoid of all punch. Only once in the contest did the suave Swetonic permit Brooklyn players to get beyond first base. That was in the fifth, when Val Picinich, replacing Al Lopez, drew a pass and went to second on Finn's single—one of the six of the Robins' total. Boone, pinch hitting, also walked, filling the bases.

The Pirate righthander thereupon disposed of Frederick and Gilbert on weak pop flies to the infield and erased the only real chance the Robins had to score.

Pirates Capitalize Their Punch.

On the other hand, the Pirates capitalized on their own batting punch and Brooklyn misplays to accumulate eight tallies with a minimum of effort and a maximum of ease. They whacked Babe Phelps off the mound in the second inning, at which time a hit batsman, two triples, a double, two sacrifice flies and an erratic throw by Babe Herman had brought their run total to five.

Jim Elliott, replacing Phelps at the opening of the third, watched consecutive singles by Comorosky, Traynor and Bartell rifled to the outfield to score a sixth run.

Elliott set the Pirates down easily enough in the fourth, but was taken out for a pinch hitter, and Ray Moss pitched the final four frames. One earned run was recorded off Moss in the eighth on a double by Bartell and Suhr's single, and the latter also scored as a result of Picinich's second wild throw into centre field trying to prevent a steal and Gilbert's bad throw to Bissonette, which should have retired the Pirates.

Herman Fails to Connect.

Babe Herman went emphatically hitless, and of the six singles credited to Brooklyn Glenn Wright got two, Ray Moss one and the others were divided equally among Gilbert, Bressler and Finn.

GOSLIN'S 3 HOMERS REPULSE ATHLETICS

Gets Hits on Successive Times at Bat, Equaling the Modern Major League Record.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP).—With Goose Goslin equaling the modern major league record of hitting three home runs in one game and on successive times at bat, the Browns took the final of the three-game series with the Athletics today by 7 to 0.

Goslin hit his first home run off Rube Walberg in the fifth inning. In the seventh, he hit his second off Eddie Rommel and in the ninth his third, with one man on base, accounting for his fifth run driven in. All of Goslin's smashes were hard blows over the right field fence.

JERSEY CITY IS BEATEN.

Prudhomme's Twirling Wins Second Straight for Toronto by 10-5.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 19.—Toronto made it two straight from Jersey City today, winning by 10 to 5. Until the ninth inning Johnny Prudhomme, making his first start after a month's lay-off with an injured leg, held the visitors to three hits. A ninth inning rally, after two were out, netted Jersey City four runs.

INDIANS CAPTURE TWO FROM RED SOX

Ferrell Records 21st Victory in 1st, 7-2, and Lawson, Rookie, Wins Nightcap, 7-3.

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP).—Wesley Ferrell became the first American League pitcher to record his twenty-first victory of the season when he set back the Boston Red Sox in the first game of a double-header today. Cleveland won both games, 7 to 2 and 7 to 3.

After Ferrell had pitched his mates to victory in the first game, an inexperienced rookie, Lawson, performed the same feat for the Indians in the nightcap.

LANCASHIRE SCORES IN ENGLISH CRICKET

Defeats Kent by 101 Margin as Tyldesley Captures 6 Wickets for 29 Runs.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—Lancashire won its English county cricket match against Kent at Dover today by 101, largely through the deadly bowling of Dick Tyldesley. This bowler captured six Kent second-innings wickets for 29 runs. Scores were: Lancashire, 254 and 148; Kent, 212 and 89.

Gloucestershire had a fine win over Leicestershire at Cheltenham by eight wickets. Gloucester scored 335 and 50 runs for two wickets and Leicester 144 and 239 (Coleman 114, Goddard seven wickets for 100 runs).

Another winning county today was Essex, which beat Sussex at Southend-on-the-Sea by seven wickets. Essex made 252 and 141 for three wickets (Connor 67, not out) and Sussex 232 and 160 (Smith four wickets for 32 runs).

The match between Nottinghamshire and Yorkshire was abandoned when play was impossible owing to rain. Yorkshire got the points for a first-innings lead, the scores being: Nottingham 152, Yorkshire 451 for eight wickets declared.

Northamptonshire won from Middlesex at Lord's on the first innings. Scores were: Northants, 269 for nine wickets, declared; Middlesex, 84 for one wicket (Bakewell 60, not out).

Somerset also got the points for their lead in the first innings against Hampshire at Portsmouth. Somerset made 488 for nine wickets, declared, and 109 for four wickets (Case 56), and Hants 340 (Agnold 113, Newman 52).

Glamorganshire beat Derbyshire at Derby by 165. Glamorgan's scores were 260 and 213 and Derby's 237 and 71 (Ryan, six wickets for 27 runs).

Surrey had a first-innings advantage over Warwickshire at Birmingham. Surrey made 394 and Warwick 243 and 216 for four wickets (Kilner, 67, not out, Parsons 59).

RUFFING, YANKEES, HURLS 2-HIT GAME

Cissell, Only Visitor to Get on Base, Makes Both Drives as Shawkeymen Win, 3-0.

RUTH EXCELS IN THE FIELD

Also Figures in Both Run-Making Innings—Only 29 Batters Face New York Hurler.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Charlie Ruffing, who started the season with the Red Sox and is ending it as the strongest pitcher on the Yankees' staff, treated 9,000 fans at the Stadium yesterday to the spectacle of an old-fashioned pitching exhibition.

He shut out the White Sox with two hits, the Yanks winning 3 to 0, which made it three out of four for the series for the home club.

Ruffing had only four strike-outs, his system being to pump his fast ones over the corners of the plate so that the White Sox had to hit the ball but could not meet it squarely.

Ruffing walked no one, and his fielding help was steady at all times and brilliant in spots.

The only visiting player to get on base was Chalmers Cissell, who made the team's two hits. Only twenty-nine batters faced the Yankee hurler.

Cissell broke the no-hit spell in the fourth inning when he doubled to right with one out. Reynolds, with a long fly to centre, sacrificed Cissell to third, but Chapman swept up Jolley's grounder for the third out.

Ruth Figures in Scoring.

Next to Ruffing, Ruth was the most conspicuous individual in bringing victory to the Shawkey banners. With two singles, the Babe figured in both of the run-making innings.

In the seventh, with the Yanks only one run ahead, Cissell led off for Chicago by rolling a single across the grass half way to third. In the emergency Ruth bobbed up as a priceless defensive factor. Reynolds followed with a liner to right, but the Babe, going full speed toward the grand stand, wrapped his clutches around the flying sphere.

Jolley fired at the bleachers and again Ruth went into his gallop to collect Jolley's drive close to the bleacher screen. Cissell stole second on the next pitch, but Chapman took care of Watwood's bounder for the third out.

Lary Counts in Sixth.

Both teams went scoreless until the sixth. With one out Lary singled to right and took third when Ruth singled over second, scoring on Lazzeri's slow bounder to Kerr.

Byrd doubled with one out in the eighth and scored when Kerr let Lary's smash roll through his hands. Lary reached second on the error and scored the last run when Ruth looped a short fly to left for a single.

PAYNE AGAIN TAKES CLAY TARGET TITLE

Wins Shoot-Off After Tying With Two Others in North American Event.

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 19 (AP).—In the second day's shooting of the Grand American Handicap trapshoot tournament today, Gus Payne, Cleveland, successfully defended his North American clay target championship which he won last year.

Payne shattered 199 out of a possible 200 targets and tied for first place with A. M. McCrea of Lamar, Mo., and E. D. Martin, Columbus, Wis. In the shoot-off Payne had a perfect run of 25 targets, McCrea broke 23 and took second place, while Martin shattered only 20 and dropped to third.

Mrs. J. A. Murphy of Freehold, N. J., twice champion of her State, won the women's clay target championship of North America with a score of 185 out of 200.

Fifteen-year-old Shirley Forsgard Jr., Galveston, Texas, won the junior championship with a score of 95.

RUBINSTEIN WINS IN BELGIAN CHESS

Triumphs Over Colle in First Round of International Tournament at Liege.

LIEGE, Belgium, Aug. 19.—Akiba Rubinstein, scoring ace of the champion Polish team at Hamburg, and Mir Sultan Khan of India, holder of the British championship, were winners in the first round of the international chess masters' tournament which began in the Festival Palace on the grounds of the Centennial Exposition today.

Three of the six games were drawn and one was unfinished and will be played off tomorrow before the second round is begun. Frank J. Marshall of New York, United States champion, was one of those who drew, his opponent being D Przepiorka, another member of the Polish team.

D. Isaias Pleci of Buenos Aires, Argentine champion, made his début in the international arena and acquitted himself well in a drawn game with Sir George Thomas of England.

Rubinstein defeated E. Colle of Belgium, winner of the Scarborough tournament, in a queen's gambit declined in forty moves after gaining the exchange by a neat manœuvre. Sultan Khan, with the black pieces, adopted the so-called Indian defense in his game with V. Soultanbeieff of Russia. The Oriental saw an opportunity to sacrifice the exchange and won in twenty-eight moves.

An evenly contested queen's pawn opening, played by Przepiorka against Marshall ended after careful play in a draw in thirty moves.

Great caution marked the encounter between Karl Ahues of Germany and Aron Nimzowitsch of Denmark, the latter adopting a Caro-Kann defense. A draw in thirty-two moves was the legitimate outcome. Another Caro-Kann defense was set up by H. Weenink of Holland against Dr. S. Tartakower of Poland. The latter outplayed the Dutch representative in the middle game and was the exchange ahead when play was adjourned after forty-two moves.

AUSTRALIA GAINS ON ENGLISH TEAM

Only 2 Behind Opponents With 403 Total for 3 Wickets When Rain Halts 1st Innings.

BRADMAN ADDS A CENTURY

Again Stars in Third Day's Play —Prince of Wales a Visitor and Meets the Players.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—Australia, fighting its way toward England's first innings total in the fifth cricket test match at the Kennington Oval, had reached to within three of it with seven wickets in hand when rain halted play late today. England scored 405 and Australia was 403 for three wickets. The game was delayed several times owing to the weather conditions.

This was the third day's play and the match upon which the international championship hinges must be played to a finish. A visitor today was the Prince of Wales, who was introduced to the players.

Lead Way for Australia.

The honors so far in Australia's innings go almost entirely to the present and past world individual record-holders, Don Bradman and W. H. Ponsford, although W. M. Woodfull's sterling innings yesterday helped to take the sting out of the English bowling.

Bradman today scored 130 not out, which is his fourth century in the present English test-match series. He square-cut, legged and straight-drove powerfully along the carpet, though he was not in his usual aggressive mood and appeared quite content to consolidate W. H. Ponsford's effort yesterday, which produced 110 runs.

I. A. R. Peebles was the only English bowler who seriously troubled the batsmen. He gave Bradman several uncomfortable overs, while Jackson was never at home with him. He took over an hour to score fifteen runs.

Wyatt Shows Fine Strategy.

Wyatt showed fine strategy in getting the wicket of A. F. Kippax. M. Tate left the field to change his shoes and Peebles was put on to bowl. In the middle of the over Wyatt came up from the long field to short-leg and talked with Peebles. He suggested the kind of ball which fooled Kippax, who hit a ball that Wyatt trapped easily.

The score:

AUSTRALIA—FIRST INNINGS.

SUN MEADOW FIRST IN FEATURE AT SPA

Just Lasts to Win From Surf Board With Condescend Third in Nose Finish.

CURATE TRIUMPHS EASILY

Has Six-Length Margin on Caruso in Chestertown Purse—Electa Is Distant Third.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug. 19.—The eighteenth running of the Sanford Memorial, the race in which Man o' War met his only defeat, was the feature today, and Mrs. K. E. Hitt's Sun Meadow, the heavily backed favorite, narrowly escaped being the victim of another upset.

Three noses on the post gave the judges a hard task, but they gave the victory to Sun Meadow and placed Mrs. Payne Whitney's Surf Board second and George D. Widener's Condescend third.

Sun Meadow in three starts at this meeting finished third in the Saratoga Special, back of Jamestown and Equipoise, and then added the Grab Bag and his triumph today. The cup which is part of the spoils of victory in the Sanford was presented to Mrs. Hitt by John Sanford. The value of the purse was $5,800.

Sun Meadow Is Favorite.

Twelve came out for the race, which appeared a fairly even thing before the contest, as most of the starters had several good performances to recommend them. Sun Meadow stood out just a bit, however, and he was backed to 11 to 5, the next shortest price being the 5 to 1 laid against Glastonbury, which finished far out of the money.

The break was smooth, with Sergeant Donaldson running out to a lead that looked decisive, so tardy were the others in setting out in pursuit. At the far turn Sun Meadow, Surf Board and Condescend made their moves, and from that point to the end neither one got a breathing spell. Sergeant Donaldson, fast as he is, was quickly passed.

Sun Meadow got the lead at the top of the stretch, and by saving ground along the rail he got a length in front of the other two, which ran as a team on the outside.

Run in Close Quarters.

So close to each other were Surf Board and Condescend that on occasion Jockey Mack Garner, on Surf Board, laid his whip on Condescend and Linus McAtee, on Condescend, did the same to Surf Board.

This was more or less unavoidable, unless McAtee wanted to pull Condescend out from Surf Board, which he evidently did not wish to do, as it would have lost ground. They went on to the finish, whip and heel, with Eddie Watters, on Sun Meadow, in full realization of the danger that lay behind him.

He got all there was to get out of his mount, and he needed every ounce of speed, as Surf Board and Condescend were wearing the winner down at the end. They just failed to pass him before he crossed the finish line in 1:12 3-5.

Joseph E. Widener's Curate won the Chestertown Purse at a mile in a three-horse clash that was a thrilling duel for six furlongs and a procession for the last quarter.

Curate won by six lengths, with W. R. Coe's Caruso second and Electa, the only other starter, a distant third. The winner was 1 to 4 in the betting and ran the distance in 1:37, equaling Whichone's time, the fastest of the meeting.

HAGEN TURNS IN A 66.

Shows Old Skill in Tuning Up for Western Open Golf.

DETROIT, Aug. 19 (AP).—Walter Hagen, shorn of all his titles, served warning with a scintillating 66 in his practice round today that he is definitely in the running for the Western open golf championship, the qualifying round of which will be played tomorrow on the Indianwood course.

The entry list of 175 includes John De Forest, professional from the Coombe Hill Golf Club in Surrey, England.

Jim Dandy Rated an Outsider In Saratoga Feature Today

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Chaffee Earl's colt Jim Dandy, the 100-to-1 shot which led home Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers last Saturday, will fill his last Saratoga stake engagement when he runs in the American Legion Handicap tomorrow. Despite the fact that he will have only 101 pounds to carry, he again is rated among the outsiders, his odds being estimated at 10 to 1 in the belief that he needs mud to show his best form, and the outlook is for a fast track. Fourteen are entered in the seven-furlong race, and the G. A. Cochran pair of Flying Heels and Polygamous are expected to rule favorites at 2 to 1.

FILLY BRINGS $30,000 AT SARATOGA SALE

Price Paid by Watkins Sets Record for Sex in Auctions This Season.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Yearlings from the Himyar Stud of Phil T. Chinn again occupied the spotlight when the horses from that well known and other breeding farms were disposed of tonight before an enthusiastic gallery which paid $199,750 for the fifty-one head which passed under the hammer.

Greatest interest centered around the twenty-six Himyar youngsters, which brought $109,500, an average of $4,212.

The high spot of the night was the $30,000 paid for a filly, the highest price for one of that sex this season and a figure which equals the previous high mark paid for one of A. B. Hancock's Sir Gallahad III colts. Admiral Cary T. Grayson had the distinction of marketing the filly, which also was by Sir Gallahad III, but out of Starflight. Griffin Watkins was the buyer.

Grayson Yearlings in Demand.

In the past Admiral Grayson has had more than ordinary good fortune in selling his yearlings. He rarely brings a large number to Saratoga, but the few which come up invariably sell for high prices. Only two of his youngsters were knocked down tonight but the other also brought a substantial price, $7,200. It also was a filly, but this time by Supremus out of Sand Pocket. C. J. Fitzgerald was the buyer.

The $30,000 filly was a full sister to Insco, the smart youngster which has been racing in the West with success this Summer. C. E. (Boots) Durnell, who has been active in the buying this month, acted for Mr. Watkins.

Whiskbroom II Colt Sold.

William Ziegler Jr., one of the best known of Eastern horsemen, paid the second highest price of the evening, $18,000, for a Whiskbroom II colt out of America. The youngster is bred like Upset, the only horse to defeat Man o' War. This yearling came from the consignment of T. C. McDowell.

The highest price paid for a Himyar Stud yearling was $13,500 and surprisingly enough this also was for a filly. As a general rule fillies bring substantially less than the colts but the best of the Himyar colts were marketed last week and only a few were included in the consignment.

Max Hirsch, trainer of a public stable, was the successful bidder. The youngster is by Mad Hatter out of Constellation and is a full sister to Moonstruck, a horse bred by Harry Payne Whitney, but one which has been racing recently for the Niagara Stable with considerable success. The filly also is a half sister to Capricorn, a horse not well known in the East.

There were no other yearlings sold for more than $10,000, but one that fell just under that figure was an Epinard filly out of Damage. Mr. Durnell also was the successful bidder here but he did not state whether or not he was acting for Mr. Watkins or another.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

BACK to baseball. The ball players around the circuit are tipping the Giants to come strong in the stretch and take the National League pennant. This, of course, does not include the players who are wearing Brooklyn or Chicago uniforms, but otherwise it is fairly general. The players are always impressed by a good team and the Giants have a good, strong team.

What helped the Giants in their recent winning streak was the improvement shown by stout Fred Fitzsimmons and Carl Hubbell on the mound. It was erratic pitching that let the Giants down so often in the earlier stages of the campaign. With good pitching they are bound to move along rapidly in the stretch. But the Cubs are out in front and the Robins haven't run up the white flag, even if some of their supporters have weakened. It's true the Robins kick away games, but they also step out and win games that are seemingly lost. That's the way they play. You have to take the Robins or leave them on that basis.

Kelly to the Rescue.

Lester Bell hopped into the line-up for the Cubs when Butch Grimm was injured and hit like a Hornsby, but Manager Joe McCarthy snared George Kelly to sub for Grimm just the same. Long George should do well until Grimm gets back. The tall Californian who used to star for the Giants is a great player with a good team. With a poor team he is nothing much. That's his disposition.

There are players who are just the opposite. They are stars with poor clubs, but put them up with a pennant contender and the strain is too much for them. They can't stand the pressure. This has been found true of many pitchers.

Speaking of pitchers, Connie Mack was recently quoted to the effect that Wes Ferrell was being a trifle over-rated and that he would like to see him matched against George Earnshaw in a pitching duel. Connie drew attention to the fact that Ferrell wasn't sent to the mound against the Athletics when Earnshaw was nominated to start against the Indians.

Of course, Connie Mack knows all there is to know about the game and the players but his comment in this case is hardly fair to Ferrell. If Ferrell started against Earnshaw, it should be remembered that Earnshaw would have on his side the world's champions, and that includes Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx.

Room Enough for Two.

Mr. McGillicuddy pointed out that Earnshaw started poorly this year and lost six games before he rounded into form. Since that time big George has been going at top speed and, even with his early handicap, is up among the leading pitchers in the little matter of winning percentage.

That's true enough. Earnshaw is one of the best right-handers in baseball. That's no secret. And the late Miller Huggins didn't say that Ferrell was another Mathewson. What he said was that Ferrell was the best youngster he had seen since Christy Mathewson came up, which isn't the same same thing. Some time after giving this opinion of Ferrell, Huggins drew up a list of the best ten pitchers in the American League over a span of years and he didn't put Ferrell on it. Nor Pipgras. Nor several other prominent youngsters. He said they hadn't been tested long enough and it would take time to prove where they belonged.

The point about Ferrell is that he is making a great record with a fourth place club and it is his second fine record in his two years in the big show. The lad from Oak Ridge, N. C., is only 22 years old. Earnshaw is 28 and has an advantage in experience over his Cleveland rival. But there's no need of getting bitter in this pitching debate. Both are fine right-handers and jolly good fellows into the bargain.

A Singer Unsung.

When laurels are being handed around, somebody might save a sprig for a first baseman who has been run into the drydock for repairs. That's Charley Grimm of the Cubs, nicknamed Butch because he was a cheerful butcher boy until he discovered the wonderful secret that he could play ball and make money at the same time. Even now when he goes up to the plate with two bats you can see him whetting one on the other like a butcher sharpening up his favorite cleaver. He does it with a fine professional touch.

Charley is a troubadour himself and yet his praises are rarely sung by the vocal bleacher chorus. He can pick a rollicking tune on a banjo and carol a joyous stave with the best of them, but he generally passes unnoticed when great first basemen are up for discussion. It must be on account of his hitting. He has had some good years with the bat but he doesn't class as a hitter with fellows like Terry and Gehrig. He doesn't class as a hitter with Jimmy Foxx, but he could play the banjo and first base at the same time and do as well as Foxx does around that station.

Defensively, Charley Grimm has been one of the best first basemen of the modern era, and this is mentioned at the moment because of a feeling that someone should say something about fielding skill from time to time. Heavy hitting with this jackrabbit ball turns the tide and tells the tale, but the real baseball enthusiast will always have a soft spot in his heart for a great fielder.

For the Defense.

The emphasis is on the attack and yet there is much to be said for the defense, the swift double play or the galloping grab of a soaring liner. In the old days the fans turned out to see Hal Chase field just as they now turn out to see Babe Ruth hit. Harry Hooper was an artist in the outfield and Tris Speaker was even better than that as he drifted toward the fence and pulled them down over his shoulder. They were worth watching.

For some years Joe Dugan was a three-star attraction in the vicinity of third base. Joe wasn't a bad hitter but it was his fielding that won him his place in the sun. Ray Schalk's name is always mentioned when great catchers are up for discussion. That's a victory for the defense because Schalk was always a weak hitter. His defensive work was marvelous.

But the bat is mightier than the glove these days of the non-stop ball, more's the pity. The tide may turn but just now it is running fast in the opposite direction.

Scratched—Sun Blow.

Mabla broke fast, was kept under restraint in the early part, drew out in the final furlong but was ridden out to win. Flossine broke well in her stride, was kept on the outside all the way and finished gamely. Keep On, away well, was hard hustled and ran a good race. Spanish Dancer closed a big gap. Chalice could not get up. Sportress had speed for three furlongs.

*Was placed on outside.

Valour II broke running, rushed to the front, set a fast pace and drew away easily in the final furlong. Camp Meade was hard ridden all the way and outgamed Punishment for the place. Punishment, away fast, followed the pace and made a game effort. Doctor Rankin was kept well up from the start and ran a good race. Florhi closed a big gap. Recede ran away below her best form. Brown Erin tired.

Scratched—Ormesby, No More.

Sun Meadow is evidently a good colt. He broke well, was rushed up on the outside, raced Sergeant Donaldson into defeat and drew away, but tired and just lasted to win. Surf Board handled his heavy impost well, showed good speed and ran a game race. Condescend broke a bit slowly and was bothered when Sun Meadow moved up on the outside. He recovered and finished with a rush, and might have won but for that interference. High Day, away in a tangle, closed with a rush. Ba'r Hunter dropped back around the turn, but came with a rush at the end. Glastonbury went well. Concord tired after showing speed for three furlongs.

(1086)	Electa	108	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	Fischer	10	10	15	6-5	Out

Curate, in best form, raced Caruso into submission after six furlongs, and drew away under urging. Caruso forced a fast pace, but tired after reaching the stretch. Electa, away poorly, was never a factor.

Owners—1, J. E. Widener; 2, W. R. Coe; 3, Middleburg Stable.

1116 FIFTH RACE—The Kenmore Claiming Handicap; $1,200 added; 3-year-olds and upward; Wilson mile. Start good; won driving; place same. Winner, b. f., 3, by Pennant—Disparity. Trainer, J. Fitzsimmons. Time—0:24, 0:48⅕, 1:13⅗, 1:39⅘.

1054	Panuco	120	5	4	3^{2}	3^{2}	5	5	5	McNam'e	6	6	6	8-5	2-5

Adequate, away slowly, gradually improved her position and, coming through on the inside at the stretch turn, closed steadily, to win going away. Aldershot moved up around the bend and finished fast. Charon forced the pace to the stretch, but was unable to retain the lead in the drive to the wire, although holding on well. Storm had plenty of speed to the stretch, but then tired badly. Panuco showed fair early foot, but stopped badly after six furlongs.

Owners—1, H. C. Phipps; 2, G. A. Cochran; 3, Newtondale Stable; 4, T. Calcina; 5, J. F. Byers.

1117 SIXTH RACE—The Yankee; purse $1,000; claiming; 2-year-old maidens, colts and geldings; five and a half furlongs. Start poor; won easily; place driving. Winner, b. or br. c., by Black Servant—Paloma. Trainer, A. G. Robertson. Time—0:24, 0:48, 1:07.

ASHTON BROTHERS BOW TO ARMY FOUR

Australian Poloists Meet Defeat in Second Formal Appearance by 11 to 5.

JONES STARS FOR VICTORS

Officers' No. 1 Scores Five Goals—U. S. Test Match at Piping Rock Today.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., Aug. 19.—Once again the Goulburn team, composed of the Ashton brothers of Australia, went to defeat in formal competition in this country when it lost at Mitchel Field this afternoon to the United States Army junior champions, 11 to 5.

The Australians played a faster pace than they had in their game with Old Aiken, but their hitting was still well off and they were delinquent at riding off their opponents.

The initial period goals, the first coming soon after the opening of the game, put the Australians in the lead and they stayed there until the second period, but after that they never seriously threatened.

The slim Lieutenant McDonald Jones at No. 1 had something of a field day, riding out clear of his opposing back most of the time and not often bothered by him and cutting in five goals from all sorts of angles.

Rodes, Wilkinson in Form.

Captain Peter Rodes and Captain Wilkinson, two veteran internationalists of the Army squad, were both hitting hard and riding well, and there was plenty of support for them from Major C. C. Smith and Lieutenant Homer Kiefer. Smith, a new arrival in the Army polo colony, started the game at back in place of the junior championship player, Kiefer, the latter going in during the second half.

In any formation, the Army team had too much pace and strength for the losers. Time and again Goulburn players rode up to the ball, only to be bounced off by the Army attack. The Army players were much quicker with their mallets, often beating the Australians to the stroke even when they were themselves beaten to the ball.

International activities today were confined to an easy eight-period game this morning by the British team on Phipps Field in Old Westbury. The game was simply to exercise the horses and get them ready for Thursday's first formal game at Greentree.

Sanford Plays With Britons.

The tentative British line-up of Captain Richard George, Gerald Balding, Captain C. T. I. Roark and Lewis Lacey rode against Stephen Sanford of America and three of the British side, Captain Maurice Kingscote, Captain Charles Tremayne and Lieutenant Humphrey Guinness. They got thirty-six of their ponies into action and apparently found them going as well as could be expected at this stage.

The Americans resume their test matches tomorrow at Piping Rock. At 4:30 a rearranged White side, with Rube Williams of Texas replacing Earle Hopping, meets a very strong Red line-up on which Hopping will play with George Bostwick, Cecil Smith and Elmer Boeseke Jr.

The Goulburn-Army line-up:

Army (11).	Goulburn (5).
1—Lieut. McD. Jones.	1—P. Ashton.
2—Capt. C. A. Wilkinson.	2—G. Ashton.
3—Capt. P. P. Rodes.	3—J. Ashton.
Back—Maj. C. C. Smith.	Back—R. Ashton.

MEGILL SCORES AT GOLF.

Wins Low Gross With a 75 in Deal (N. J.) Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 19.—Two of the three prizes put up at the Metropolitan Golf Association's one-day tournament over the Hollywood Golf Club's course today were won by New Jersey golfers. Roy Megill of the Homestead course, Spring Lake, had low gross, a 75, and A. A. Hurley of Asbury Park was only one stroke behind him.

First net prize went to a New Yorker, S. M. Schrank of the Tibbett's Brook Club. His score was 88—19—69. Megill's net was 70, but as he was the gross prize winner, second net went to Hurley, whose handicap of 5 gave him a net of 71.

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 19 (AP).—Between forty and fifty entries are expected for the Plymouth-Santander yacht race, starting from Plymouth, England, Friday, an annual event established through the patronage and interest of King Alfonso, himself an enthusiastic yachtsman.

The first prize for yachts of the large class will be the King of Spain's Challenge Cup and 7,000 pesetas. The first prize for yachts of the small class will be the Queen of Spain's Challenge Cup and 6,000 pesetas. There are second, third, fourth and fifth prizes in each class, consisting of cups and sums ranging from 3,500 to 7,000 pesetas.

LARKSPUR FIRST IN HARTFORD RACE

Takes 3-Year-Old Trot, Feature of Grand Circuit Opening, in Straight Heats.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 19 (AP).—Larkspur, the Wedgemere Stable entry driven by the veteran, Townsend Ackerman, was first in three straight heats in winning the 3-year-old trot which featured the opening of the 1930 Grand Circuit meeting at Charter Oak Park today.

Larkspur led the field for the distance in each heat, heading Guy June down the stretch by nearly a length in the first, edging out General Hanover in the second and romping under the wire with about two lengths to spare in the final.

SUAREZ KNOCKS OUT FLOWERS IN SIXTH

Argentine Lightweight Floors Rival Three Times in Main Event at Queensboro.

JEBY OUTPOINTS LA GRAY

Gains Decision in Semi-Final Bout—Wolff Triumphs Over Hutner in Six-Rounder.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The campaign of Justo Suarez, South American lightweight, for recognition here as a world's title contender, advanced beyond its third trial last night at the Queensboro Stadium, where the Argentine boxer knocked out Bruce Flowers, veteran New Rochelle lightweight, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round battle which attracted a crowd of 10,000.

Referee Jack O'Sullivan stopped the contest to save Flowers from further punishment, after the sixth round had progressed 1 minute 5 seconds.

At the time Flowers was on the ring floor, taking a count for the third time. Flowers had gone down for a count of nine in the second round. Knocked down again in the third, Flowers gamely hung on through the fourth and fifth rounds. Both boxers weighed in at 136½ pounds.

In the semi-final of eight rounds Ben Jeby, east side middleweight, won the decision from Joey Lagray of the west side. Jeby weighed 158 pounds and Lagray 151.

Allie Wolff, Brooklyn light-heavyweight, was fortunate to get the decision over Milton Hutner, west side, in their six-round bout. The award to Wolff was unpopular with the crowd. Wolff weighed 163 pounds and Hutner 164.

Pee Wee Jarrell, Kalamazoo, Mich., welterweight, made a favorable impression in his metropolitan début, easily winning the decision from Danny Levine, east side, in six rounds.

Jarrell floored his rival three times in the third round and once in the final session, completely outclassing Levine throughout. Jarrell weighed 144½ pounds and Levine 141.

Leo Dazzo, Corona lightweight, stopped Sid Reisler, Harlem boxer, after four rounds of their scheduled six-round preliminary. On the advice of the State Athletic Commission physician the referee refused to let Reisler come up for the fifth round. Dazzo weighed 130½ pounds and Reisler 128.

In the opening four-rounder Donald Moye, New Rochelle middleweight, knocked out Johnny Delouise, east side, in 2:59 of the third round, the referee stopping the contest. Moye weighed 161 pounds, Delouise 161¼.

40,000 Cheer in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 19 (AP).—Forty thousand persons tonight wildly cheered the victory of Justo Suarez in knocking out Bruce Flowers in their bout at New York.

Packed in the street they heard direct radio-telephone accounts of the fight, which came through clear and strong.

After the knockout in the sixth round, crowds paraded down the principal streets, cheering Argentina's boxing idol.

SINGER BOUT APPROVED.

Garden Application for McLarnin Match Sept. 11 Is Granted.

The State Athletic Commission at its meeting yesterday approved the application of the Madison Square Garden Corporation to conduct a non-championship battle between Al Singer, world's lightweight titleholder, and Jimmy McLarnin, Coast contender for the welterweight championship, in the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 11. Approval for this match was granted on condition that Singer defend his 135-pound title against Tony Canzoneri, Brooklyn's Italian challenger, not later than Nov. 18.

Contracts for the Singer-McLarnin bout are expected to be signed today. The proposed admission scale will be $2, $3, $5.49, $9.10 and $13, including tax.

HUMILIATED.

Sympathy with the grand jury is expressed by some in consequence of what it had been asked to submit to in the Ewald case. After refusing last week to find an indictment, and being impliedly complimented by District Attorney CRAIN for this action, it suddenly found itself called upon to reopen the matter. Without getting any new evidence, it was expected to reverse itself in regard to the evidence which it had held to be insufficient. This is almost an open humiliation of men sworn to use their best judgment, and do their duty, in a criminal case. It is not strange that they have taken their time in reconsideration, and have declined to ask the District Attorney for that "advice" which he kindly offered to give them this time, though he had rather ostentatiously withheld it before.

For Judge CRAIN himself, this retracing of his steps must have meant a certain mortification. There was in it an inevitable appearance not so much of sober second thought as of a belated awakening to the existence of a popular sentiment of which he had seemed to be too little aware. It is well for him to act as he has done, upon a sharp reminder from Governor ROOSEVELT, and upon the implied reproach by the Bar Association, but it must have involved for him a feeling of being publicly humiliated. All the more credit to him for virtually confessing his fault and moving to correct it.

The great humiliation in all this business remains that of the city. Individuals may or may not feel that they have been exposed to severe criticism, but the collective citizenship is unmistakably made uneasy and depressed by the revelations of bartering in judicial appointments, and by what is believed to remain behind the half-told stories. A sensitive municipality cannot avoid a sensation of disgrace when proof is presented that the very fountains of justice are fouled. It is this indignant consciousness of having suffered a public outrage which is behind the appeals to the Governor to make use of his power to expose and correct it. The Constitution and laws of the State of New York took it for granted that local prosecutors will always be honest and vigilant and energetic. But they also provided for cases where such officials may unhappily turn out to be negligent or so knotted in partisan bonds that they cannot or will not act as they should. Then the State itself may intervene, as Governor ROOSEVELT has done. The authorities on the spot may protest that they have been humiliated, but their tenderness on that score should have come earlier and been manifested in different ways. Besides, if it becomes necessary to cut out an infection in the body politic, the surgeon need not be too much concerned about the sensations of the patient. It is unpleasant to be humiliated, but better that than to be left defiant and unashamed under the stain of corruption.

MEANEST OF ALL RACKETS.

There would be general agreement that the world's meanest man is the foodstuffs profiteer. He plays the villain to the hero of famine relief. His trade appears all the more contemptible if he chooses to ply it during periods of depression, when thousands are having difficulty keeping the larder stocked at all. And when the food profiteer joins hands with the grafter and the thug to control the market by the terroristic methods familiarly known to this generation as "racketeering" it is time for the public authorities to seek him out with their scourge in hand.

Drought has given these gentry just the pretext they are ever seeking. Crop failure, real or fancied, is always a handy lever with which to boost prices. It is a crooked lever this time. The Federal Government has let it be known that there is no shortage of human food. So far as New York is concerned, the milk supply is ample and shipments of fruit and vegetables are normal. Realizing that where prices have been put up, it is generally not by drought but by design, the community's response to the profiteer's threat has been instant. The Attorney General, the Health Commissioner and market officials are all on his trail.

Evidence of racketeering was disclosed at the opening of the Attorney General's hearing. It was the same old shocking tale of rule or ruin. This time the poultry business seems to have been the trade most affected, though the milk racketeers, notorious in days past, do not seem to have reformed. Witnesses gave detailed and specific instances of intimidation. Assistant Attorney General GROAT promises more disclosures. The public will follow them with a lively interest. Meanwhile, Commissioner WYNNE'S "market basket army," armed with his fair-price lists, should be able to deal profiteering a telling blow.

OFF AGAIN, SHERIDAN.

The trumpets which were blown and the drums which were pounded over Senator SHERIDAN of the Sixteenth District are stilled. The three thousand constituents who petitioned him to seek a renomination after having been turned down by Tammany Hall are left without a candidate. A few days ago, advised that the petitions were being circulated, Mr. SHERIDAN said that he approved the move and would make a test with his district leaders and the powers in the Wigwam. But since then—

> Men who are a credit to democracy and whose opinions I value point out to me that if I enter the Democratic primary it may in some measure affect the Democratic organization. Upon careful consideration I concur in this view.

Inspection of Senator SHERIDAN'S public record suggests that he did not need any one to point out this plain fact to him. It was as clear when he proclaimed his war of independence as it could have been afterward. So his statement may be paraphrased as follows:

> The boys pleaded with me not to precipitate an internal row for Tammany when it is in more trouble than it has been for years. They said that my fight might lose Governor ROOSEVELT some votes and that they'd be grateful if I'd reconsider.

At any rate, reconsideration came quickly. Ajax has decided to stay in his tent and let the lightnings play on another stalwart breast. The cohesive power of the organization and its singular ability, as they say on the street, to "put the bee" on recalcitrants, is again revealed. From the Governor's standpoint, since his name has been interjected by Mr. SHERIDAN, it would seem that a show of independence against the machine by one of his known friends and admirers would have been a help to him rather than an injury. Tammany is undoubtedly grateful to the Senator; the future may show how much.

As for the three thousand petitioners, they still stand on the battlefield. But SHERIDAN is twenty miles away and starting in the other direction.

MAKING A LIVING.

From the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Report of the Harvard Law School Class of 1905 it is clear that most of the members are, as "ED" HARRIGAN used to sing of Riley, "doin' domned well." Of the 174 men reporting to the class secretary, 47 did not disclose their earnings, which may be presumed to be modest. The average annual earnings of 127—73 per cent of the number heard from—were $27,732. This is a rise of half since 1925. In 1907 the average was a little more than $1,100. Even other people's money is good to look at. Here is the list; and we wish that we were in the higher brackets:

> Five reported earnings of $100,000 or over; 14, from $50,000 to $100,000; 21, from $25,000 to $50,000; 46, from $10,000 to $25,000; 28, from $5,000 to $10,000; 11, from $2,500 to $5,000; 2, under $2,500.

The big figures bloat the list. The secretary reduces the deflation by setting down at $15,000 the "median" net earnings of the class, "the "net earnings reported by the man "exactly in the middle of the list "of earnings arranged in order of "amount." Sharers in a fat partnership make nearly three and a half times as much as the lone practicers —$41,000-odd to $12,000-odd. The salariat thrives. The average annual pay of the eight hired men was $28,000, practically the same as the yearly average fee of all practicing law. The average earnings of twenty-six persons who left the law for other pursuits were $25,000. The average of the '05 men in this town was nearly $60,000; of those condemned to practice in Boston, a little less than $21,000. The average in cities of 100,000 or more was about $32,000; greater by $10,000 than in 1925; by $30,000 than in 1907.

The average in the Pacific Coast States was about $25,000; in the States west of the Mississippi, $23,495; in those east of it, $28,571. We have left to the last the mournful if salutary lesson that the good boy gets the plums. This table is arranged by grades of standing in the law school:

> A's, 21, $63,094; B's, 38, $21,380; C's, 52, $20,885; D's, 8, $17,257; failed, 3, $6,766; left at end of first or second year without examination, 5, $28,040.

The moral looks mixed. An "A" is an undoubted pudding. A "C" is about as good as a "B." A "D" is not strikingly inferior. Even a failure doesn't have to go over the hill to the poorhouse; and if you depart from Cambridge unexamined and unmarked, you make within a few dollars of the highly respectable income enjoyed by "all practicing law." The purple fees illustrate again how hard it is to cajole a successful lawyer to the bench. Nevertheless, the class has furnished seventeen judges. Those who despair of the salvation of lawyers may be mildly cheered to know that one member is a minister. There are two poets, twenty-six authors and a sometime international amateur trap-shooting champion:

> Six are teaching law; twenty-three are connected with educational work. We have one physician, one former president of the American Bar Association, one Attorney General and seven past or present District Attorneys.

A pretty likely "bunch" of boys of 50 or so; but why did the secretary omit to give their golf handicaps?

BEFORE AUTUMN COMES.

It is nearly sixty years since the Children's Aid Society's fresh air work had its beginning, "founded," as the annual report for 1930 states, "with the help of THE NEW YORK TIMES." The fund was used to provide medical care and excursions for poor tenement youngsters. In the following year (1873) the first fresh air home for children was opened by this same society on an estate in Staten Island leased for the season, with accommodations for sickly children, in detachments of seventy, through the Summer. This was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. ANSON PHELPS STOKES, who died only a few weeks ago at the age of 83. Within her lifetime this sort of "fresh air" provision has expanded to include thousands of children who could otherwise never have sight of the country and especially those most in need of what the country with its sunshine, wholesome food and recreation can give. There are now many fresh air funds, prominent among them that of The New York Herald Tribune.

That of the Children's Aid Society alone is this year caring for several thousand "underprivileged" boys and girls. Yet when one reads of what is done for their health and happiness, one thinks that they might well be called the "privileged." Such they are by comparison with those from whom they are selected. Less than a month ago the treasurer of the society sent out an S O S saying that the special fund for "malnourished," those that are neither sick nor well, had been exhausted. And every fund would be exhausted if only the need were met. The Summer is not yet over, and those who, having adequate means, have not yet given something to enable at least one underprivileged child to enjoy the benefit of an outing under wise and kindly care have still the privilege of that vicarious vacation in addition to the one which they may take themselves.

By reason of a typographical error, due to illegible copy, a recent editorial in THE TIMES, speaking of the special interest of the Children's Aid Society in the neglected child, the willful child, the wayward child, extended that interest to the "rich" child—instead of the "sick" child. But the society has, after all, this interest in the rich child: that it should in turn take an interest in the sick city child needing what a fresh air fund can alone give. No person who is able to give should have the reproach when the Summer is ended that he has not helped some child to have an outing such as these funds provide.

SAVED BY WIRELESS.

Marine disasters with loss of life are so frequent, even in this day of wireless, that when ships in distress are ably handled and passengers and crews are saved by other ships the gallant work should be recognized. Sometimes the code of the sea is violated and lives are needlessly sacrificed. But in most emergencies captains and crews keep their heads. The case of the British steamer Tahiti, with 317 on board, disabled in the South Pacific, sending out S O S calls and kept afloat by relays of men at the pumps until the Ventura could take off everybody, is worthy of an honorable place in annals of the sea. The officers and men of both ships behaved handsomely, those of the Tahiti by fine seamanship and good discipline, those of the Ventura by getting up under forced draught and taking off passengers and crew in a heavy sea without the loss of a single life.

The Norwegian freighter Penybryn also responded to the call, and stood by all night pending the arrival of the Ventura, a much larger vessel. The Antinous of the United States Shipping Board was also steaming for the Tahiti. She had lost her starboard propeller and tailshaft and lay helpless in a swell. All the time the wireless was working. There must be comfort and hope in the crackling code messages that tell the story of relief coming. The captain fights harder to keep his listing ship afloat; the passengers hear that another ship is on the way.

In the old days the Tahiti's passengers and crew would have been put into provisioned boats, with the odds against all of them making a landfall at Raratonga. Captain TOTEN knew that it was only a matter of hours before the Ventura appeared, and evidently had an idea that he might be able to save his own ship. But in the end, when everybody had gone over the side, the Tahiti was engulfed and plunged to the bottom. The master of the Ventura, Lieut. Commander W. R. MEYER of the United States Naval Reserve, by his skill in handling her, has won golden opinions from his employers.

AUSTRALIAN FINANCES.

Conferences of bankers, including a representative of the Bank of England, with representatives of both Federal and State Governments in Australia, continue to point to the financial embarrassments of that Commonwealth. In this year's budget the Federal Government was faced with a deficit of $70,000,000. Each of the six State Governments in Australia was also confronted with a deficit. In addition, the railways, all of which are State-owned, show a heavy balance on the wrong side of the ledger. A further drain on the Federal Treasury is threatened by the Government guarantee of a price of $1 a bushel for wheat. A large crop, figured at about 180,000,000 bushels, would imply that the Treasury would be let in for payments above the market price to the tune of something like $35,000,000. Obviously, something will have to be done.

The first step urged, and partly taken by some of the State Governments, is drastic economy. Heavy cuts in the appropriations for public service, including official salaries, have already been made. They have not yet been attempted in the Federal Government, now in control of the Labor party. Prime Minister SCULLIN, whose departure for the Imperial Conference in London may be delayed on account of acute anxiety over conditions at home, has boldly struck out for increased revenue by means of new and burdensome taxes. These are held not really to have improved the outlook, since they have had the effect of further depressing industries already in trouble. The presence of bankers and financial experts at Melbourne indicates resort to a foreign loan, although such a thing has been regarded as distasteful, if not out of the question, in Australia.

Although it is evident that emergency measures of some kind must be invoked, there can be no doubt about the ultimate recovery of Australia. She has great natural resources and her people are confident of the future. They realize today that they have been foolishly extravagant, but are ready to face and conquer their difficulties with courage and intelligence.

COOKING FAME.

Fame is fleeting for most of the notable cooks of their day, but some were so good that they are still talked about. In a recent letter to The London Times, PAGET TOYNBEE turns up an amusing collection of anecdotes about the French cook CLOUET, known to many Englishmen as "Chloe," who figures in the recently published "Private Corre-"spondence of Chesterfield and "Newcastle (1744-46)." CLOUET was NEWCASTLE'S cook, and his art was counted on to win visiting diplomats to causes dear to NEWCASTLE and his friends. Delicately prepared food and rare combinations of flavors are as soothing to the tempers of the great as to ordinary men.

CLOUET was evidently an imaginative fellow. He was willing to experiment, and perhaps his daring caused the agony of poor Dr. SHAWE, NEWCASTLE'S physician. That incident is related by HORACE WALPOLE, who mentioned the famous chef in numerous other letters, writing to Lady HERVEY. He had eaten some mushrooms, and though CLOUET was not directly responsible, for he had not prepared them, it is not unfair to assume that his recipe had been used. The doctor was so ill that NEWCASTLE was horribly alarmed, and > immediately ordered all the mushroom beds to be destroyed, and even the toadstools in the park did not escape scalping in the general massacre. What I tell you is literally true—and a voice of lamentation was heard at Ramah in Claremont, Chloe weeping for her mushrooms, and they are not!

Cooks are still important members of society and of the households they condescend to provide for. Nowadays they are not sufficiently honored, and perhaps that is why they do not show the loyalty for which they used to be known. They may not be aware of the great tradition behind them, but a born cook, like any other genius, has an instinct for seeking appreciation. If it is not found in one place, hope of finding it round the corner carries the cook on. CLOUET would not have left Claremont. He was a personage there. The master of the White Hart Inn at Lewes acknowledged him as the "Master of his Art," in his "Complete System of Cookery," and his reputation was not limited to England.

Then there was that faithful member of the household of Prince BUELOW, also a French chef. Leaving Rome to become Chancellor of Germany, the Princess broke the sad news that the family must go to Berlin, and inquired if the chef would go with them. Gallantly he rose to his opportunity. He was not one to abandon his master and mistress when they had fallen into poverty!

Cooks of that calibre are so rare these days that some gentlemen have made a pleasure of necessity and do their own cooking when they want to give their guests especially fine dishes. There are not many like the Savannah host who puts on a white cap and apron and broils beefsteak and fries potatoes for the lucky guests who will come for hundreds of miles in response to his invitation. But there are dozens who can and do take pride in the spaghetti or stuffed fowl or omelet that constitutes their speciality. They will never be famous, but they may be content with one worthwhile achievement in cuisine.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Another Incongruous Death.

The publisher of The Baltimore Sun, VAN LEAR BLACK, became known as aviation's greatest amateur. He had flown almost the length of the world and up and down its unknown air-lanes. He had crossed great spaces of sea and taken every risk there is in properly equipped flying. Only once had he experienced an accident of any importance, and then he was not hurt. Now the news comes that he fell from the rail of his yacht off the Jersey coast and was drowned.

Some time ago one of England's great aces, a man who had brought down many German planes when aircraft were far less safe than they are now, was drowned after falling off a dock. General SMITH-DORRIEN, hero of the retreat from Mons, when the lives of Generals were no safer than those of privates, was killed last week in a motor accident. Such paradoxical finishes to adventurous lives moved Dr. JOHNSON to speak of "a petty fortress and a humble hand," marveling over the death of CHARLES XII of Sweden.

There are especially pitiful aspects of a gallant career so ended, and dual sorrow will be felt for the death of Mr. BLACK. Had the choice been given to him, undoubtedly he would have preferred to sink with his plane upon some lonely expanse of sea or land—an ending he proved repeatedly that he did not fear.

Two Highway Nuisances.

There is no greater menace on the highway at night than the "one-eyed" car. Sometimes it is taken for a mere motorcycle, with disastrous consequences. At best it is hard for the driver of another car to tell which light is out. He may get into trouble if he doesn't give it a wide enough berth.

The New Jersey Commissioner of Motor Vehicles threatens to require motorists to carry a spare bulb, as they would a spare tire. As it is now, the driver is not altogether to blame if his light goes out on the road far from a garage, though some take undue advantage of the traffic officer's leniency in such cases. With a spare bulb the motorist would be prepared for all emergencies not due to faulty wiring.

There is another roadside pest somebody ought to deal with—the man who puts a sign outside his gate, "Hidden Entrance, Please Blow Horn." Nine times out of ten it was the owner himself who concealed the entrance, usually by planting evergreens. They look pretty enough, and are no doubt in conformity with the best landscape standards, but if they constitute a highway menace sufficient to justify a warning sign they have no business there.

We Think in Big Figures.

JACKSON and O'BRINE who reclaimed the world's record for endurance flying by staying twenty-seven days in a plane above the earth are disappointed over their net yield of $43,000 for the feat. It is $6,000 more than they received when they set the first world's record, "and St. Louis did as much for us as any other city would have done. But it seems that endurance flying is played out."

In any other country pay of over $1,500 a day for remaining aloft would seem lavish. But this is a country which deals in big figures. Contemplating returns to heavyweight prizefighters for a few minutes in the ring, the feelings of JACKSON and O'BRINE are comprehensible.

Happily, their experience and the conclusion they express may simply mean that endurance flying as mere stunting is at an end. The important end it serves is to demonstrate the durability of airplane engines. This has been thoroughly established by the various contestants. That once accomplished, the interest of the public flags.

English Into French.

In a letter to L'Action Française, EUGENE MARSAN protests bitterly against the practice of naturalizing a foreign word without changing its spelling to conform to that of its newly adopted country. "Interview" is the word which calls down his wrath.

When the French Academy accepted the English word with its English spelling, he was outraged. Use as many foreign words as you like in your writing, he says, but underline, italicize or use quotation marks. And when a word is included in the dictionary, spelling and pronunciation should agree. Interview would automatically become intervioue, or—to naturalize it still further—intervioue, as was proposed by MARCEL BOULENGER. Certainly, the latter form seems more logical.

There is precedent in plenty for this sort of assimilation of foreign words by the different countries of Europe. But MARSAN reproaches France with a tendency in recent years to stuff her vocabulary with foreign words, unchanged to conform to the French language. There are already hundreds of words which have been suitably naturalized—redingote, caporal, halte, abricot, boulingrin, &c. Other newcomers should undergo the same process.

As for the word interview, M. MARSAN believes it is an alien that can be dispensed with in France, that a good writer can get his idea across by using conversation, declaration, entretien or entrevue.

WHO'S TO PAY?

Being a Pessimistic Commentary on Costs and Values of Good Works.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES editorial regarding prevalence of fires was most interesting. Mr. Sproul's communication on the subject not only tells the real cure—educational advertising—but, unconsciously, shows what prevents application of that cure. Yet, "advertising pays."

I fully agree with Mr. Sproul that adequate educational advertising would save many lives and a great many millions of dollars. It is the greatest power which could be utilized in bringing such an eventuality to pass.

Truly, "advertising pays." Just think, $460,000,000 was spent by national advertisers in daily papers and magazines during 1929, and yet a "three-year average" before me shows an annual fire loss of over $556,000,000. Nearly $100,000,000 more than that advertising which created all the big business of our country cost.

Yes, advertising pays. That is why $460,000,000 was spent on it and, by advertising, fire losses of $556,000,000; 15,000 deaths (66 per cent women and children), and one reported fire out of every thirty-eight buildings, in forty-five cities, can be materially reduced.

Here, however, is the obstacle: Who will spend an adequate amount to educate the public about fires, so that loss of 15,000 lives and $556,000,000 may be reduced?

Advertising pays, yes, but whom would such advertising pay that he should buy it? The answer is, nobody.

That such a campaign of education is sorely needed cannot be questioned. And it would be an insult to the intelligence of any informed man to doubt its effectiveness, if adequate and continuous.

But it is only to be brought about in one way—by the coupling of primary large support of some really public-spirited man, or woman, with a method whereby continuity would be preserved and perpetuated through self-support, without further "donations," and original "foundation" eventually repaid its sponsor.

But remember that so many folks who could bring it to pass are merely "God-sakers."

"Fifteen thousand deaths?" "66 per cent women and children?" "Homes and businesses wiped out?" "$556,000,000 annual loss?" "For God's sake let's do something about it!"

And then we do nothing. Merely God-sakers.

Staging 'Helen of Troy' Here.

By Wireless to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRANKFORT, Aug. 19.—I have just read two articles in THE TIMES. The first, published on Aug. 1, correctly quoted me as saying that many German opera stages are technically superior to those in America, but incorrectly quoted me as saying that for this reason it would not be possible to produce in the United States George Antheil's opera "Helen of Troy." The second article, published on Aug. 3, was a letter from John Erskine, author of the libretto of "Helen of Troy," in which he stated that he knew of no arrangement with me to stage this opera in New York. In this connection may I say that Mr. Antheil, whose previous work I staged here, asked me to stage "Helen of Troy" saying he had authority to appoint me. No doubt the evident misunderstanding will be easily cleared up by a personal interview.

SCHEHEREZADE.

I'll tell thee a tale of Youth and of Love,
And the moon that rides o'er the tamarisk
Like a silver gazelle in the purple dusk.
(I'll tell thee a tale, that I yet may live.)

I'll weave thee a pageant past men's belief
Of craggy shores where the Jinn arise
In thunder and smoke from the white-whipped seas.
(I'll weave thee a pageant, and save my life.)

Of Love will I sing, the holiest troth,
Of rose-lipped women and splendid men,
And of trysts that broke with the Orient dawn.
(Of Love will I sing, and fear not Death.)

ENLIGHTENED NATIONALISM.

The True Interests of the United States Furthered by Our Undertaking Necessary International Tasks.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

A new chapter in world history will begin when the people of the United States decide that nationalism has done a fairly complete job and begin to see the advantages of a degree of internationalism. Things have come our own way so fully and so easily in the past decade that it is but natural that a great many Americans do not see sufficient reasons to be bothered about other nations and our relations with them. Many demagogues can wrap the American flag about them and get cheers, which, perhaps really meant for the flag, are too often construed as meant for the demagogue.

It would be, doubtless, an unpopular thing to write that a hundred per cent American is not the best kind of citizen. But there can be no doubt that it will be found to the interest of the United States eventually for us to let into our souls a certain percentage of regard for our position as world citizens. The problem is how to get that percentage of world citizenship into the soul of the hundred per cent American citizen.

It will probably be generally admitted now that when we splurged into internationalism at the end of the war we went off somewhat on the wrong foot. At least, judging by the results, something must have been wrong. Then we were out to save the soul of the world. America would lead all to the dawning of a new day. And when we changed our minds, it was simply a case of Uncle Sam not being the world's Santa Claus any more. Those who went in for isolation built their case on its not costing us anything, but, on the contrary, on its being more profitable.

Any consistent foreign policy will be found to be based on national interest. So we will go into a larger international rôle in sincerity, not on any mistaken policy of helping other people, but on the more solid policy of helping ourselves and our country.

Now, perhaps Mr. Coolidge's writings help us to picture the situation. The former President writes: "Because of the natural and inevitable unity of the human race, some day there is bound to be a federation of the world." It is taken for granted that the distinguished writer sees ahead a world federation which would include the United States. Therefore, he says, in effect, that it is inevitable that the United States will some day be a member of a world federation.

Then Mr. Coolidge opines that "Perhaps the League of Nations is a beginning." He adds, quickly, that "The national spirit has been of great benefit to mankind. Its work is not yet completed."

Of course, no one supposes that Mr. Coolidge believes that eventually the national spirit will disappear. He would be the last to wish that. Therefore we must come to the conclusion that he thinks that eventually the United States will join a world federation; perhaps it will be something of which the League of Nations is the beginning; but that, for the present, the work of nationalism is not finished in the United States. By this we judge he means that Americans should put all their punch into the national spirit until its work has been completed, when we can afford to enlarge our vision by the development of some relative proportion of international spirit.

When will that be? Will it be when the United States has gone a little further and become unquestionably the greatest nation in the world? That is a fair question. And undoubtedly Mr. Coolidge would not aspire to any higher relative position for the country.

In the meanwhile, it might be a logical conclusion, with which the former President might or might not agree, that the other nations have made what is perhaps a beginning of a development which he regards as inevitable, but that we linger backward because our national job is not done. At least, such seems to the writer a fair conclusion and a rather accurate one.

There are a good many Americans, formerly supposedly led by Mr. Coolidge, who would not agree with what appears a logical conclusion of his premises. They would say that the United States does quite enough in the international field; there is no reason to do more. But, now and henceforth, Mr. Coolidge no longer subscribes to that doctrine.

The statesmen of other nations agree with Mr. Coolidge that eventually America will take a more positive international rôle. They call it shouldering responsibility in measure with our power. When we take that step we shall undoubtedly call it looking out for our interests. And that will be a happy approach to the situation.

The other day at Williamstown Admiral Hepburn, who is Chief of Staff of our fleet, said: "In accepting the Pact of Paris we have agreed to settle all disputes of whatever nature by pacific means, but we have not said what those means shall be."

It has been only a year or so since such an utterance would have been called foreign propaganda or an effort to involve the United States, or a move to annul the Monroe Doctrine. But here is our own Admiral Hepburn saying just what the League of Nations leaders began saying the day the Kellogg treaty was signed. What is America going to do to enforce peace? What does Uncle Sam propose to do if some one defies the peace pact he gave the world?

It was the watchword when the great anti-war pact was signed that it was enough. You promised to be good and you were good. A distinguished European statesman said to me one day: "The trouble with the Kellogg pact, as it stands, is that it is analogous to supposing that if every one joined the church and promised to be good there would be no more sinning. This is a theory which derives considerable weakness from the circumstance that there are so many church members in jail."

Now, even our Secretary of State believes the Kellogg pact is incomplete and that the United States should join with the other signatories in strengthening it. He would have inquiry and public report on an international dispute to enable public opinion to see the offender and clearly. France would have a definite agreement to punish the aggressor. England would have an agreement that no one—meaning the United States Navy—would interfere with a blockade of a violator of the Kellogg pact. Anyhow, gradually we are getting around to agreeing with the others that we are called on to do a little more.

There is the League of Nations, the demise of which Mr. Harding announced ten years ago. It is still going and we are a near-member. Of course, as Mr. Coolidge intimates, we will join eventually. There is the World Court, which we advocated for other nations but do not yet trust for ourselves. Of course we shall join that some day.

As Mr. Coolidge says, it is only a question of time. When do we decide not to continue the vain effort of isolation in a world where we lead? When do we make Mr. Wells apologize for saying that every time Europe looks across the Atlantic to see the American eagle it observes only the rear end of an ostrich?

LACK OF POLICE COURTESY.

Others Have Suffered "Bawling Out" for Apparently Minor Offenses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Although I had not intended writing, seeing a letter in THE TIMES complaining of the discourtesy of the police as to parking in Pelham induces me to add my protest to the treatment some of the policemen mete out to autoists who innocently violate some regulation.

Monday morning, turning from Fourth Avenue at Seventeenth Street to go west, I ran the front wheels of my car about eighteen inches over the white line between the car tracks. The traffic policeman, after sending on the two cars ahead of me, motioned me to draw up beside him, and then proceeded to "bawl me out" as though I had committed some major crime. He asked if I saw the line, and when told that I had not, said that if he gave me a summons and locked me up I would probably see it the next time. Also that if I was driving in Connecticut (I have a Connecticut license) I would have seen it. All this was shouted at me as though I were deaf, with several other uncomplimentary remarks.

Although I had five people in the car, I came to the conclusion that the only thing to do was to keep still. I am thoroughly convinced that if I had told him he had no right to "cuss me out" as he did, he would have given me a summons, and, although I had five witnesses to the incident, I am sure that I would have been fined and the policeman complimented for his action. This happened to me some years ago in Brooklyn.

I can appreciate the strain that traffic police are under, but there is no excuse for the treatment that many of them hand out to those who may violate unintentionally some slight traffic rule.

Not Only in New York.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I can sympathize with F. W. B. in THE TIMES of yesterday regarding the conduct of a police sergeant in connection with a parking violation near Pelham Bay Park.

One day last week while driving through New Rochelle I made a wrong turn on a one-way street where there are no signs indicating that it is such. In spite of the fact there were women and children in the car, the policeman had his say.

The private car owner hasn't a chance with the police. J. McP.

Such Things Do Happen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last Monday I read in THE TIMES that the price of milk in your city and other cities in the metropolitan area in New Jersey and New York had been raised one cent a quart because of the drought. It was said that "most of this money will go to farmers to enable them to buy feed to stimulate production. The pastures have dried up, it is said, with the result that grain must be fed the cows."

I thought you in the city might like to know that while you have to pay 19 cents a quart for grade A milk, I, who produce grade A milk, am not getting a bit more for it than before. It is my pasture that is burned up and it is I who have to buy grain for the cows, but not a particle of this extra cent has got to me, and it never will.

In distance I am only fifty miles away from you folks in the city, but there must be a long string of middlemen and worse between me who milk the cows and you who drink the milk. I get only 7 cents a quart for your 19-cent milk.

It's a joke on both of us. The drought comes and it costs me more to produce the milk. So your price is jacked up for my sake, but I never get any of the increase. Some one is playing the middle against both ends.

SHOTWELL TO SAIL FOR LEAGUE SESSION

Director of the Carnegie Peace Endowment to Leave on the Bremen Tonight.

COATES BOOKED FOR HOME

Conductor Will Depart for England on the Leviathan Today—Seven Ships to Go Out.

Seven liners will sail today for Europe and the South. Three ships, the Zacapa, Falcon and Buenos Aires, will arrive today. The Bremen, France, Leviathan and Albert Ballin will sail for Europe and the Sixaola, Tachira and Veendam will depart for the South.

Dr. James T. Shotwell, director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will sail on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen tonight, accompanied by Dr. Francis Drake of the Hungarian Consulate. He will attend the sessions of the League of Nations Assembly in Geneva in September. Joe Jacobs, manager for the German heavyweight boxer, Max Schmeling; A. F. Carter, president of the Shell Eastern Petroleum Products Corporation, and Major John S. Cohen, president of The Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, are among others booked on the Bremen.

Others who will sail for Cherbourg, Southampton and Bremen are:

Roman Oyarzum
Otto Merkel
Miss Martha Nellis
Judge William Blau
Mrs. Alfred Talley
Captain A. E. Bevan
Stadman Buttrick
Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Morton
C. J. Harris
C. B. Webster
Mrs. W. U. Parsons
John Shaner
Isaac Wolf
Prof. J. K. Pollock
Prof. F. L. Balkanyi
Arthur Fiedler

Coates to Sail for Home.

Albert Coates, English orchestra conductor, will sail for home on the United States liner Leviathan after a season as guest conductor at the Stadium concerts. Others on the Leviathan will be:

Mrs. Irenee du Pont
Wade H. Ellis
E. Grant McMicken
Walter T. Prendergast
H. G. Scott
C. R. Osborne
Thomas S. Williams
Miss Katherine Aldridge
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carnegie
Miss Gladys Carnegie
Putnam Eaton

The French liner France, for Plymouth and Havre, will have the following passengers:

Marcelle Guillemon
Andre de la Paulle
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marsh
John W. Eggeman
Dr. Henry Rawle Geyelin
Rev. Charles A. Jessup
Mrs. Claire H. Lang
Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Niezer
Robert E. Willis
Mrs. M. A. Saint-John
Rev. George Smith

The Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin, for Cherbourg, Southampton and Hamburg, will take a group of European physicians who are returning after an inspection tour of various scientific and charitable institutions and clinics in the United States. Others who will sail are:

The Rev. J. P. O'Connor
Charles H. Joyce
George B. Compton
Miss Elizabeth Brown
Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kepple
Mrs. Marie Hollatz
Mrs. H. Reifsnyder
Mrs. E. H. Rosenbaum
Guy A. Wainwright
Mrs. George Hooper
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reed
Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Deemer
Dr. Albert Schraft

Sixaola to Leave for Colombia.

The United Fruit Company's steamer Sixaola will take out the following for Jamaica, Cristobal, the Canal Zone and Colombian ports:

WILL OF P. H. ROCHE LEAVES ESTATE TO KIN

Man Who Refereed the Kilrain-Sullivan Bare Knuckle Bout Named Nephews and Niece.

Patrick H. Roche, noted thirty years ago as a fight promoter and café proprietor, divided his estate of undetermined value among three nephews, a niece and two grandnephews, it was learned yesterday, when his will was filed. Mr. Roche, who acted as referee in the seventy-five-round, bare-knuckle bout in which John L. Sullivan knocked out Jake Kilrain, bequeathed $5,000 to one nephew, James J. Byrnes, 128 Park Row, and $1,000 each to the grandnephews, David and Henry Graff Jr., both of 179 Cherry Street.

The residue is to be shared equally by the niece, Mrs. Mary Graff, of the Cherry Street address, and the other nephews, Thomas F. Drumm, 301 East Twenty-third Street, Brooklyn, and John J. Drumm, Cedarhurst, L. I., who is named executor.

The will was executed on Aug. 19, 1929, exactly one year before it was offered for probate.

Mr. Roche, who was 72 years old, died a week ago at the Hotel Breslin, where he had lived for twenty-five years.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Aug. 19.—The will of Miss Abby Roberta Howland of New York, who died at her Summer home in the Shinnecock Hills on Aug. 9, was filed for probate with the Surrogate here today.

It disposes of an estate of "more than $75,000," which is said to be greatly in excess of that figure.

Among the bequests in the will are the following of $5,000 each:

Church of the Heavenly Rest, 2 East Ninetieth Street, New York.
Mrs. Charles M. Connfelt of 646 Park Avenue, New York, a niece.
Mrs. Howard C. Dickinson of Southampton, another niece.
Howard C. Dickinson Jr., grand nephew.
Meredith Howland, cousin, of 37 East Thirty-fifth Street, New York.
Howard C. Dickinson, nephew.
Charles M. Connfelt, nephew.

Gillette's One-Man Railroad Fills Actor's Boyhood Desire

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 19.—William Gillette, the actor and playwright, who once devoted most of his vacation days to trips on his houseboat, the Aunt Polly, has found a new diversion.

On his castle estate at Hadlyme, on the Connecticut River, he has installed a one-man railroad. Mr. Gillette handles the throttle himself and dashes up hill and down dale at breakneck speed.

The impersonator of Sherlock Holmes says that the railroad is merely a plaything. It was built at considerable cost to meet an unsatisfied boyhood ambition, as Mr. Gillette says he always wanted to be a railroad man.

T. G. BENNETT DEAD; DIRECTED ARMS FIRM

Civil War Veteran Was Head of Winchester Company for 21 Years Until 1911.

Trustee of the Sheffield Scientific School—Former Member of Yale University Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 19.—Thomas Gray Bennett, Civil War veteran and for twenty-one years president of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, died today at his residence on Prospect Hill. He had been in feeble health for some time. He was born in New Haven 80 years ago and attended General Russell's School here until a commission was given him to drill Connecticut State troops shortly after the outbreak of the Civil War.

He was First Lieutenant of the Second Connecticut Infantry and Captain of the Twenty-ninth Connecticut Volunteers. He was also an officer of the Twenty-eighth Connecticut Volunteers.

He was graduated from Sheffield Scientific School with the class of 1870 and entered the employ of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, becoming secretary, treasurer and vice president. He served as president from 1890 to 1911, when he resigned the presidency, but was continued as consulting director.

He was a member of the corporation of Yale University from 1884 to 1902 and was a trustee of the Sheffield Scientific School, a member of the board of managers of the Yale observatory and a director of the First National Bank.

He married Hannah Jane Winchester, daughter of Oliver F. Winchester, founder of the Winchester Company, in 1872. He left two sons, Winchester Bennett of New Haven and Eugene Bennett of New York; a daughter, Hope Bennett, and a brother, William Lyon Bennett, lawyer and judge of New Haven.

Mr. Bennett was a member of the Army and Navy Club, the New York and Sachem's Head Yacht Clubs.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS HOLD ANNUAL PARADE

15,000 in Line in Philadelphia—Nominations Made for Election Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Fifteen thousand persons, the majority of them veterans of the Spanish-American War, paraded through the city today as 200,000 spectators cheered from curbstones and office windows. The parade, an event of the annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, was headed by Major Gen. William G. Price Jr. of Pennsylvania as chief marshal.

Governor Green of Michigan, commander-in-chief of the veterans; General Valiente, official delegate from Cuba; Mrs. Lulu Shakespeare of Everett, Wash., national president of the women's department, and military and city officials were in the reviewing stand.

At a mass meeting marking the preparedness day program of the encampment Captain W. C. Watts of the Philadelphia Navy Yard and Colonel Lewis S. Sorley of the Pennsylvania National Guard urged the veterans to support a program for increased naval strength.

Edward S. Mathias, former justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, and Robert Wankowski of Culver City, Cal., were nominated for national commander of the veterans. Election will be held tomorrow.

Other nominations were: For senior vice commander, Dr. R. S. Ellsworth of Portland, Ore.; for junior vice commander, Michael F. Kelley of Illinois; Otto Emmendorfer of St. Louis, William S. Seddinger of Norfolk, Va., and Henry A. Ingalls of Roswell, N. M.; for surgeon general, Dr. William Mittendorf of New York, Dr. John Wright of Louisville, Ky., Dr. Frank Broderick of Detroit and Dr. E. N. Dorell of Providence, R. I.; for chaplain-in-chief, the Rev. Thomas H. Derrick of Deland, Fla., and the Rev. Charles Lee of Paterson, N. J.

Next year's encampment will be held in New Orleans.

Trenton Death Rate Heads List.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP).—Trenton had the highest death rate among seventy-eight cities of the country for the week ended Aug. 2, an announcement today by the Department of Commerce disclosed. The city had a death rate of 24.2 per 1,000 of population. Fifty-seven deaths occurred there in that week, as against 33 in the corresponding week of 1929. Newark's deaths decreased by 13 to 82. Jersey City reported only 57, a decrease of 6.

E. Arthur Bernstein.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—E. Arthur Bernstein, a retired manufacturer, died of peritonitis yesterday at the Chestnut Hill Hospital after an illness of ten days. He was 47 years of age. Mr. Bernstein had been active most of his life in the manufacture of bed springs. He was a member of the Manufacturers' Club and the Furniture Club. He is survived by his widow and four children.

G. FROHMAN LAUDED AS STAGE PIONEER

Frank Gillmore and Dr. Prince Eulogize Theatre Director at Funeral.

HIS IDEALS ALSO PRAISED

Many of Veteran Manager's Former Associates Included Among 300 Mourners Present.

Funeral services for Gustave Frohman, veteran theatrical manager and brother of Daniel and the late Charles Frohman, were held yesterday afternoon in the Funeral Chapel, Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway. More than 300 persons, including many of his contemporaries in the theatre, attended. Mr. Frohman died at his New York home on Saturday at the age of 76 after a long illness.

The late producer's life and services to the theatre were eulogized by Dr. Samuel Prince of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, who officiated, and by Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association. Mr. Gillmore, recalling his own days as an actor under Mr. Frohman's management, lauded his ideals and ambitions as being ahead of those of the current theatre, and praised his enthusiasm as a pioneer in another theatrical generation.

"Gustave Frohman always seemed to derive great joy in discovering new talent, either in an actor or a business manager of the theatre," Mr. Gillmore said. "He spent years in developing them, and when they became successful he would feel that his work was done, with never a thought of any financial gain for himself. His vision made him impatient of the conventional and he was always seeking how to do things better."

Mr. Frohman was credited by Dr. Prince with having "built up a concordat between the Church and the theatre." The speaker added that he was a true friend to both. "His greatest pleasure in life was to serve his fellow-men and to guide others to success," said Dr. Prince.

Daniel Frohman, elder brother of Gustave Frohman, was not present. He left last week for a motor tour in Canada, and the family has not yet been able to apprise him of his brother's death, it was said yesterday by Louis Henry Frohman, a son of the late producer. The surviving members of the family present were the widow, Marie Hubert Frohman; three sisters, Etta and Emma Frohman and Mrs. D. H. Davidson, and two sons, Philip Hubert Frohman of Washington, D. C., and Louis Henry Frohman.

Among those at the services were Hattie Williams, Ida Mulle, J. H. Benrimo, Olive May, Hubert Wilke, Walter Hudson, Henry Chesterfield, George Kennington, J. Irving Southard, C. Edwin Brandt, Rabbi Benjamin Tintner and John Ryland, a Negro who has been attached to the Frohman office for over thirty years. The honorary pallbearers were Wilfrid North, James F. Reilly, John D. Williams, Benjamin F. Roeder, Harry G. Sommers, Charles Richman and Charles Jehlinger.

A committal service, attended only by members of the family, was held later in the afternoon at the Fresh Pond Crematory on Long Island.

MRS. EVA W. SMITH.

Wife of Jersey City Banker Dies While Traveling in Austria.

KLAGENFURT, Carinthia, Austria, Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Eva W. Smith of Jersey City, N. J., died today from a stroke of apoplexy which she suffered on Aug. 16 while traveling from Vienna to Venice with her husband, a New Jersey banker.

Mrs. Smith was taken from the train in an unconscious condition and received treatment from a physician, who, however, was unable to revive her.

Mr. Smith has left for Cherbourg, accompanying the body, which will be taken to New York on the Aquitania.

Mrs. Smith was the wife of Walter A. Smith of 16 Tonnele Avenue, Jersey City, who has been connected with the Chemical Bank and Trust Company of New York for many years. They sailed on the Cameronia on July 10 for an extensive European tour. Mrs. Smith is survived by three sisters, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. James Underwood and Mrs. I. Van Billen.

THEODORE J. HETZER DIES.

Had Been Manager of Brokerage Branch on Liner Bremen.

Theodore J. Hetzer, manager of the branch of the brokerage firm of M. J. Meehan & Co. on board the Bremen, died on Monday in the Long Island College Hospital. He was 38 years old. Funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Sixth Avenue and Second Street, Brooklyn. Burial will be in Lutheran Cemetery tomorrow morning.

Mr. Hetzer was at one time an assistant supervisor of internal revenue agents in the Treasury Department in New York and was a member of St. Albans Lodge, F. and A. M., and the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks. He left a wife, Mrs. Gertrude I. Hetzer, and two children, Theodore and Doris Hetzer.

JOHN D. CARR DIES.

Widely Known Kentucky Thoroughbred Breeder Stricken at Saratoga.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 19 (AP).—John D. Carr, widely known thoroughbred breeder, died suddenly at Saratoga, N. Y., on Monday afternoon, according to word received today by his brother, Thomas B. Carr.

Mr. Carr left Lexington last week with a shipment of yearlings for the Saratoga sales and was apparently in good health. He was one of the last of the thoroughbred breeders of the old school. Horses bred by him have won many important races during the last half century.

Florence Edward Sullivan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Florence Edward Sullivan, old-time Chicago newspaper man and for the last twenty-five years prominent in Democratic political circles as a publicity representative, died today at St. Luke's Hospital. He was 66 years old. Mr. Sullivan had worked for The Inter Ocean, The Record, The Record-Herald and The Daily News. He was well known as a political reporter and at one time was a Washington correspondent.

Leo Fleischman, Chess Player, Dead.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 19 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Leo Fleischman, chess player, died here today. He recently won the second prize at the chess tournament in Hamburg.

1,131 Deaths Here in Week Set Low Record for Year

A low mortality record for any week so far this year was recorded by the Health Department for the week ended last Saturday, it was announced yesterday. There were 1,131 deaths, a rate of 8.44 per 1,000 population. Births numbered 2,483, a gain of eight over the preceding week.

A low record for fatal automobile accidents in Manhattan also was announced. Only one was reported during the week, whereas the average is nine. Brooklyn had seven motor fatalities, the Bronx three and Queens one.

In contrast to the low records, the department found that pneumonia was more prevalent than in any week since June 21, with 151 new cases and 92 deaths recorded.

REV. DR. CLENDENIN DIES IN HIS SLEEP

Son-in-Law of Greeley Had Been for Thirty Years Rector of St. Peter's in Bronx.

HE WAS IN HIS 78TH YEAR

As Leader in Westchester Village's Civic Affairs Promoted Annexation to New York City.

Special to The New York Times.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The Rev. Dr. Frank Montrose Clendenin, son-in-law of Horace Greeley and one of Westchester County's most prominent residents, died during the night at Rehoboth House, the Greeley homestead at Chappaqua, in which the noted editor himself lived for many years.

Dr. Clendenin appeared to be in good health when he retired at 8 o'clock last night. When his wife, Mrs. Gabrielle Greeley Clendenin called him this morning she found that he was dead. The news came as a distinct shock to the residents of Chappaqua, where Dr. Clendenin was revered. He was in his seventy-eighth year.

Dr. Clendenin had taken an active part in the plans for the celebration to be held on Sept. 6 in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of the village, and this activity is believed to have caused too great a tax on his strength. He had been in the village only yesterday, and on Saturday was in the town offices chatting with several of the officials there.

Dr. Clendenin was for many years a leader in the Anglo-Catholic or high church party of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He was also a leader in civic affairs in the Westchester section of the Bronx in which his church was located and was one of the leaders in the five-year fight which ended successfully in the annexation of the village of West Chester to New York City in 1895. He also wrote several books and numerous articles and reviews.

Born in Washington, D. C., on Sept. 17, 1853, he was the son of George and Charlotte Humphreys Clendenin. He was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1879, becoming a Presbyterian minister. A year later, persuaded by the late Bishop Seymour of Springfield, Ill., Dr. Clendenin was ordained by him as an Episcopal clergyman. That year he assumed the rectorship of St. George's Church, Belleville, Ill., leaving in 1883 to become rector of Grace Church, Cleveland, Ohio. In 1893 he received the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology from Nashotah House Ceminary.

Rector of St. Peter's Thirty Years.

In 1887 he became rector of St. Peter's, remaining there until his retirement in 1917. In the Bronx Dr. Clendenin became a widely known and active figure. His church became one of the best known in or near New York.

In 1906 Dr. Clendenin found that he had tuberculosis and he went to live on the Greeley estate here, making his home in a large remodeled barn, which was his last home here. He conquered the disease and returned to his parish.

In his writings and actions Dr. Clendenin stood firmly on his convictions. In 1899 he engaged in a controversy with the late Bishop Potter, who wished to ordain the late Rev. Dr. Charles A. Briggs, a minister who had been convicted of heresy by the Presbyterian Church in 1893 and had left that denomination. In 1900 Dr. Briggs was ordained.

In 1928 Dr. Clendenin presented a notable collection of the works of Horace Greeley to the library of Congress. He himself was the author of "Idols by the Sea and Other Sermons," "The Name of the Church" and "The Comfort of the Catholic Faith," as well as pamphlets and articles.

Built Church in Daughter's Memory.

Dr. Clendenin married the former Miss Greeley in St. John's Church, Pleasantville, in 1893. They had four children, all of whom died, two in infancy. In memory of their daughter, Muriel, who had died at the age of 5, they built the Church of St. Mary the Virgin in 1905 in Chappaqua at a cost of $20,000.

Dr. Clendenin belonged to the Authors' Guild, the Churchmen's Association, the City Club and the New York Club.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Emmons Burrill, the rector, in St. Mary's Church, Chappaqua, on Thursday at 10:30 A. M. Burial will be in the Greeley-Clendenin plot in the rear of the church.

Honorary pallbearers will be Gilbert Ferris of New York City and Harold Le Baron, John Woodcock, William Creighton, Edward Sturgis and Lyman B. Sturgis, all of Chappaqua.

Dr. Miner Lee Bates.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 19 (AP).—Dr. Miner Lee Bates, former president of Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, died at a hospital here tonight.

Dr. Bates had been prominent in educational and church circles for years, and was made president of Hiram in 1908. He resigned last November. He had held pastorates in East Orange, N. J., and New York. He was born in Fairfield, Mich., sixty-one years ago.

Mary Pope's Funeral Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Aug. 19.—The funeral of Miss Mary Pope, of Newport's Summer colony, who died on Monday evening from injuries suffered in an automobile accident, will be held in Berkeley Memorial Chapel, Middletown, tomorrow and will be private. The Rev. Clifford Chadwick, rector of the chapel, will officiate.

ANDRE RIVOIRE DIES; NOTED FRENCH POET

Chevalier of Legion of Honor Was Also Dramatist, Critic and Producer.

HONORED BY THE ACADEMY

Was Characterized as One of Few Poets at End of 19th Century Not Influenced by Symbolists.

PARIS, Aug. 19 (AP).—André Rivoire, one of the noted French poets of the last generation, died here today at the age of 58.

M. Rivoire was also known as a dramatist and critic. His latest play, written in collaboration with Romain Coolus, was produced in Paris early this year and may be reproduced here this season. Its title is "Pardon, Madame." From 1897 to 1912 he was associated with the producing company of the "Revue de Paris," and later wrote dramatic criticisms for l'Echo de Paris and Le Temps.

He was born in Vienne (Isère) in 1872 and was educated at Lycee de Lyon and Lycee Henri IV. He gained prominence as a poet early in life and has been characterized as "one of the few poets who at the end of the nineteenth century was not influenced by the Symbolists." Among his works are "Les Vierges," "Le Songe d'Amour" and "Le Chemin d'Oubli," which was crowned by the French Academy in 1904.

Among his dramas are "Il était une bergère," "Mon ami Teddy" and "The Little Shepherdess," which was produced in English in 1915. He was a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

MRS. WILLIAM P. MUNSON.

Retired District Deputy of Catholic Daughters of America Dies.

Mrs. Eliza Agnes Munson, widow of the late William P. Munson, a prominent business man of Whitestone, died at her home, 149-34 Sixteenth Road, Whitestone, yesterday, after a six months' illness. She was 65 years old.

Mrs. Munson had lived in Whitestone for more than fifty years. She was married to Mr. Munson in 1893.

Twenty years ago she helped to organize Court Leon, Catholic Daughters of America, in Whitestone and later became its grand regent. She was made a district deputy, an office which she held for twelve years, retiring last year, when a testimonial dinner was tendered her by 300 members from the fifteen courts of the order she had organized and instituted.

Mrs. Munson is survived by two sons and three daughters.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church, where a mass of requiem will be conducted by the Rev. Francis J. Dillon. Burial will be in Mount St. Mary's Cemetery, Flushing.

SIMON J. HARDING.

Former Member of Cotton Exchange Dies After Appendicitis Operation.

Simon J. Harding, retired cotton broker and one of the leading members of the Central Methodist Church in Brooklyn, of which he was president of the board of trustees, died yesterday in the Carson C. Peck Memorial Hospital after an operation for appendicitis. He was 86 years old. Funeral services will be held in Central Church tomorrow evening with the Rev. Dr. J. Lane Miller, pastor of the church, and the Rev. W. C. Judd, associate pastor, officiating.

Mr. Harding was at one time a partner in the firm of Woodward & Stillman and for many years was a member of the Cotton Exchange. In recent years he engaged in the real estate business. He contributed to many charities and was a member of the board of managers of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital. He lived at 47 Plaza Street, Brooklyn. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Katherine Harding, and two sons, Robert and Henry Harding.

NATHAN WISE.

Artist and Inventor of a Telephone Dial Service Dies.

Nathan Wise, portrait painter and inventor, is dead in Mount Vernon, N. Y., from heart disease. He was 51 years old. A native of Lithuania, he came to this country forty years ago. He had resided in Mount Vernon for the last twelve years.

He was the inventor of the dualite electric light and more recently of an automatic telephone dial system. He was also a trustee of Sinai Temple and of the board of the temple's school.

Howard Bennett Austin.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Howard Bennett Austin, Boston bond broker and veteran of the World War, died today in the home of his parents here. Mr. Austin was born in Arlington in 1894, and was connected with the Boston & Maine Railroad until he enlisted during the World War in the Fourteenth Railway Engineers. He saw twenty-one months of service overseas. He had been connected with White, Weld & Co. of Boston until ill health caused him to give up work last March.

Zachary Taylor, 70, Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Zachary Taylor, a retired manufacturing superintendent, died of a complication of ailments at his home here last night. Named after President Taylor, he was born seventy years ago. He had been general superintendent of the Higgins Plaster Works of Newburgh. He belonged to the Masons, Knights of Pythias and Veteran Firemen's Association. Two children survive. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. O. M. Arkenburgh.

Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Susan Hill Arkenburgh, widow of Oliver Martin Arkenburgh, New York wholesale tobacco merchant and formerly of the State Chamber of Commerce, at her home in Schenectady. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn. Mrs. Arkenburgh was 80 years old. She is survived by a son, W. H. Arkenburgh of Schenectady, and a daughter, Miss Gladys F. Arkenburgh, and a brother, John Hill, both of New York.

C. L. PATTERSON DIES; A DU PONT OFFICIAL

Prominent in Wilmington Society and Civic Affairs—Had Retired Several Years Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 19.—Charles L. Patterson for twenty-three years a vice president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., died of heart disease at his Summer home, Fair Hills, at Chadd's Ford, Pa., last night. He was prominent in society and civic circles here. His age was 74 years.

Born in Pottsville, Pa., Mr. Patterson studied engineering under private tutors after graduating from high school, and later became a salesman for the Repauno Chemical Company, manufacturers of explosives. Subsequently he took charge of the company's Southern office in Atlanta, and at the time of its merger with the du Pont company he was appointed director of explosives sales. In 1907 he became vice president of the company and a member of the board of directors. He retired several years ago.

Mr. Patterson was for many years president of the Associated Charities of Wilmington and was a member of the Wilmington Country Club and of the Union League of Philadelphia.

H. M. HENDERSON DIES FROM AUTO INJURIES

Seed Firm Executive, 39 Years Old, Was Injured When Vehicle Overturned in California.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLISTER, Cal., Aug. 19.—Howard M. Henderson, general manager of the Peter Henderson Seed Company of New York City, was fatally injured and R. T. Cremer of San Diego, Cal., realty operator, suffered a fracture of an arm when their car overturned six miles north of here last night. They had been in the Northwest several weeks on a fishing trip and were returning to San Diego. Mr. Cremer was at the wheel when the accident occurred. They were brought to the hospital here, where Mr. Henderson died within a few hours. His age was 39.

Mr. Henderson, with his wife and two children, had been spending the summer in San Diego.

He was the third son-in-law of Colonel M. A. McRae, co-founder of the Scripps-McRae newspapers, to meet a tragic death in the prime of life. The others were John Scripps, eldest son of E. W. Scripps, the publisher, and Major William Alden Smith 3d, son of Senator Smith of Michigan, who was killed during the war. Colonel McRae arrived here today.

Mr. Henderson has been associated with the seed firm for many years. The company, founded by his uncle, Peter Henderson, maintained offices at 35 Cortlandt Street. The Henderson home is at 81 Prospect Avenue, Montclair.

SAYS RISKS OF WAR CONTINUE IN EUROPE

Dr. Mantoux, in Williamstown Address, Gives French View of East German Issue.

HAITIAN POLICY ASSAILED

American Intervention Criticized by Institute Speakers as Political Pauperization.

By LOUIS STARK.
Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 19.—France's feeling of insecurity and her fear of "the risks of armed contest," resulting from the tension between Poland and Germany regarding Danzig, Upper Silesia and the "Polish Corridor," are increased by the knowledge that Great Britain is determined "to assume no responsibility for the protection of the territorial status quo except in the Rhine area," asserted Dr. Mantoux, director of the School of Higher International Studies at Geneva, in a lecture at the Institute of Politics tonight.

Dr. Mantoux, who was official interpreter at the Paris peace conference, where he served as the medium of communication between Clemenceau, Orlando, Lloyd George and President Wilson, added that France's fear of trouble on Germany's eastern frontier, which he called "one of the danger spots of Europe," was also increased by "frequent public utterances in Germany."

The remark was understood to refer to the recent speech of Dr. Gottfried Treviranus, German Minister for the Occupied Areas, who complained that Germany had been badly treated in relation to her eastern boundaries.

"France cannot afford to leave to their fate the States whose national existence originated in the recent treaties of peace, apart from consideration of honor and respect for her pledged word," said Dr. Mantoux. "Her past history has taught her too well what sort of future would await her if she did.

Stresses League Membership.

"It would be absurd to imagine that the French expect every article in each of these treaties to stand untouched forever, for they have already accepted substantial changes in clauses directly affecting their own interests. But they could never by their passivity encourage attempts to alter the present state of things by force. They cannot, moreover, believe that indifference to such possibilities is consistent with membership in the League of Nations.

"France, at Locarno, gave to Poland and Czechoslovakia her guarantee against aggression; and the difficulties which may arise in that direction remain a source of preoccupation and obstacle to the reapproachment between the French and German nations, which the majority of the people sincerely desire."

Dr. Mantoux commented briefly on the Briand-Kellogg pact by recalling President Coolidge's remarks following its signing, that "preservation of our national safety" required the maintenance of "an adequate army and navy", because "pledges can be broken and treaties can be violated." Mr. Coolidge's words, he said, called for no further comment, since "surely they apply to France at least as much as to the United States."

In conclusion he touched on the dilemma of the nations at Geneva. They could not hasten toward disarmament unless those nations concerned most with national defense felt they could rely on the existing system of mutual protection. On the other hand, failure to fulfill at an early date the promise of disarmament contained in the peace treaties might result in jeopardizing those very treaties "and in bringing nearer the very dangers feared by the countries which insist on security guarantee."

Caribbean Policy Discussed.

Mrs. Helen Hill Weed of Norwalk, Conn., who accompanied the Forbes mission to Haiti as a journalist, assailed American intervention in that country at a conference on the Caribbean policy of the United States.

"No responsible official of the United State Government has ever asserted that the Haitian intervention, save in its very first days, was justified by law or conscience," Mrs. Weed asserted.

She conceded that there was a good side to American intervention, and praised the work of the navy doctors and engineers; but, she said, the intervention was one of pure self-interest "at the expense of Haitian independence and territorial sovereignty."

William F. Montavon, director of the legal department of the National Catholic Welfare Council, who also accompanied the Forbes Mission to Haiti, in a brief statement said that the most serious charge of the mission against the occupation was that, after fifteen years, the American officials in Haiti were working as if they planned to remain there indefinitely.

William E. Walling, who handled publicity on foreign affairs for the Democratic National Committee in 1928, assailed President Machado of Cuba as a "dictator," alleging that he was the "puppet" of "big business." Intervening at first to restore law and order, the United States had remained in Cuba to continue the economic exploitation of the island, said Mr. Walling. He suggested the United States allow Cuba to put into effect the modern election code which, he said, had been scrapped by the Machado Administration.

Dana Munro, chief of the Latin-American division of the State Department and Minister designate to Haiti, said that the outstanding cause of revolutions in Latin America were inexperience in self-government and illiteracy, which made it difficult to hold fair elections.

Agreement in Nicaragua.

What free elections might mean in a Caribbean country was evident in the case of Nicaragua, where both sides agreed that the victor in the elections two years ago would request that this country again supervise the next Presidential election, he said.

Whiting Williams, sociologist, said that business men of the United States had an opportunity of helping to build up a middle class in Latin America to act in the nature of a shock absorber between the small group at the top and the countless peons at the bottom.

Professor Jesse S. Reeves of the University of Michigan declared at his round table on Pan-American problems that it would be dangerous for the United States to enter into a treaty setting up special courts of arbitration to settle Pan-American questions. Instead, he proposed that this country adhere to the World Court and rely upon that agency to handle the arbitration issues with Latin America.

Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, former Chief of Staff of the United States fleet, at the round table on disarmament said that war between the United States and Great Britain was "unthinkable," not for sentimental but for military reasons.

FRANCE AWARDS HONOR TO LE BOUTILLIER HERE

President of Retail Dry Goods Association Decorated for Aid in Developing Trade.

A decoration of the Legion of Honor was awarded by the French Government yesterday to Philip Le Boutillier, president of the Retail Dry Goods Association, in recognition of the services of New York department stores in developing a market for French products. The medal was presented to Mr. Le Boutillier, who is president of Best & Co., by M. M. Garreau-Dombasle, commercial attaché of the French Embassy at New York, in a ceremony attended by executives of various department stores, at headquarters of the Retail Dry Goods Association, 132 West Forty-second Street.

In referring to the development of Franco-American friendship, Mr. Garreau-Dombasle said that European business circles were concerned, and in many cases indignant, over the increased trade barriers brought about by the tariff. He declared that although there had been scarcely any reduction in purchases by France in this country during the last month, exports of French goods to the United States had dropped by more than half.

"I hope that this very contagious disease of overprotection which threatens to spread all over the world," he said, "will soon be cured by the people's common sense. As your Assistant Secretary of Commerce justly stated, 'America, to be prosperous, needs European prosperity.'"

Accepting the award, Mr. Le Boutillier said that he hoped the French Government would not consider the tariff as an expression of American feeling toward France. He added that his association hoped that the tariff soon would be lowered to the mutual benefit of both countries.

Those who attended the ceremony were:

SAMUEL W. REYBURN, president, Lord & Taylor.
JESSE ISIDOR STRAUS, president, R. H. Macy & Co., Inc.
CLARKSON COWL, president, James A. Hearn & Son, Inc.
JOHN S. BURKE, vice president, B. Altman & Co.
EDWARD C. BLUM, president, Abraham & Straus.
WILLIAM J. PEDRICK, vice president, Fifth Avenue Association.
WILLIAM A. FITZGERALD, National Retail Dry Goods Association.
VAN B. SIMMS, treasurer, Retail Dry Goods Association.
HENRY W. HICKS, Franklin Simon & Co.
H. NELSON STREET, Retail Dry Goods Association.
HARRY RAPHAEL, Retail Dry Goods Association.
RALPH GAMBLE, vice president, James McCreery Company.

KINGS REPUBLICANS VOTE DOWN REPEAL

Executive Committee Backs a Plank Calling for Liquor Control by States.

STEINBRINK PRESSES MOVE

Washington Pressure Seen in Action After Opposite Stand in Recent Poll.

HARBORD GROUP TO FIGHT

Chairman Says There Must Be No Side-Stepping on Dry Issue and Appeals to Delegates.

Under the direction of Meier Steinbrink, Brooklyn Republican leader, the Kings County Republican Executive Committee adopted yesterday a proposed plank for the State party platform, recommending a change in the Eighteenth Amendment to give each State the right to sell liquor under a dispensary system.

This proposed plank, which differs in principle very little from the position taken by former Governor Alfred E. Smith as Democratic candidate for President in 1928, was adopted after a motion for repeal of the amendment had been beaten by a vote of about 18 to 22.

Mr. Steinbrink, before succeeding Jacob A. Livingston as leader through pressure from the Hoover Administration, was a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and soon after becoming leader he directed a prohibition referendum among the members of the Kings County Republican Committee, which resulted in a vote for repeal of about 5 to 1. Mr. Steinbrink's insistence in preventing a declaration for repeal despite his own former personal position and the position taken by the county committee, was attributed to pressure from the Hoover Administration at Washington and a desire to work with William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican State Committee, to prevent the adoption of a repeal plank.

Harbord Group to Fight.

While the Brooklyn Republican organization was trying to reverse itself as much as possible on the prohibition issue, General James G. Harbord, chairman of the advisory committee of the New York County Republican Committee, issued a statement, reiterating the declaration of his committee for repeal and declaring that there must be no sidestepping on this issue at the State convention. General Harbord also made public a letter to members of his committee, in which he urged them to use any influence they might have among delegates to the convention to get them to support a repeal plank.

The Steinbrink plank was presented to the executive committee after it had been adopted by the State affairs committee of the Republican Advisory Committee, of which Lewis H. Pounds is chairman, with only one dissenting vote.

John R. Crews, leader of the Sixth Assembly District, offered a resolution for repeal and urged the committee to adopt the position taken by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow as candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in New Jersey and subsequently written into the New Jersey State Republican platform. Mr. Crews's proposed amendment was voted down.

As originally offered the Steinbrink resolution declared for "modification" of the Eighteenth Amendment to permit State control of the liquor traffic. Former State Senator Charles F. Murphy offered an amendment to substitute "repeal" for "modification."

Test on Wet Plank.

The test of strength in the executive committee came on Mr. Murphy's motion, which was beaten by a vote of 18 to 22.

In the debate before the vote Mr. Steinbrink said there was no difference in the meaning of his resolution and that proposed by Mr. Murphy. Transit Commissioner Charles C. Lockwood, leader of the Fifth Assembly District and chairman of the County Committee, replied that there was a difference between "modification" and "repeal" when it came to getting votes and that the votes would come with a repeal declaration.

Mr. Lockwood suggested that the word "change" should be substituted for the word "modification." This was agreed to and the proposed Steinbrink plank, which will be presented to the State convention, was adopted as follows:

We recommend that by appropriate action the Eighteenth Amendment be changed to provide for local option and to conform to the following principles:

1. Continued abolition of all traffic in intoxicating beverages for private profit.

2. Permit a return to the several States of the right to adopt a system of State control, sale and distribution of liquor, provided it is accompanied by a State enforcement act.

3. The right of local option within wet States, i. e., no depots or centres for the sale or distribution of liquor within any village, town, county or municipality in which a majority of the votes cast on the question shall have been opposed to the sale or distribution of liquor.

4. The right of the Federal Government, not only through the control of interstate commerce but also in the direct exercise of its police powers, to guarantee the integrity of the borders of dry States against the transportation into them of liquor from wet States.

Sees a Wet Swing.

General Harbord, who will be a delegate to the State convention, declared that there was a certain wet swing throughout the country.

"This matter must not be sidestepped in our platform, if we hope to win. A straightforward declaration on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is as necessary to our success as the same sort of a declaration on the scandalous city government of Greater New York. The Democratic platform will be as eloquent for good government as our own. We surely do not wish the Republican party, by our silence, to be forced into becoming the actual prohibition party."

New Zealand to Tax Workers $7.50 Each to Aid Jobless

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 19.—All of New Zealand's male workers are to be levied on at the rate of $7.50 each to assist the jobless, in accordance with the terms of a bill which Prime Minister Forbes has promised to rush through Parliament before he starts for the London Imperial Conference on Monday.

At least 10,000 out of the white population of 1,400,000 are jobless, and there is much distress.

The bill also provides for the establishment of a board to administer the fund for the provision of employment or, failing this, of sustenance on the lines of the British dole act.

Women workers are not included in the scheme.

DETECTIVE SHOOTS A WOOER IN ERROR

Girl Stenographer's Friend in Flight in Streets Is Taken for Youth Sought by Police.

QUERY PUT VICTIM IN PANIC

Followed Young Woman When She Went With Employer to Trap Author of Alleged Threats.

Detective Caswell Jacobs of the West Forty-seventh Street police station through a case of mistaken identity shot and slightly wounded Nicholas Citeralla, 32 years old, of 167 Mulberry Street, at Forty-second Street and Eighth Avenue yesterday afternoon.

Anthony Ricci, 45 years old, an officer of the Fox Film Corporation at Forty-fourth Street and Ninth Avenue, had told detectives that his life had been threatened by his nephew, Philip Ricci, 21 years old, of 111-28 Polk Avenue, Flushing, because he would not act as mediator in the youth's quarrel with his parents over losing his job.

The elder Ricci said he had received many telephone calls recently and feared for his life. Detectives Jacobs and Patrick Hardy were assigned to the case. They told the uncle to notify them the next time his nephew called to make an appointment with him.

At 4 P. M. yesterday the young man telephoned again. Ricci arranged to meet him at a drug store at Forty-second Street and Eighth Avenue at 5 o'clock. Miss Louise Martella, 21 years old, a stenographer in Ricci's office, asked if she might accompany him so that she could witness the arrest.

In the meantime Citeralla, a wooer of the young woman, called and made an appointment to meet her. She failed to tell her employer of the arrangement and went along with him. As Ricci and Miss Martella left the building, Citeralla, who had been waiting, followed them. The detectives, observing Citeralla's actions, thought he might be the nephew or an accomplice, and they followed him.

When the drug store was reached, Detective Jacobs caught Citeralla by the arm and was about to question him when he started to run. Jacobs shouted at the fleeing man to halt, and when he failed to do so the detective fired a shot at him. The bullet lodged in Citeralla's left thigh.

A moment later the detective learned of his mistake. The nephew was pointed out to detectives and was taken to the police station, where he was charged with felonious assault. Citeralla was hurried to the Polyclinic Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Walsh. He remained there for the night.

HOUSEMAID IS HELD FOR 22 BURGLARIES

Said to Have Given Employers Her Own Phone Number and Recommended Herself.

Margaret Davis, 27 years old, a Negro, of 336 West Thirty-fifth Street, was arrested last night by detectives, who said she had admitted twenty-two burglaries of homes in which she had been employed as a housemaid, in and near the city.

The woman obtained employment by giving as a reference the name and telephone number of a woman she said had formerly employed her. The telephone number was actually her own and she assured callers of her own competence and good character without being suspected, according to Detective Lieutenant Walter Culhane.

The largest haul was $6,000 in jewelry, which she stole from the home of A. F. Kaddell, a lawyer, on Old Mamaroneck Road, Mamaroneck, on the night of July 16, according to the police. She had been employed there only two days before she got away with the valuables.

The loot she obtained in other places was rarely more than a few hundred dollars, the police said. None of the jewelry was recovered and the woman was still being questioned about its disposition late last night.

HOSPITAL PLANS REVISED.

Mount Vernon Institution Will Construct Only 3 Stories Now.

Only three stories of the proposed five-story addition to the Mount Vernon Hospital will be constructed at the present time, according to the revised plans filed yesterday morning at the Building Department. The three-story addition will cost about $235,000.

Provision has been made for the two additional stories so that they can be added in the future. The original plans were filed last October and called for an estimated cost of $350,000. Funds for the new building were raised about eighteen months ago when nearly $325,000 was donated. The revised plans call for a basement floor where there will be one room for eye, ear and throat diseases; a laundry room, waiting room and treatment rooms.

The first floor will have a nurses' lecture room, X-ray department, accident room, laboratories, cardiograph room, teaching duty room and sterilizing room.

On the second floor there will be a diet kitchen, isolation room, semi-private and private rooms.

The third floor will be similar except that there will be a nursery on that floor.

MULROONEY CLEARS POLICE IN RED RIOT

Finds Responsibility Cannot Be Fixed for Disorder in Union Square on Aug. 1.

LIBERTIES UNION DISSENTS

Holds Commissioner Should Have Issued General Reprimand—Sees Its Own Suggestions Ignored.

Commissioner Mulrooney exonerated yesterday all policemen charged with brutality at the Communist demonstration at Union Square Aug. 1, which turned into a riot in which a half dozen persons, including a policeman, were injured. The commissioner reported that, while definite responsibility for the disturbance could not be placed, it did not begin until the patrolman had been assaulted.

The commissioner's conclusions, issued in a 700-word statement, reviewed the evidence taken by Deputy Chief Inspector James S. Bolan at hearings held at the behest of the American Civil Liberties Union. Last night Forrest Bailey, director of the Civil Liberties group, characterized Mr. Mulrooney's decision as a "whitewash of the police," completely "disregarding the fact that six persons were injured by billies in the hands of unidentified officers."

Mr. Bailey declared that the Police Commissioner should have condemned the assaults despite lack of identification and that the commissioner had refused to consider suggestions of the Civil Liberties Union for preventing similar disorders.

The commissioner revealed that Inspector Bolan heard sixty witnesses, of whom forty-three were police witnesses. Many other witnesses refused to respond to notifications issued, he added. After summarizing the testimony, Mr. Mulrooney declared:

"In the investigation the general statement was made that the police clubbed persons in this gathering from Union Square to Irving Place. However, no witness was able to identify any particular offender in this regard.

"From statements made by witnesses at the police investigation, there is no doubt that there was considerable excitement and disorder, lasting for several minutes, on Fifteenth Street between Irving Place and Union Square East. Conflicting statements have been made regarding this disturbance and responsibility cannot be definitely fixed, but it appears to be clear that no disturbance had occurred until the unlawful assault was made upon Patrolman Woods, some of the witnesses claiming that the police exercised undue pressure in dispersing the crowd, which was moving in an orderly manner, while other witnesses maintained that the police did not exercise undue force or harshness in compelling the crowd to move on."

Commissioner Mulrooney's statement concluded with the declaration that policemen always have been instructed that "unnecessary force must not be used in quelling breaches of law and order that occur in connection with these assemblages."

Mr. Bailey, in a statement issued on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, said:

"On grounds which seem to us purely technical the commissioner has seen fit to exonerate the police entirely for their conduct in connection with the disturbances of Aug. 1. It is perfectly true that identification of individual officers who attacked crowds at Fifteenth Street was found to be impossible, but it is also perfectly true that six persons were injured by billies in the hands of unidentified officers and that many witnesses testified to unnecessary violence with which crowds were handled.

"The fact that Captain Day, who was in charge of the reserves and who gave them their orders and watched their performance from the sidewalk found nobody struck, seems to us entirely inadequate as evidence of anything else than his imperfect powers of observation."

SIX REDS TRIED IN YONKERS.

City Judge Defers Verdict on Aug. 1 Disorder in Larkin Plaza.

Upon completion of the trial yesterday of Miss Lillian Pearlman, 28, of 252 Warburton Avenue, Yonkers, and six other Communists alleged to have participated in a disturbance in Yonkers on Aug. 1, City Judge Gerald Nolan reserved decision.

The hearings lasted two days. Each defendant was charged with disorderly conduct. Chief of Police Edward Quirk alleged that the agitators tried to speak in Larkin Plaza, Yonkers, without a permit. Irvin Klein, attorney for the defendants, maintained that they needed no permit and that the right of free speech under the Constitution entitled them to speak there, since the Republicans and Democrats had been allowed previously to speak in the same locality. Besides Miss Pearlman the other defendants, who, like her, are out on bail, are Mrs. Gertrude Werble, 20 years old, 472 South Broadway; John Barrett, 312 South Broadway, and Harry Shaw, 23, of 37 Radford Street, all of Yonkers; Alwyn Roberts, 19, of 516 Ocean View Avenue, Brooklyn; Mrs. Charlotte Todes, 28, of 118 West 128th Street, Manhattan, and Tony Valle, 29, of West Thirty-fourth Street, Manhattan.

GIRL REDS FIGHT SENTENCE.

Rochester Communists Raise Defense Fund After Camp Riot.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP).—A campaign to free two girl Communists from a sentence of three months in the Monroe County penitentiary, imposed by Justice of the Peace William Westbrook of Van Etten on charges of desecrating the flag, was launched here today, with Rochester Communists raising a defense fund and planning a mass meeting Saturday.

Ailene Holmes, 23 years old, of New York, and Mabel Husa, 20, of Belden, N. D., who began serving the sentence yesterday, denied the offense.

Bert T. Baker of Ithaca, retained by the international labor defense as counsel, has obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice Personius fixing a hearing at Elmira next Tuesday.

To Run Ships to Yacht Races.

To accommodate metropolitan yachting enthusiasts, the New England Steamship Company will operate a steamer from New York on the eve of each day's races during the international yacht races off Newport, beginning Sept. 12, it was announced yesterday. The steamers Commonwealth and Priscilla will make the daily trip, leaving Pier 14, North River, at 4:30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, and arriving at Newport early in the morning. The vessels will follow the yachts over the course.

Air Passenger Death Rate Put at 1 in 5,000, Or 200 Times That of Travel by Railroad

Safety in airplane travel increases by 63 per cent after the pilot of the plane has had 400 or more hours in the air, according to statistics issued here yesterday by the Actuarial Society of America, based on a report of its committee made up of J. E. Hoskins, assistant actuary of the Travelers Insurance Company, and H. R. Bassford, assistant actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Last year the death rate, they found, among pilots holding transport licenses was 79 per 1,000 for those who had less than 400 hours of flying, but only 29 per 1,000 for those who had had 400 or more hours.

The mounting safety of air travel was revealed in the report, which showed that the death rate for aviation passengers had been only one in each 5,000 persons carried on scheduled air lines from January, 1927, to March, 1930.

Compared with railway travel, the report found flying somewhat more than 200 times more hazardous. The death rate on railroads, it pointed out, was about one per 300,000,000 passenger miles; for airway travel about one per 1,250,000 passenger miles. The committee reported that comparison of air with automobile and steamship travel was impossible because of the lack of figures.

Pilots holding Department of Commerce licenses of the transport class were found to have had a death rate, as a group, of 34 per 1,000, while those of the group which had had 400 or more hours' experience attained the lowest figure record, 29 per 1,000. There was little difference in the death rate of pilots flying scheduled passenger or air mail lines. In each case, the rate was found to be about 50 per 1,000, and the committee drew the inference that this rate was due to the requirements of maintaining schedule irrespective of weather conditions.

Short, non-scheduled commercial flights were found by the committee to be safer than longer journeys, showing a death rate for passengers of only 2 per 100,000 carried.

Despite the practice of stunt and formation flying as part of the day's work, the death rate among army and navy pilots was found to be much lower than that among even the best class of commercial pilots. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, the death rate of commissioned pilots in the army was 8 per 1,000 and in the navy 10 per 1,000, while the annual average for the past three years was 13 and 21 respectively.

The committee concluded its report with the statement that "travel by airplane is becoming safer, because the death rate among passengers is gradually decreasing and a great degree of safety is possible where planes are piloted by fliers with considerable experience in the air."

$65,000 SHORTAGE LAID TO HENNESSEY

Richmond Grand Jury Hears 25 Witnesses in Inquiry Into Administrator's Office.

MORE INDICTMENTS LIKELY

Higgins Tells Mayor He Will Ask Immunity for 25 Butchers in Market Investigation.

After twenty-five witnesses had testified before the Richmond County grand jury yesterday in the investigation of the Public Administrator's office, Dictrict Attorney Albert C. Fach said the $38.000 shortage for which James W. Hennessey, former administrator, was indicted would reach $65,000.

Additional indictments would be handed up against Hennessey, the prosecutor said. He indicated that an indictment would also be found against an unidentified associate of Hennessey. Two of the grand jury witnesses were investigators employed by James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts. They have been scanning the records of the administrator's office. Hennessey, indicted for second degree grand larceny on two counts, will plead to the second indictment on Friday. He is at liberty under $5,000 bail awaiting trial in October.

Other grand jury witnesses included beneficiaries of estates who complained that they were unable to obtain accountings from Hennessey or his council, Francis McNamara, who was attached to the administrator's office. Investigators employed by District Attorney Fach to make a check-up of the legal fees charged against estates also testified before the grand jury.

Ernest T. Lindemann continued the investigation of the activities of guardians for estates. He will check the affairs of about 1,500 estates in which guardians have not made their accountings. With certain exceptions, the law requires that guardians must file accountings every February. According to the records in the Surrogate's court, only about 500 cases show such accountings filed.

Mr. Higgins conferred yesterday with Mayor Walker and told him he would ask immunity for twenty-five kosher butchers waiting to testify that they paid graft to supervisors in the Department of Public Markets.

A group of about fifty rabbis discussed methods of enforcing the kosher laws yesterday at a conference in the Broadway Central Hotel, and decided to send a committee of seven rabbis to Mayor Walker and to Markets Commissioner Thomas F. Dwyer. The rabbis decided to organize an advisory board and to ask the Markets Department to recognize it as the authoritative body on kosher food questions. Another meeting is planned for next Tuesday.

BAD CHECK LAID TO BROKER

Chauffeur and Garage Man Cause Arrrest of Eduardo Grenas.

Special to The New York Times.

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., Aug. 19.—Eduardo Grenas of Battin Road, Fair Haven, a New York stock broker, has been held in $3,000 bail by Recorder Elmer C. Wainwright on bad-check charges. He will have a hearing Saturday.

The complainants are Thelmo Gonziael, Mr. Grenas's' erstwhile chauffeur, who says Mr. Grenas gave him an uncollectable check for $586.48, dated July 1, for wages, and Louis Becker, garage man, to whom Mr. Grenas gave a check for $219.90, dated July 22, in payment for repairs to a limousine. Both checks were drawn on the Chase National Bank of New York City, it is charged, and were returned marked "Account closed."

DANCE MASTERS SAY WORLD IS TAP-CRAZY

Convention Beats Tattoo to Staccato Rhythm in Tune With Quick-Step Vogue.

SHEEHY FINDS IT A RAGE

Shoemakers Cite 150% Growth In Demand for Tapping Gear as Toe-Dancers' Buying Declines.

Some one's 80-year-old grandmother may yet be discovered tap-dancing her way across a parquet floor to the breakfast table, if the possibility envisioned by Thomas A. Sheehy, president of the Dancing Masters of America, should develop into a reality. In fact, he suggested that America's entire population, large and small, young and old, may grow into a nation of "tappers" if the tendency of the past two years holds in the future.

During the last twenty-four months the demand for "tapping" shoes has increased 150 per cent, according to the figures quoted yesterday by the manufacturers at the second day's session of the convention of the Dancing Masters at the Hotel Commodore. By the same token the demand for toe-dancing footgear has decreased about 20 per cent. These figures apply to amateurs, it was reported, and have nothing to do with the Thespians who tap to keep the wolf from the door. America has gone tap-crazy, they said.

Yesterday was tap day at the convention. All the world seemed to be tapping. The visitor sensed the contagion in the air. From the minute he detected a slight nervous quality in the feet of the elevator boy until he reached the sanctum sanctorum of tapping, the grand ballroom, he realized tap-tap-tap was the order of the day.

Down the corridor where tradesmen catering to Terpsichore displayed their wares, tapping-aids held the centre of the stage. Ballet slippers were placed on back shelves in favor of shoes—not ordinary shoes, but tap-shoes.

Against a background of stage fabrics, classic, modernistic and period, where patterns of the salamander of François Premier hung side by side with the sun of the Roi Soleil and the lotus of Pharaoh, tappers in polo shirts, tappers in flannels, tappers in dinner clothes, tappers in scant, medium and flowing attire relieved their souls' inner feelings in tapping.

The west ballroom was the only spot where the rule was "no tapping." There dignified couples moved in ordered couplets to the minuet, the gavotte, the waltz and modern dances. Not a foot struck a discordant tapping note.

TO RECORD SIGN LANGUAGE.

General Scott Starts for West to Take Talkies of Indians.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 19.—Major Gen. Hugh Lenox Scott, famous Indian fighter and former Chief of Staff of the United States Army, left Princeton today for the West, where he will begin his new task of preserving the old sign language of the plains Indians. General Scott will go to the Blackfoot Indian Reservation at Browning, Mont., where he will gather representatives of different tribes.

Under orders from Congress, which has made an appropriation for the work, General Scott will gather the redskins, dress them in the style he knew as a member of Custer's army and teach them parts of the sign language which he learned in his Indian scouting days and which the Indians' parents failed to pass down through the last two generations. Talking pictures will be taken of the Indians, and these will be preserved as a permanent record.

Crisis in Criminal Justice
As Dean Roscoe Pound Sees it

"Anything that the dean of the Harvard Law School has to say about criminal justice is bound to be listened to with respect," writes R. L. Duffus in reviewing Roscoe Pound's "Criminal Justice in America" in The New York Times Book Review next Sunday.

Dean Pound deals with the legal rather than the sociological aspect; sees criminal justice in this country as punitive and looks forward to its being preventive. The reviewer summarizes the author's ideas concerning the factors, social and economic, which will bring improvement.

DURANT NOW HEADS HIS MOTOR COMPANY

Elected President and Concern Will Make French Midget Auto as Rival of Austin.

GETS 100,000 MATHIS ORDER

Will Assume Active Leadership—Other Officers Are Named to Replace Old Group.

William C. Durant, founder of General Motors Corporation, has returned to active leadership of the Durant Motors, Inc., a company which he organized nearly ten years ago, it was announced yesterday.

The company disclosed that, following Mr. Durant's election as president, he had signed contracts for the manufacture in Detroit of the Mathis, a French automobile of midget size. The car will be placed in the American market in competition with the American Austin, a midget car of English design now being manufactured in the United States. The Durant line of cars will be continued, it was said.

The Durant Motor Company of Michigan, subsidiary of Durant Motors, Inc., has received a contract to build the 100,000 Mathis cars, deliveries to begin Dec. 1. The contract was awarded by American Mathis, Inc., a Delaware corporation, which was formed Aug. 11 with a paid up capital of $3,000,000. The exclusive right to build Mathis cars on the Pacific Coast has been obtained by the Durant Motor Company of California, another subsidiary of Durant Motors, Inc.

The Mathis Company of France is one of the oldest motor companies in Europe and the fourth largest producers in France. It was founded in 1899. In 1923 the makers of the car claimed for it a world's record for small car gasoline consumption. In 1913 the car won the Grand Prix de France in the small car classes.

E. E. C. Mathis will be chairman of the board of American Mathis, Inc., it was announced. The personnel of the company will be announced after a meeting to be held in New York on Aug. 28.

The election of a new executive staff for Durant Motors, headed by Mr. Durant as president, was announced by the directors of the company following a meeting held yesterday at the Book Cadillac Hotel in Detroit. In addition to Mr. Durant, the other officers are R. A. Vail, vice president; Hal W. Alger, treasurer; H. F. Hebermann, secretary. These officers replace a staff which included A. I. Philp, chairman, and F. J. Haynes, president, and John A. Nicholson Jr., who resigned two weeks ago. Mr. Vail, who was vice president under the old régime, is the only important officer to retain his post.

Mr. Durant has had a spectacular career as an organizer of automobile companies and as a Wall Street operator. He is credited with having made and lost several fortunes. In 1903 he entered the automobile field as the reorganizer of the Flint Wagon Works, which had been experimenting with automobiles. In 1908 he consolidated the Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland companies into General Motors and became head of the company.

In 1910 he was forced out of the company when banks refused to grant it credit unless he resigned. He next organized the Chevrolet Motor Company, and its success enabled him to buy sufficient General Motors stock to regain contral of the company. Two years later he was caught in the post-war deflation period and again resigned.

In 1921 Mr. Durant organized Durant Motors. Eighteen months ago he resigned as president. The company had total assets of $48,000,000 at the end of 1928. Its operations have declined somewhat this year. United States passenger registrations of Durant cars for the four months ended April 30, 1930, totaling 9,531 units, compared with 16,837 in the corresponding period of last year.

Durant common stock was active and strong on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday on the announcement that Mr. Durant had returned to the presidency and had made an arrangement with the Mathis interests. The stock advanced 1½ points to 4½.

J. W. WATSON ARRESTED ON WAY TO CANADA

Suspect Under $45,000 Bail in Commodore Gem Case Seized in Buffalo.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Aug. 19.—James W. Watson, known as "Australia Paddy" by the police of a dozen cities, was arrested as he was boarding a ferry for Canada last night during an argument with a taxi driver over a bill for $8.25 for which he tendered $4. He was released on $45,000 bail in New York City Thursday in connection with the recovery of $300,000 in stolen gems at the Hotel Commodore.

The police found several small files, an assortment of skeleton keys, two pairs of smoked glasses and a blood-stained tie in his handbag. Watson said he had been in a fight and that the blood on the tie was from his nose.

Watson pleaded with Police Commissioner Roche to release him so that he could return to New York to renew his bail, which, he said, must be done by Thursday. The commissioner refused to release him until the police have investigated his movements here.

The prisoner is suspected of being a member of a national gang of jewel thieves. He was arrested in the Hotel Commodore in May when William J. (Chuck) O'Connor, Buffalo boxing referee and politician, was caught. O'Connor is out on bail and is spending the Summer at Crystal Beach, a Lake Erie resort about fifteen miles from Buffalo. The police believe Watson planned to visit O'Connor.

Watson has a police record here dating back to 1911. He was sought for questioning about the murder of Luther D. Graves in March, 1921. The police believed that Graves was slain when he unwittingly discovered liquor thieves in a house in the fashionable North Street district late at night, while he was walking home after putting his car in a garage.

Held in Murder of Detective.

William De Marco, 28 years old, of 200 East 103d Street was held in $50,000 bail as a material witness yesterday in the murder of Detective Thomas E. Hill of the Highbridge station, who was shot by one of four men on the night of July 28 while on duty at the Macombs Dam Bridge at 161st Street, the Bronx. De Marco was arrested early yesterday at 103d Street and Park Avenue.

Giannini Races to Ill Relative; Cherbourg to the West in Week

A. P. Giannini, California banker and chairman of the board of the Transamerica Corporation, who arrived in New York yesterday from Europe aboard the Bremen, expects to set a record for fast travel between Europe and San Francisco.

He will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow evening, just a week after leaving Cherbourg. Mr. Giannini left New York last night on the Airways Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad. At Columbus this morning he will take a T. A. T.-Maddux plane and arrive at 5 o'clock this evening at Waynoka, Okla.

Tomorrow morning, after a night on the Santa Fé Railroad, he is scheduled to take the air again at Clovis, N. M., and his plane will land at the Alameda airport, across the bay from San Francisco, at 8:35 P. M. He is hurrying to the bedside of his father-in-law, J. C. Scatena, who is seriously ill in San Francisco.

TONG BALKS TREATY BY IGNORING COUNCIL

On Leong Chiefs, Reputed Feud Leaders, Absent as Others Meet to Seal Peace.

CRAIN AIDE RENEWS THREAT

Promises Deportations if War Is Resumed—Guarded Delegates Defer Action on Agreement.

The effort of C. C. Woo, Chinese Minister at Washington, to bring about a permanent peace in the renewed war among the tongs, met with failure yesterday. Representatives of the Hip Sing and the Tung On Tongs, with officials of three Chinese benevolent associations, were present at a conference called in the Chinese Consulate at 13 Astor Place, but high officials of the On Leong Tong, which is suspected of having resumed the old feud with the Hip Sings, ignored the gathering.

Poy Yee, secretary of the On Leongs, appeared, however, merely to inform Ta-kwang Wu, second secretary of the Chinese Legation in Washington, and J. S. Tow, Acting Chinese Consul here, who had been ordered by Minister Woo to bring about a cessation of hostilities with a permanent peace compact, that the high officials of the On Leongs were out of town and he had no authority to sign a peace treaty.

Under questioning of Mr. Wu and Assistant District Attorney Joseph V. Burns, representing District Attorney Crain, Yee was unable to say when these officials would return or whether they even would consent to sign the peace agreement.

Mr. Wu had come from Washington at the behest of Minister Woo to urge the tong leaders to end the renewed warfare. After arranging with the tong leaders for the conference, Mr. Wu, accompanied by the Acting Chinese Consul, called on District Attorney Crain and said that he felt confident the tong hostilities would be terminated for all time.

When the conference opened yesterday afternoon, those present included two representatives of the Hip Sings, one from the Tung On, two from the Ta Pong Association, another from the Tai Lok Association and two from the Yen Wo Association. Each of these, according to the consulate officials, expressed willingness to sign the peace agreement. Some of them displayed the great seals of their organizations, but with the announcement of Poy Yee, the gathering declined to affix signatures and seals to the agreement until the On Leong leaders had signed.

At the close of the conference, which lasted less than an hour, it was announced that there was an indefinite postponement of the effort to bring lasting harmony among the warring tongs.

Consulate attachés expressed the belief that the On Leong leaders would consent to attend when they realized that their failure to appear yesterday had placed them in the position of seeming to further the tong hostilities, and also would result in their being held responsible by the authorities for any further violence.

Captain Barrett of the Charles Street station and a squad of patrolmen were on hand to guard the conference before it began. As representatives of the organizations arrived in taxicabs, all were accompanied by private detectives.

Later Assistant District Attorney Burns informed Acting District Attorney Albert B. Unger that the conference had failed to bring about peace. Mr. Unger declared that the warning of wholesale deportations of Chinese in the event of a recurrence of tong hostilities, given to the tong leaders the day before by Mr. Crain and Commissioner Mulrooney at the District Attorney's office, would stand.

JERSEY AWARDS ROAD JOBS.

Four Highway Bridge Projects to Cost State $138,013.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 19.—Contracts for four projects in New Jersey were awarded yesterday by the State Highway Department. The total expenditure for the improvement will be $138,013.

An approach on the west side of the new Route 10 bridge over the Hackensack River on the Harrison Turnpike, between Jersey City and Kearny, will be constructed by the Nutley Contracting Company for $57,186. Allen N. Spooner & Son of New York will do the fender work for $19,945.

Descriptive tablets will be placed on the new Raritan River bridge, Route 25, between New Brunswick and Raritan Township by the General Bronze Corporation of Long Island City. The project will cost $2,710. A bridge over the Raritan River Railroad at South Amboy on Route 4 is to be made by the Kolyn Construction Company of this city for $33,832.

Railway Stock on Chicago Board.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP).—Stock of the Chicago Great Western Railroad today became the first railroad issue listed on the Chicago Board of Trade. The listing covers 450,000 preferred and 470,000 common shares. The issues are listed on the New York and London Stock Exchanges. V. V. Boatner, president of the Great Western, said tonight that it was believed the step would "induce a greater degree of Western ownership."

3,000 IN TWO HOURS STORM JOB BUREAU

Only 1,000 Gain Entrance in First Short Day—2,000 Give Cards to Police.

CITY FINDS POSTS FOR 150

More Funds Will Be Asked in Week if Pressure Continues, Director Declares.

BRIEF HOURS TO CONTINUE

Some Employers Seek to Hire Needy Workers for Less Than a Living Wage, Officials Report.

The two-hour a day limit placed yesterday upon the registration of the city's unemployed at the Free Employment Agency, 54 Lafayette Street, reduced the number of job-seekers besieging the bureau to 3,000 in contrast to double the number the previous day, but Edward C. Rybicki, director, declared, when the doors were closed upon the applicants, that the "situation is more acute than ever."

Of the 3,000 storming the bureau only 1,000 were able to gain entry. The remaining 2,000 on the lines that stretched from Franklin and Leonard Streets into Lafayette Street got application blanks from a detail of police, were told to return with them filled out on Friday, and then dispersed. Knots of men had begun to form as early as 3 A. M., swelling to a full 3,000 by 8 o'clock. For hours after the dispersal, groups of jobless vainly sought entry into the building. Told to return today, they gathered in the shadow of the Tombs, staring up into the employment bureau's window.

Tabulation of figures for the day revealed that 150 of the applicants were placed in jobs, many of them temporary. Twenty-five women, several married and having children, were included among those placed. Three hundred women were among the 3,000 job-seekers.

The jobs filled yesterday included openings for electricians and helpers, plumbers and helpers, painters, repair men, clerical workers and domestic help. Adult wages ranged from $12 to $40 a week, though several office boys gladly took jobs at $9 a week.

When the agency's doors shut 12,000 men and women had actually applied for work in a four-day period. Eight thousand of these had managed to crowd up to the registrars' desks and to make personal application. The remaining 4,000 had accepted blanks from policemen to return with them tomorrow and Friday. Thousands, unestimated, turned from the bureau's doors without registering, discouraged by the scramble for the comparatively few jobs available.

Mr. Rybicki declared he would go to heads of the Department of Public Welfare to see whether additional relief measures could not be obtained. He has a staff of thirty-one workers, but needs ten or fifteen more in the field canvassing for jobs.

James Brody, secretary to the department, in the absence of Commissioner Taylor, declared yesterday he was satisfied with the results of the first four days of job-seeking by the city bureau. He said, however, that the experiment would have to be watched for at least a full week before it could be determined whether the department would be forced to seek additional relief at the next Board of Estimate meeting late in September.

"We must wait a week to see whether the number of applicants keeps up," Mr. Brody declared yesterday. "After all, we cannot go to the Board of Estimate asking for additional relief when the employment bureau is functioning only four days. We must first discover whether there will be no slump in the number applying."

Mr. Brody and Mr. Rybicki both declared that published accounts of the scenes attending the bureau's efforts to find work for the city's unemployed have stirred considerable interest among employers telephoning or coming in person to engage help. Mr. Rybicki indicated that some employers, however, regarding the plight of applicants as desperate, offer less than a living wage for skilled labor.

This morning, again, the bureau will be opened to applicants only from 8 to 10 o'clock, the rest of the day to be devoted to filing and assorting applications. This will also release field men, called in to aid the office force.

MRS. WINTON GETS DECREE.

Pioneer Cleveland Auto Manufacturer Did Not Contest Divorce.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19 (AP).—A divorce decree was granted to Mrs. Marion Campbell Winton in court here today from Alexander Winton, 70 years old, pioneer Cleveland auto manufacturer. Mr. Winton did not contest the action.

Mrs. Winton, widely known as a benefactor of the American Indians, is the composer of two operas, "Love's Wishing Well" and "The Seminole." She married the former auto manufacturer in 1927. Later Mr. Winton expressed his dislike over his wife's activities in behalf of the Indians.

Restoration of Mrs. Winton's maiden name was authorized by the court. Reliable authorities said she obtained a settlement of about $200,000 in property.

JUDGE HELD IN AUTO DEATH.

Connecticut Official Charged With Driving While Drunk.

Special to The New York Times.

TORRINGTON, Conn., Aug. 19.—Deputy Sheriff J. M. Palmer jumped or was thrown by a swerve from the automobile of Deputy Judge Frederick Miles of the city court on the Thomaston Road at 3 o'clock this morning and was instantly killed.

Judge Miles was arraigned in the city court charged with reckless driving while intoxicated as a result of the fatality. A patrolman who investigated the accident said that he found half a pint of liquor in the car.

AIR RACE GAIN MADE BY MRS. O'DONNELL

Long Beach (Cal.) Entry Reaches Douglas, Ariz., First in Derby to Chicaog.

MISS BARRON IS SIXTH

Miss Doig Crumples Wheel at Tucson—Two Men Fliers Start From Texas.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., won the fourth and fifth laps of the women's national air derby today to increase her lead in elapsed time to more than sixteen minutes over Miss Marjorie Doig, Danbury, Conn., who was in second place.

The six women who took off Sunday at Long Beach on the nine-day jaunt to Chicago made the morning flight from Phoenix to Tucson and the afternoon trip frm Tucson here without serious mishap.

Yesterday Miss Ruth Barron of Hollywood, Cal., missed Phoenix in flying from Calexico, Cal., and was forced down in a corn field 110 miles northwest of the Arizona capital by a fuel shortage. She rejoined the group shortly before continuance of the race at Phoenix this morning.

Mrs. Mildred Morgan of Beverly Hills, Cal., crowded Miss Jean La Rene of Kansas City out of third place by finishing ahead of her in both of today's flights. Otherwise the fliers' standings were unchanged, Miss Ruth Stewart of St. Louis remaining in fifth position and Miss Barron in sixth.

The standings, as compiled unofficially tonight, were as folllows:

Entrant.	Total Elapsed Time.
Mrs. O'Donnell	3:56:29
Miss Doig	4:13:08
Mrs. Morgan	5:26:14
Miss La Rene	5:35:23
Miss Stewart	6:25:25
Miss Barron	21:39:52

Plane Is Quickly Repaired.

Miss Doig was the victim of the only accident today. As she brought her plane down in Tucson, the noon control, a tire blew out, crumpling a wheel of the plane. Repairs were made quickly, and the ship was on the line for the afternoon start.

Miss Barron showed the effects of her experience yesterday. She was very tired when she reached the night stop. In addition to the worry connected with the forced landing near Heber, Ariz., the effects of a six-mile hike before she was able to catch a ride to Holbrook, Ariz., last night, and her unscheduled return flight to Phoenix, she developed an infected heel which caused her much discomfiture. She finished the afternoon lap in third position, however, 13 minutes behind the leader.

Miss Barron's elapsed time included the seventeen hours, 18 minutes between the take-off in Calexico yesterday and her arrival in Phoenix this morning. She flew 220 extra miles, and her plane was in the corn field nearly 14 hours.

Tomorrow the fliers will take off for Lordburg, Deming and Roswell, N. M., the three controls for the day, in the order of their landing here.

Two Plane Race Starts in Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 19 (AP).—John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., arrived at Winburn Field, San Antonio, at 4:48 P. M. today, ending the first leg of a Brownsville-Chicago two plane derby. W. G. Moore of Kansas City, his competitor, arrived at 4:50 P. M. They flew here after stops at Houston and Corpus Christi, Livingston having a short lead at each stop.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 19 (AP).—A dual race for $4,000 was started here today by W. G. More of Kansas City, and Jack Livingston of Aurora, Ill., the only entrants in the Southern Air Derby which ends at Chicago Saturday in connection with the National Air Races.

More took off at 9:01 A. M. and Livingston followed a minute later on the first leg of the flight to Corpus Christi, Texas. The fliers will refuel at Waco tomorrow, stopping at Fort Worth for the night.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP).—Three women have entered the Washington-to-Chicago women's Dixie air derby, held in connection with the air races.

The entrants, Miss Nancy Hopkins of Washington, Mrs. Phoebe Fairgraves Omlie of Memphis and Mrs. Charity Langdon of Norfolk, will take off Friday morning and are due at Chicago Tuesday.

CHANGE IN "LYSISTRATA."

Miriam Hopkins to Leave Cast to Go Under Shubert Management.

Nydia Westman will enter the cast of "Lysistrata," at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, next Monday night, replacing Miriam Hopkins, who will go under Shurbert management to appear in "The Girl in the News," which will open the season of the Dramatic League of Chicago. Miss Westman's last Broadway engagement was in "Ada Beats the Drum."

E. J. Brady Not Enjoined as Individual.

A court report in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Aug. 12 stated that Eugene J. Brady of 21 Longmeadow Road, Yonkers, had been permanently enjoined as an individual from further sales of securities. The records show that Mr. Brady was enjoined not as an individual but with Samuel H. Bramson as a copartner doing business as E. J. Brady & Co.

JOHNSON NEGRO CHOIR DELIGHTS AUDITORS

Reappears at the Stadium and Gives Many Favorite Spirituals.

The Hall-Johnson Negro Choir returned to the Lewisohn Stadium at City College last night and delighted its auditors with many favorite spirituals. Especially effective was the singing of "Deep River," with its alto solo (or perhaps the singer might prefer to be called contralto) and its background of humming voices. Other favorites included "Mos' Done Travelin'," "Great Camp Meetin'," "Ol' Ark's a'Moverin'," "You May Bury in de Eas'," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Water-Boy," "Gimme Yo' Han'," and the encores which included and the encores, "Ezekiel Saw de Wheel" and "Let the Heaven Light Shine on Me." The director, Hall Johnson, was heartily greeted and there were many recalls. The diction, intonation and sincerity of the singers were of the usual standard.

The orchestral portion of the program, presented by the New York Philharmonic under William Van Hoogstraten, was the overture to Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor," Dukas's "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," Brahms's overture, "Academic Festival," and Richard Strauss's "Salome's Dance."

It is a bit puzzling why the tuba should have come in late near the beginning of the Nicolai overture and why the harp should have anticipated Mr. Hoogstraten's beat in the Dukas work. For whatever the individual reaction to this conductor's interpretations may be, there could be no doubt that he knew both scores thoroughly and did his share of "cueing in" the entrances. The splendid virtuosity of the bassoon and horns balanced this, however.

The choir will sing again tonight. The orchestral items are announced to comprise the "William Tell" overture by Rossini, Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite No. 1; the first, third and tenth of Brahms's Hungarian Dances and the first Stadium hearing of Langley's waltz, "The Song of Youth."

"HOT RHYTHM" POSTPONED.

Premiere at Times Square Theatre Deferred Until Tomorrow Night.

Last night's scheduled opening of "Hot Rhythm," Will Morrissey's Negro revue, was postponed yesterday afternoon until tomorrow night at the Times Square Theatre. According to announcement the delay was caused by the inability of the music publishers to deliver the orchestrations in time.

Another Broadway revue postponed yesterday was "The Second Little Show," which will now come to the Royale Theatre on Tuesday, Sept. 2, instead of next Tuesday night. The show will continue in Boston for a third week, and there will be at least one change in the cast before it arrives in New York.

The deferring of "The Second Little Show" leaves three openings for next week on Broadway. They are "The Ninth Guest," the Owen Davis mystery play, which will come to the Eltinge Theatre on Monday night under the management of A. H. Woods; "Torch Song," the Kenyon Nicholson play, which Arthur Hopkins will present at the Plymouth Theatre on Wednesday, and "Café," the work of Marya Mannes, which William A. Brady will bring to the Ritz Theatre on Thursday night.

Berlin Press Lauds St. Olav Choir.

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP).—All of Berlin's music critics today showered praise upon the St. Olav Church choir of Northfield, Minn., which gave a concert last night in the Protestant Cathedral. The reviews used such phrases as "artistic topnotchers" or "exceeding all expectations" or "comparable only to Rome's Sistine singers."

FRENCH PLAY ADAPTED FOR CIVIC REPERTORY

"Siegfried," by Jean Giraudoux, English Version by Philip Carr, to Open on Oct. 13.

The fifth new production to be announced for this season by the Civic Repertory Theatre is "Siegfried," the play which Jean Giraudoux, French author and diplomat, adapted from his own book, "Siegfried et le Limousin," written in 1922. The play was produced in Paris in the Spring of 1928 by Louis Jouvet and was highly successful.

"Siegfried," according to present schedules, will open at the Civic Theatre on Monday, Oct. 13. Jacob Ben-Ami will have the title rôle, played in France by Pierre Renoir, and Eva Le Gallienne and Egon Brecher will also be important members of the cast. The English version of the play which Miss Le Gallienne will use has been made by Philip Carr, Paris theatrical correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The play is laid in Germany and along the French frontier immediately after the World War. According to Parisian reports, it is the story of a French author who is wounded and loses his memory, is found by the Germans and is made by them "into so admirable a German that he becomes the political savior of the country." There is a possibility that "Siegfried" may be produced in Germany during the coming Winter by Max Reinhardt.

The Civic Theatre will begin its season on Sept. 29 with "Romeo and Juliet," which was added to the repertory in the Spring. Besides "Siegfried" the new plays which it will produce are "The Nobel Prize," by Hjalimar Bergman, in translation by Herman Bernstein; "Alice in Wonderland," in an adaptation by Florida Friebus of the theatre's acting company; "Gruach" and "Advorlich's Wife," the latter a one-act play and both the work of Gordon Bottomley, and Ibsen's "Rosmersholm."

SCORES ACTORS EQUITY OVER THE 'VANITIES'

Catholic Magazine Says Group Should Boycott Carroll—Assails Drama Critics.

America, the Catholic weekly magazine, in its editorial in the current issue, severely criticizes both the Actors' Equity Association and dramatic writers, the former for having failed to prevent the production of the "Earl Carroll Vanities" and the latter for ridiculing the authorities who endeavored to convict the producer and members of the cast. The "Vanities" is not mentioned by name. It is referred to as "a disgusting revue, staged in New York by an ex-convict."

The editorial contends that while Equity did not have to join hands with the authorities prosecuting Carroll, it should have banned from its membership any performer who contracted with "the man whose conduct has been a public scandal for many years." It declares that if actors' associations did not censure participators in indecent performances they could not be excused "from the guilt of aiding and abetting these performances, and they show, beyond all doubt, their indifference to the real interests of the profession."

The failure of the grand jury to indict Carroll and the others is attributed to the low ebb to which public taste has fallen. "Public taste is so low," the editorial says, "that grand jury actions against improper performances are completely ineffective."

While dramatic critics censured the production, the editorial has this to say of them:

"They cracked their cheap wit on city officials and described with a leer what the spectator might expect to find. They had no word of condemnation for the ex-convict who staged the disgusting performance. All their condemnation was reserved for the men and women who tried to end this affront to public decency."

The same issue contains an article by Elizabeth Jordan, in which she reviews five productions, and refers to them as "sewer excursions." She reviews "The Garrick Gaieties," "Stepping Sisters," "Lysistrata," "Artists and Models" and "Lost Sheep."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"That's the Woman," Charles Dillingham's second production of the season, will be presented at the Fulton Theatre on Sept. 8 instead of Sept. 1. The Bayard Veiller play will open next week in Newark and will be seen the following week at the Brighton Theatre.

"Seventy-Second Street," Tom Johnstone's play, will open on Monday at the City Theatre, Newark, where it will remain for two weeks. Pauline Drake will head the cast.

Edward Raquello, Carl Benton Reid and Alfred Heaton have been engaged for "The Greeks Had a Word for It," the Zoe Akins play which William Harris Jr. is producing. Mr. Raquello played the leading male part in the Chicago company of "Strictly Dishonorable."

William Brandt, who has leased Werba's Theatre in Jamaica, has changed the name of the house to Brandt's Carlton-Jamaica. The house will open on Labor Day with the new Frank Craven comedy, "That's Gratitude!"

A new starring vehicle for Mitzi, "Love Court," is scheduled for production by the Erlanger office. Mitzi appeared last season in a revival of "Sari."

The road tour of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" will now begin in Brooklyn on Sept. 29. Will Mahoney, William Demarest and the Three Sailors will continue to head the cast.

The National Winter Garden, Second Avenue and Houston Street, will open its burlesque season on Friday night under the direction of the Minsky Brothers.

Recovery on Stock Exchange —Wheat and Cotton End Higher, Corn Lower.

Partly because of some signs of recovery in the grain and cotton markets, partly perhaps because of growing belief that prices in all the markets have already "discounted" heavily the most unfavorable developments that can be reasonably imagined, the stock market turned stronger yesterday. The advances were not large as a rule, and most of them were cut down by partial reaction at the close, but there was some change for the better in sentiment. No evidence of aggressive buying came into view, however, and transactions were only moderately increased. On the whole, the market's course indicated continued hesitancy, still based largely on the uncertainty in regard to staple prices.

In this it resembles the market's action in the somewhat similar period toward the end of 1921. The actual force of trade reaction had by that time mostly spent itself; but the momentum which the decline on commodity markets had acquired in the 42 per cent deflation of prices between the Spring of 1920 and the Spring of 1921 had carried them down still further, and the Autumn stock market held to its attitude of uncertainty. When the turn in staple prices actually came, with the beginning of the following year, they recovered with much promptness and rapidity, and the stock market rose with them. Considering the extent to which all of that year's markets were blockaded by "frozen credits" which do not exist in any such form on the present occasion, the upturn on this occasion ought to be equally emphatic, and it may come earlier.

The wheat market and the cotton market both showed signs of genuine buying, presumably attracted by the abnormally low level to which prices had been carried. In both, fresh selling checked the rise, largely from speculative sources, leaving the day's net recovery relatively slight. At one time, indeed, wheat sold at a low price which had been reached on only three other days this season. Corn values, too, moved uncertainly up and down, ending ½ cent lower. August is a month in which contradictory rumors regarding the whole harvest situation always follow one another in rapid alternation, and there has not often been a season in agricultural history when opportunity for circulating them was greater. Not least among them yesterday were reports of impaired condition for European wheat crops—a question of some importance, since Europe's own surplus of wheat, accumulated from its unprecedented yield of 1929, has been cut down heavily, because of its effort, this past season, to reduce to a minimum its purchases of wheat from North America.

The stock market no doubt derived some encouragement from cheerful prophecies given out from various quarters regarding the financial future. Just now, however, outgivings of the kind have largely lost their customary influence, from the fact that so many similar predictions were made in the earlier part of the depression and were entirely falsified by events. That aspect of the present markets is a perfectly comprehensible display of human nature. The mind which last August would accept unquestioningly any cheerful prophecy, however rash, today regards anything of the kind with suspicion if not resentment.

Foreign news of the day comprised a heavy break on the London Stock Exchange, indicating a similar attitude on the British market. Silver bullion maintained its substantial recovery of the last few days. London open-market discount rates went lower, but sterling held firm on the New York market.

EXCHANGE ADMITS RIGHTS.

Warner Brothers Issue Traded at 1⅛ to 1½, Closing at 1¼.

The New York Stock Exchange announced yesterday that rights to subscribe to additional stock of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., at $20 a share had been admitted to trading on a when-issued basis. The rights will expire on Sept. 15 and trading in them will cease on Sept. 13. Transactions in the common stock will be ex rights on Aug. 25, unless made specifically for cash.

Warner Brothers rights have been traded on the New York Produce Exchange's security market and the New York Curb Exchange. On the Stock Exchange yesterday the rights ranged between 1⅛ and 1½, closing at 1¼.

The New York Stock Exchange yesterday announced the listing of permanent Pure Oil Company 5½ per cent notes, due from 1937 to 1940, and will strike the temporary notes from the list on Aug. 25. American Writing Paper Company, Inc., temporary voting trust certificates for $6 preferred stock were stricken from the list, as permanent certificates are listed.

Three Boards Postpone Meetings.

Postponements of meetings of the boards of directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, the Pere Marquette Railway, and the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company were announced yesterday. The adjournment of the Calumet and Arizona meeting was caused by the lack of a quorum, it was said. The three meetings will be held on Aug. 26.

Date for Adjourned Meeting.

The adjourned annual meeting of stockholders of Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., is scheduled to be held on Sept. 25.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Persons who watched the stock market closely yesterday got the impression that professional selling was being checked. There were no buying demonstrations on the Stock Exchange, but the undertone of the market was improved and stocks escaped the attacks which had been leveled against them on previous days. Many of the leading issues made progress on the up side, notably Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, Eastman Kodak, Corn Products, New York Central, North American, Worthington Pump, Westinghouse Electric and Santa Fe. Other "trading favorites," such as United States Steel, American Can, Johns-Manville and Consolidated Gas, showed fractional gains. The slow advance made by the general list did much to improve Wall Street's frame of mind. There were persistent reports that "large pool operators" were preparing to resume operations.

⁂

As to Reduction of Bank Staffs.

For almost a year Wall Street has been full of reports of wholesale discharges of help by the big banks, but gradually the talk has died down. None of the banks, however, ever has admitted that such large-scale cutting down of employes has been undertaken.

The Chase Bank, owing to its recent merger with the Equitable and the Interstate Trust Companies, has become admittedly over-staffed, but it was said on authority yesterday that the bank was not meeting this situation by discharging extra employes, but was hoping to work out the problem through normal turnover. That is, instead of replacing men who resign in the normal course of affairs with new men from outside, they are fitting in their surplus workers.

It seems evident, from what one can gather around the Street, that there has been some cutting down of staffs by the banks, but the process has been gradual, extending over ten months or so, and is now generally believed to be about complete. As a matter of fact, the banks, like other businesses, are approaching their heavy season.

⁂

Watching the Money Market.

The money market is being watched closely these days for signs of the firmer tendency that normally accompanies the approach of Autumn. Aside from slightly higher quotations in time loans extending into the Fall months, the product not so much of actual conditions as of prudent forethought on the part of lenders, there has been no evidence thus far of the usual tightening. Call money has held persistently at 2½ per cent inside the Exchange, it is true, but outside money has been plentiful at 2 per cent and could be had yesterday at 1¾ per cent. As for the bill market, which might be expected to give early signs of hardening as the seasonal expansion in volume gets under way, it is easier than ever. Dealers' portfolios are reported to be extremely small, and a reduction in rates might be expected were it not that the time of year appears to preclude such a move.

⁂

Federal Reserve Policy.

The financial community has engaged in conjecture as to whether the recent purchase of $30,000,000 of government securities by the Federal Reserve, undertaken to offset the effects of the gold exports, was to be followed by further additions to the system's portfolio. With the cessation of gold exports, temporarily at least, it has been concluded generally that further purchases are unlikely for the time being. The Reserve is still anxious to provide the market with all the credit that it will take, but demand for money continues to be exceedingly light. Despite the steps that the bank of issue has taken to pump credit out, the volume of bills and securities, listed in the system's weekly statement, continues to decline. The reason for this, bankers say, is that while credit can be put out by the Reserve it cannot be kept out in the face of slack demand. Increases in the bank's portfolio find their offset in declines in discounting or in currency. The chief value in the Reserve's easy money policy, as bankers see it, is the assurance offered to business that credit is available and cheap if it is wanted.

⁂

Rubber Plan Opposed.

Dispatches from London yesterday indicated that nearly a score of Dutch Indian rubber-producing companies had announced their opposition to the plan for restricting the output of rubber. The companies contended that the plan, which provides for a 25 per cent curtailment of output, would merely aid the small native producers and ultimately would stimulate the native output. The current price of rubber—less than 10 cents a pound—is the lowest in history.

⁂

Insurance Against Losses.

Recent proposals to form an insurance syndicate to insure investors against losses in the stock market will be balm to many who found it impossible to get out from under the deluge last Fall, brokers suggested yesterday. The policy would cover the so-called legitimate investors against inability to sell their securities at cost within its specified time of operation. It would exclude wild speculations by limiting the list of securities which could be included in such coverage. The principal question asked in connection with the plan is whether or not the average investor would be willing to pay as much as might be necessary to insure himself against losses. It is believed this would vary in ratio to the cost of the securities.

⁂

August Railroad Earnings.

The Kansas City Southern followed the Chicago & Alton yesterday in reporting August earnings, and incidentally stirred hope that a turn in the downward trend of railroad earnings might become more pronounced. This hope was fostered first by some gains reported for July, and yesterday the K. C. S. sustained it with a report of increased net income, despite decreased gross revenues. The second half of the year is supposed to be the better for the railroads, although drought and rate reductions this year have tended to cast a cloud on the situation.

⁂

Railways and Airways.

The action of the two Canadian trunk lines in acquiring interests in air lines has served recently in railroad circles to call attention to the situation here. The Pennsylvania is the only railroad to have put out money for air service control, although different railroads have made traffic agreements with air lines. The point was made that if any railroad had now any surplus funds that it would be willing to invest in aeronautics, the present was a good time for picking up air lines cheaply.

MONEY.

Tuesday, Aug. 19, 1930.

Although the official call money rate continued at 2½ per cent yesterday, outside money went at 1¾ per cent, a reduction from the 2 per cent rate which has lately prevailed. There was some tendency to mark up time money in the face of the approaching Fall season, but the move was not dictated by shorter funds.

Always with you—
This Handy Pocket Record of Your Investments

MANY investors want to keep the record of their securities as simple as possible. They may not consider elaborate detail necessary. Yet some record of purchase and sale price, maturity and income, is indispensable, even if one has only a small list.

For such investors, this handy booklet, three by five inches when folded—small enough to be slipped into a vest pocket or hand bag—has many advantages. Memoranda can be made at the time of a transaction; data is available at any time. This book is patterned after a larger security record book which we have published for many years and distributed to investors.

Besides the name of the security, there are columns for the rate of interest, maturity, par value, date and price of purchase and sale, and semi-annual interest receipts. The reverse of the sheet provides space for remarks and other pertinent data. It is loose-leaf in form so that additional sheets may be inserted at any time.

You will find this book a convenient and easy way of keeping information on your investments up to date. A binder with a supply of fillers will be sent on request.

Write for "Personal Records" book NT-8.

FAVORS REVISING BETHLEHEM BONUS

H. G. Dalton Says Payments to Grace and Others Might Be Less Under Merger.

MORE FOR STOCKHOLDERS

But He Approved of Executives Getting $3,400,000 in 1929, He States at Hearing.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 19.—Harry G. Dalton of Cleveland, partner in Pickands, Mather & Co. and a director of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said this afternoon, while testifying in the Bethlehem-Sheet and Tube merger trial, that in his opinion the Bethlehem system of paying large bonuses to its executives should be revised if the merger was finally approved.

When Cyrus S. Eaton, one of the principals in the attack on the merger project, asserted in March that Bethlehem was paying excessive bonuses, Mr. Dalton said, he doubted the statement. Under questioning by Luther Day, counsel for the plaintiffs, Mr. Dalton said that he knew about Bethlehem's bonus plan only in a general way when he voted for the merger.

He had heard that President Eugene G. Grace received a salary and bonus in excess of a million dollars a year, he said. He was aware that Bethlehem's bonuses were charged to operating expenses, and he never felt it was incumbent upon him to make a personal investigation of the amounts distributed.

"If you had known that Mr. Grace was getting $1,600,000 in 1929 and the high executive officers collectively were getting about $3,400,000, would that have made any difference to you?" Mr. Day asked.

"I don't think so," Mr. Dalton replied.

He then said that he thought the subject ought to be given serious consideration if the merger was consummated, and that the bonuses should not be any higher than they now are. Subsequently, he said, he thought the bonuses might be less than they are now and more consideration given to the stockholders.

In a long discussion Mr. Dalton said that President Grace and his associates had converted Bethlehem from a war-time concern to a "peace" institution, and in doing so were charged with spending the "terrific sum of between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000." While he believed their compensation was large, nevertheless he felt they had rendered an outstanding service.

At this point Judge David G. Jenkins, hearing the testimony, asserted that the "question of whether or not the amounts paid to Mr. Grace and others under this bonus plan, and their propriety, has absolutely nothing to do with the question which this court has to determine. The question here is simply whether or not its operation and its effect on the combined properties should or should not have been given as information to Youngstown directors, in the first place, before they passed on this merger and, in the second place, to the stockholders before they voted on its ratification."

The auditing which preceded the Republic Steel merger, made on the initiative of Mr. Eaton and his associates, was brought into the hearing of the injunction sought by the Eaton group to halt the Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem union.

Hassell Tippit, an Ernst & Ernst auditor, in his eighth day on the witness stand, testified on cross-examination by F. H. Wood, defense counsel, that the Republic merger was put together on the basis of mathematical equations in which a weight of two-thirds was given to earnings and a weight of one-third to asset values. Past earnings were used in one equation, Mr. Tippit said, and future earnings in another.

Fourth Gary (Ind.) Bank Closes.

GARY, Ind., Aug. 19 (AP).—Another Gary bank was closed today—the fourth within a week. The Gary Labor Bank, organized in 1925, announced it would remain closed today to protect its resources. A small run upon the institution late yesterday, blamed upon uneasiness due to the closing of the Mid-City State Bank and its branch, the Fifth Avenue Bank, led the directors to take this action, they explained.

AUTO IMPORT BAN SOUGHT.

Plea to Ottawa Would Cause Detroit Loss of $40,000,000.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 19.—An outright ban on importation into Canada of motor cars completely manufactured outside the Dominion is sought from the Federal Government at Ottawa by officials of Windsor and seven of its adjoining municipalities.

The Canadian Government also will be asked to conduct a survey of the motor car industry with a view to determining what additional manufacture of motor parts can be undertaken to advantage in the Dominion.

The two proposals were included in a resolution addressed to the new administration at Ottawa which were adopted by heads of the border municipalities at a joint conference called to consider the present unemployment situation in the light of reports indicating that about 4,400 men are out of work in Windsor's metropolitan district.

It is estimated that the proposed ban on completed motor cars would affect Detroit manufacturers adversely to the extent of about $40,000,000 a year.

WORCESTER BANKS JOINED.

Affiliation of Several Institutions in Massachusetts Completed.

Completion has been announced of the affiliation of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company of Worcester, Mass., and the Worcester County National Bank of Worcester and Fitchburg, including the latter's group of Worcester County banks. The group consists of seven institutions, each of which will retain its corporate identity, its name and its individual organization.

Brownsville (Pa.) Bank Closed.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 19 (AP).—The Brownsville Trust Company was placed in the hands of the State Banking Department today by the directors. The voluntary action was taken for the protection of depositors after withdrawals had continued for ten days. On June 30, the bank reported deposits of $516,639, capital of $125,000, surplus of $25,000 and undivided profits of $49,585.

Number Eight of a Series

London might have burned one hundred times over —before equaling net risks of National Fire Insurance Co.

A WOODEN house in Pudding Lane, London, caught fire on September 2, 1666, and spread until almost all of London was in flames. Fourteen thousand houses were burned and six persons were killed in this fire, which raged for five days and nights. This historic catastrophe was the greatest of its kind recorded up to that time. Yet the total loss was slightly in excess of fifty million dollars—a sum less than one percent. of the net risks in force with the National Fire Insurance Company of Hartford.

Fire today is not the inexorable enemy to man that it was three hundred years ago, when its unchecked progress often spelt ruin and desolation for the stricken cities. The growth and development of fire insurance companies have eliminated many of these terrors, because the people have been educated to the desirability and necessity of adequate fire insurance on everything of value that is combustible. Fire insurance must continue to grow as the world grows. In the United States its development has been little short of phenomenal, as indicated by the record of the National Fire Insurance Company alone:

GROWTH OF BUSINESS

	1915	1920	1929
Net risks	$1,757,990,445	$2,827,511,098	$5,385,590,601
Total admitted assets	16,226,084	27,112,321	51,774,484
Capital stock	2,000,000	2,000,000	5,000,000
Surplus	3,496,345	6,318,306	19,680,239
Unearned premiums	9,324,661	15,645,515	21,469,076

This Company's policies are not limited to fire risks alone, but cover, in addition, ocean marine, hail, motor vehicle, tornado and inland marine as well. It enjoys an excellent reputation for its equitable treatment of policy holders. The Company is backed by substantial interests and its directorate includes prominent business men and financiers. Its affairs are conservatively conducted by officers who are thoroughly experienced insurance executives.

Because of this Company's exceptionally fine earning and dividend record; because, through a holding company, it has stock control of the Mechanics & Traders Insurance Co., the Transcontinental Insurance Company, and the Franklin National Insurance Company of New York; because it occupies a prominent position in the fire insurance field; and because over a period of the past ten years the average annual return to stockholders, including dividends and market appreciation has been 15.03%, we recommend the purchase or retention of the capital stock of the National Fire Insurance Company of Hartford.

Our Latest Report on National Fire Insurance Company will be sent upon request.

HIGH-CLASS RAILS LEAD BONDS AGAIN

More High Prices for Year Are Recorded as Other Carriers Approach Peaks for 1930.

INDUSTRIALS SWING WIDELY

Foreign Loans Average Higher—Government Issues Narrow in Stock Exchange Trading.

A steady demand for leading railroad issues continued in the listed bond market yesterday. Several high-grade rails moved into higher ground for the year, while others in that class held at or close to the best prices for 1930 to date. Second and third-grade rails remained dull and little improved. A few new highs for the year were established by a handful of the leading public utility issues.

Some of the widest swings occurred in the industrial group. The infrequently traded American Ice 5s of 1953 sold at 84, a new low for the year, off 4¼ points from the previous sale. Sugar bonds were generally easier. Sugar Estates of Oriente 7s of 1942 dropped 2¾ points to a fresh bottom at 31, Vertientes Sugar 7s of 1942, fell a point to a new low at 34, and Manati Sugar 7½s lost ¼ point to 41.

Western Electric 5s of 1944 were unusually active, with all transactions being done at 105, the previous high for the year. Colon Oil 6s recovered 1¼ points to 64, while Parmelee Transfer 6s dropped 3 points to a new low at 60. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s of 1939 recovered ¾ point.

Foreign loans averaged slightly higher in quiet trading. French National Steamships 7s of 1949 touched a peak for the year at 104½. French Government and municipal loans held close to best prices of 1930. The heavily traded German International 5½s closed unchanged at 87½, while Austrian International 7s yielded ¼ point to 92¾. South American loans continued irregular.

Narrow trading characterized United States Government bonds. Closing prices were 1-32 higher to the same amount lower.

New Bonds for $2,861,500 Offered to Investors Today

New securities totaling $2,861,500 will be placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. The amount will consist entirely of bonds. In addition, two blocks of stock, of unstated amount, will be offered.

The new bond issues are classified as follows:

Municipal	$1,695,500
Railroad	1,166,000

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Awards and Offerings of New Bond Issues to Bankers and the Public Announced.

Denver, Col.

Bidding for the $13,540,000 city and county of Denver (Col.) refunding water bonds, due variously from 1931 to 1967, was enlivened yesterday by split-rate tenders. One group headed by the Bankers Company of New York and the National City Company bid par plus a premium of $215 for $3,996,000 of the bonds, due 1931 to 1948, as 4¼s, and the balance as 4s. The high bid for a single interest rate was that of 103.3968 for the issue as 4¼s, made by a syndicate headed by the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

The Bankers-National City group also bid 102.969 for the entire issues as 4¼s. A syndicate headed by the Guaranty Company of New York bid 102.9207 for 4¼s, and a group headed by the Chase Securities Corporation, 102.91 for 4¼s. The First National Bank of New York and associates bid 102.8391 for 4¼s and an alternate bid for fewer bonds than the amount offered in lieu of premium.

It was announced that the bonds would not be awarded until after the split bids of some of the lower offers had been analyzed and that a decision might be reached today.

State of New Hampshire.

The State of New Hampshire, which has not been in the market with bonds this year, will open bids on a new issue of $1,500,000 on Aug. 29, according to private advices received here. It is understood that the bonds will be sold as not exceeding 4½s.

Portland, Ore.

The city of Portland, Ore., has issued a call for sealed tenders, to be opened Sept. 3, on a new issue of $1,600,000 4½ per cent street-widening bonds. The issue will mature serially from Sept. 2, 1933 to 1960. On April 23 last the city awarded $850,000 of 4½ per cent street-widening bonds at 102.125, equivalent to a 4.33 per cent basis.

Miami Beach, Fla.

The city of Miami Beach, Fla., has notified holders that it will buy at par and accrued interest any of its bonds maturing in 1930 or 1931. About $400,000 of bonds of these maturities are outstanding. The city is said to have on deposit more than $1,000,000 available for such purchases.

Ecorse Township, Mich.

A new issue of $371,500 Ecorse Township (Mich.) 6 per cent bonds, due July 15, 1931 to 1935, will be offered today by Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Inc., to net 4.00 to 4.50 per cent. The township's assessed valuation for 1930 is reported as $51,892,967 and total bonded debt, including this issue, $401,500.

Bayonne, N. J.

The city of Bayonne, N. J., awarded yesterday to Rapp & Lockwood at 100.15 a new issue of $1,046,000 school bonds, due Aug. 1, 1932 to 1966, as 4¼s. The bankers will reoffer the bonds today at prices to yield 3.75 to 4.15 per cent. The city awarded also $278,000 tax title notes, due Sept. 1, 1931, as 3¾s, to Lehman Brothers, at par, plus a premium of $1.98. The notes will be priced to yield 3 per cent. It is understood that advance orders have been received for the entire issue. Bayonne reports an assessed valuation for 1930 of $173,302,307 and a net bonded debt of $7,703,316, or less than 4½ per cent of the assessed valuation.

Livingston Township, N. J.

An issue of $277,000 Livingston Township (N. J.) bonds, due variously on July 1, 1932 to 1968, has been awarded to H. L. Allen & Co. at 100.10 for the bonds as 4½s. The second bid was 100.036 for 4½s by J. S. Rippel & Co. of Newark and the third 100.009 for 4½s by Lehman Brothers.

Brokers in Honolulu Suspended.

HONOLULU, Aug. 19 (AP).—The Honolulu Stock Exchange announced yesterday the suspension of Blackman & Co., securities brokers, giving as the reason inability to meet obligations.

THE PUBLIC UTILITY INDUSTRY

Production of electricity from Public Utility power plants in the United States reached a new record total of 48,200,000,000 kilowatt hours during the first half of 1930. In the same six months gross operating revenues of 95 Public Utility enterprises as reported to the Government aggregated $1,191,500,000 with net earnings of $528,500,000, both of which amounts were greater than any previously reported for corresponding periods.

These accomplishments of the Public Utility industry become all the more pronounced when measured against the general recession in industry throughout this period.

Suggestions for investments in Public Utility securities may be had upon request.

Significant Movements In Bond Values

Always in the past, active markets for virtually all grades of bonds have been presaged by a gradual increase in the price of the highest grade bonds. This has already taken place, and an increase in the price of other sound issues seems certain to follow. We are therefore recommending to investors a carefully selected list of 6 strong issues—mostly utilities—now yielding from 5½% to 7¼%, but which, we believe, will not much longer be available at their present prices.

Every Investor Should Consider Bonds

Debenture bond prices have not advanced appreciably above the levels of 1929—the year of lowest prices since 1925. Present market conditions and low interest rates indicate a strong bond market in the near future accompanied by rising bond prices.

For safety and a good return we recommend Associated Gas and Electric Company Gold Debenture Bonds, due 1968—priced to yield over 5¼%.

A Discussion Invited of Your Export Problem—
Just returned to the United States after five years' work in organizing factory and sales work abroad for one of America's greatest corporations, the advertiser would welcome an opportunity to discuss with leading American houses their present export problems. Previously he was for 10 years sales manager of an AAA1 American corporation, following many years of earlier overseas experience. He is familiar with the best methods not only in America but in the leading markets of the world. 46 years old—highly educated—a student—an observer—a trained negotiator—and an active doer. He should be able to discuss your problems constructively. Open for a new engagement in the near future.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Some of the Industrials Rally on English Exchange—Credit Conditions Easier.

FRENCH STOCKS WEAKER

Anglo-Dutch Oil Moves Upward Against Trend—Tone Better on German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—With steadier advices this afternoon from New York some industrial shares tended to rally in late dealings on the Stock Exchange, but the improvement did not spread far. The principal shares supported were the chemicals, radios and His Master's Voice Gramophone. The remainder of the industrials closed weak.

Business was quiet in British funds and prices tended to react, although the sterling dollar rate was firm. The war loan was £103 15-16 and the 3½ per cent conversion loan £79 9-16.

Among the weak features in the industrials was Unilver, old ordinary shares losing another 1s and the new a similar amount. International stocks mostly were against the holders, but the lower quotations were due mainly to easier New York overnight prices. Columbia Graphophone closed at £2 13-16 after touching £2 19-32. It is understood that the full accounts will be published a week from tomorrow. Several store shares picked up, Selfridge's Provincial ordinary rallying to 10s.

Rubber at 4 11-16d was ⅛d a pound cheaper, and there was a consequent weaker tendency in shares. Shell Transport dropped 2s 6d in oils on further selling. It is pointed out that even if the third quarterly payment by Shell Union is cut the distribution by the Shell group will not be affected.

Mining Trust, Ltd., remained at 9s. Support was lacking for Rhodesian issues. Although Congo Border closed firm at £13½, N'Changa declined, the latest favorable cable report having been discounted.

Credit was in comfortable supply. After being at 2 per cent in the morning, short loans were offered at 1½, while old day-to-day money was renewed at 1¾ per cent. Bill rates showed little change but were easy in tone. At the Bank of England £6,993 of bar gold was sold. Sterling exchange on New York reacted to $4.87-$4.87 1-16.

Dull and Lower in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—Prices showed an irregular downward trend in a dull market today. For a brief period this morning on the Paris Bourse there was a flurry of buying, but this quickly gave way to pronounced apathy.

Anglo-Dutch Oil stocks were the outstanding exception to the slump which hit the market. French rentes also resisted firmly the general trend, closing as follows: The 3 per cent, 88.65; 1918 4s, 100.65; 1920 amortizable 5s, 135.95; 1928 5s, 104; 1920 6s, 103.05; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.70.

Improving at Close in Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The Boerse opened weak today but improved somewhat toward the close. Transactions, however, remained small and numerous favorites, especially some of those dependent on foreign support, lost a few points. Shipping shares, Reichsbank and chemicals lost yesterday's gains for the most part, and the leaders generally closed 1 or 2 points below yesterday.

Call money was easier at 3 to 5 per cent, while the sudden flurry in demand for specialties gave the market an upward swing at the close.

NEW STOCK ISSUES.

Republic Trust Shares.

An offering of Republic Trust Shares, Series A, will be made today by the Republic Shares Corporation, depositor company for the trust. The Republic Trust Shares is a fixed investment trust with a portfolio of common stocks of twenty-five companies in the Standard Oil group. Each unit consists of 210 shares of common stocks, and the number of shares of each of the twenty-five companies ranges from five to twenty. The trust agreement provides for the sale of all stock dividends, rights and purchase warrants. The shares are to be offered "at the market." Officers of the depositor corporation include Frank W. Pearson, president; Harry C. Pearson, vice president; Milton G. Wood, secretary and treasurer.

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago.

A block of 2,500 shares of Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway Company 7 per cent preferred stock will be offered today by Joseph Walker & Sons. The shares will be priced at the market, to yield about 4.31 per cent. Dividends are guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which leases in perpetuity the road's unmortgaged main line between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

$1,000,000 in Gold Arrives.

A shipment of $1,000,000 in gold coin arrived yesterday from Uruguay on the Northern Prince, consigned to the Guaranty Trust Company. Thus far this year $5,000,000 in gold has come from Uruguay, all consigned to the Guaranty.

Reports from San Francisco yesterday said $4,000,000 in gold from Japan was en route to that city. Of that amount, $2,500,000 is scheduled to arrive today and the remaining $1,500,000 at a later date.

CHEMICAL COMPANY AIMS TO REORGANIZE

American Agricultural Would Abolish Connecticut Concern, Holding Organization.

NET PROFIT IS INCREASED

Total for Year Ended June 30, $1,507,366, Against $703,778 in Preceding Period.

Early corporate reorganization of the American Agricultural Chemical Company, through which the Connecticut company, now the holding organization for the Delaware company, the operating company, will be entirely eliminated, is being considered, according to Horace Bowker, president, in the annual report of the company. The Delaware company already has been substituted as the obligor on the first refunding 7½ per cent mortgage bonds of the Connecticut company, which has paved the way for substitution of the stock of the Delaware company for the stock of the Connecticut company, Mr. Bowker explains.

Mr. Bowker in his report said that with a capital impairment, which has existed since 1923, no dividends can be paid, even on the preferred stock. Current earnings, he said, would be impounded until released by some readjustment which will avoid the capital impairment and permit of current earnings being paid out. To bring its properties more in line with their actual worth, the company set aside additional reserves of $10,297,293 against capital assets in the last year. This, with other reserves, brought its deficit account, which amounted to $16,116,731 on July 1, 1929, to $39,837,406 on June 30 last.

The report of the American Agricultural Chemical Company of Connecticut and the American Agricultural Chemical Company of Delaware and other subsidiary companies for the fiscal year ended on June 30 shows net profit of $1,507,366, after expenses, interest, depreciation and depletion, equivalent to $5.30 a share on the 284,552 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, on which no dividends have been paid since April, 1921. This compares with a net profit of $703,778 in the preceding year, equal to $2.47 a share on the preferred stock.

On June 30 last, current assets amounted to $23,822,892, of which cash was $6,728,212. Current liabilities aggregated $1,189,316.

The net result of the extraordinary changes in the balance sheet in the last year, by increasing capital impairment account to $39,837,406, has been to reduce the equity of the stockholders to $21,939,919, Mr. Bowker states. He adds: "As the preferred stock has prior rights up to its par value, quite apart from the arrearage in dividends, the net value of the assets is, therefore, equivalent to $77 for each share of preferred stock now outstanding."

Belgians Plan Window Glass Cartel.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 19 (AP).—According to the newspaper Le Soir the glass manufacturer Lodelinsart has agreed to participate in a Belgian window glass sales syndicate, uniting all producers of the country for the purpose of counteracting new American tariff schedules.

PHELPS DODGE RATE STANDS

Directors Decide Not to Decrease the Quarterly Dividend.

Directors of the Phelps Dodge Corporation announced yesterday that they had decided not to decrease the quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the company's stock. Their statement follows:

"As the basis of dividends paid during the prosperous period of last year was conservative, and as the company has sufficient assets on hand, the directors decided to make no decrease in the dividend declared today."

Florida State Controller Cleared.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP).—The Florida Supreme Court today freed Controller Ernest Amod of charges of malfeasance in office brought against him in Miami recently. The specific charge was that Mr. Amod employed officers and employes of the defunct Bank of Bay Biscayne at Miami to make an audit of the institution's affairs after its failure last June.

NEW WORLDS TO CONQUER
During the six months ending June 30, 1930 Commercial Credit's domestic volume of other than automobile paper showed a percentage ratio to total volume nearly 100% greater than that of the corresponding period of 1929.
The undeveloped fields for Commercial Credit Service appear to offer even greater possibilities than those in which it has heretofore been chiefly utilized.
The Company's confident outlook is based as much on this fact as on the proven soundness of its current operations.

I. R. T. TO BACK DAHL ON VOTING TRUSTEE

Management to Approve Choice of Candidate by Stockholders' Protective Committee.

DIRECTORS TO BE CHOSEN

Division Over Nomination of Three by Certificate Holders Possible, but Fight Is Unlikely.

Choice of a candidate to be the third voting trustee of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's voting trust for common shares by the stockholders' protective committee, headed by Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Corporation, will meet the approval of the interests now controlling and operating the Interborough company, it was learned yesterday.

The present voting trustees are Frank Hedley and Frank L. Polk. The third trusteeship has been vacant since the death of General Guy E. Tripp in June, 1927. In the intervening years, the lack of a quorum of voting trust certificate holders at their annual meetings has prevented this vacancy from being filled. The next meeting of certificate holders will be held next month before the annual meeting of stockholders.

No information was available yesterday as to whom the Dahl committee would name as candidate for voting trustee. Mr. Dahl will not return from his vacation until the first of next month, and members of his committee were non-committal as to whether any choice of a representative has been made. The committee has obtained the listing on the New York Stock Exchange of 110,371 certificates of deposit for I. R. T. common shares or voting trust certificates, showing that the committee has won the support of at least 31.4 per cent of the 350,000 shares and certificates outstanding. Reports that the Dahl committee has an unrevealed block of I. R. T. shares in reserve have been heard frequently in Wall Street, but have never been verified.

At their meeting next month voting trust certificate holders will also nominate three directors of the Interborough company, if there is a quorum present, to replace those whose terms expire this year. Considerable interest attaches to this meeting, which is said to be no less important to the future policy of the I. R. T. than is the election of a third voting trustee. Although a division between the Hedley and Dahl groups regarding the nomination of directors is possible, a contest is said to be improbable.

Approval by the I. R. T. management of any name put forward by the Dahl committee as candidate for voting trustee was said yesterday to be in line with the offer made by the Hedley régime to the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit interests in 1927, when the latter owned a large block of I. R. T. voting trust certificates, suggesting that the Dahl group appoint a representative. The B. M. T. holdings were sold later.

At the annual meeting of the company on Sept. 24 the voting trustees will elect as directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company the nominees of the I. R. T. voting trust certificate holders, of the city, of the bondholders and of the Manhattan Railway stockholders.

Of the directors to be chosen next month, three will be selected by voting trust certificate holders, one by Manhattan Railway stockholders, one by the city and one by the bondholders.

Although the known strength of the Dahl committee, as indicated through the listing of 110,371 certificates of deposit for I. R. T. stock and voting trust certificates, does not imply the power to nominate all three of the I. R. T. directors who are to be chosen, it was said in financial circles, it was believed probable that the nominations made by the voting trust certificate holders, or, in absence of a quorum, by the voting trustees, would receive the support of both the Hedley and Dahl groups.

The feeling is said to exist in Interborough circles that representation of the Dahl committee on the I. R. T. board will permit the Dahl-Chase Bank interests to acquaint themselves more fully with the problems of the Interborough than they could without such representation.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Manhattan Railway Company will be held on Nov. 12.

Ulen Gets New Greek Contract.

Ulen & Co. of New York announced yesterday that they had obtained from the Greek Government an additional contract to build a rapid sand filter system for Athens's water supply at a cost of about $400,000. They recently completed the Marathon dam and hundreds of miles of water mains for Greece's capital. American equipment will be used.

$289,711 JULY DEFICIT FOR INTERBOROUGH

Fails to Earn Dividend Rental on Manhattan Railway Besides Subway Preferential.

With a $289,711 deficit for July after taxes, charges and rentals, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company failed to earn by $521,582 the month's requirements for the 5 per cent Manhattan Railway dividend rental, according to the report issued yesterday. The deficit fell short by $155,432 of the amount of the subway preferential which the company is entitled to collect from future subway earnings, the report says.

Gross revenue from all sources was $5,382,548 for July and net earnings after expenses were $1,502,113. Expenses included a reserve for depreciation at the annual rate of $50,000 for the Manhattan division and $500,000 for the subway division. Net operating income after taxes was $1,303,564.

The balance after rentals was $884,213, available for total charges of $1,173,925, consisting of $706,884 on first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, $189,098 on 7 per cent secured notes, $48,374 on 6 per cent ten-year notes, $208,849 sinking fund on I. R. T. first mortgage bonds and $20,720 on other items. This indicates that interest on the 7 per cent notes was not fully earned, with nothing remaining for the junior issues.

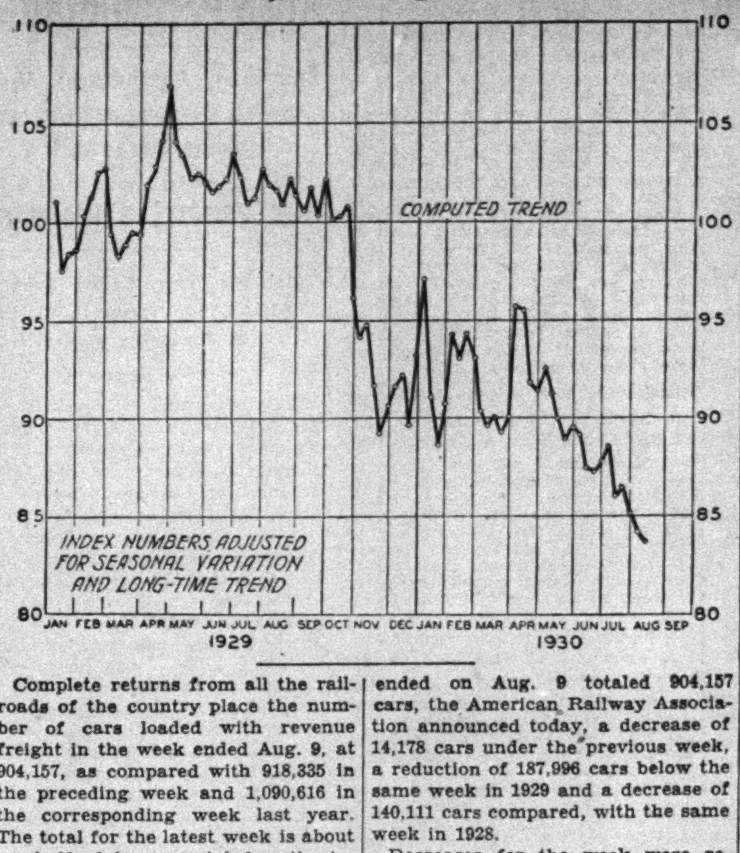
Pierson, Young & Co., Inc., and affiliated interests have bought for cash control of the Central States Edison Corporation, a $4,000,000 company controlling an $8,000,000 group of public utility properties in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Indiana and Alabama, most of which are electric light and power concerns. No public financing is involved.

The Central States Edison Corporation owns 98 per cent of the capital stock of the Madison Light and Fuel Company and all of the common stock of the Central States Edison Company, which in turn controls nine other companies. The properties were controlled previously by the Sutherland Dows interests of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Carloadings Off 14,178 in Week Ended Aug. 9; Total of 904,157 Brings Decrease in Index



Complete returns from all the railroads of the country place the number of cars loaded with revenue freight in the week ended Aug. 9, at 904,157, as compared with 918,335 in the preceding week and 1,090,616 in the corresponding week last year. The total for the latest week is about one-half of 1 per cent below the total of 909,000 previously estimated, and the result is a further slight decline in the adjusted index of freight car loadings, which now stands at 83.8, as against 84.2 for the week ended Aug. 2, and 101.7 for the week ended Aug. 10, 1929.

The revision in the car loadings index involves but slight change in the combined index of business activity, which for the week ended Aug. 9 now settles at 87.9, as compared with 86.9 for the previous week and 105.9 for the corresponding week last year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended on Aug. 9 totaled 904,157 cars, the American Railway Association announced today, a decrease of 14,178 cars under the previous week, a reduction of 187,996 cars below the same week in 1929 and a decrease of 140,111 cars compared, with the same week in 1928.

Decreases for the week were reported in all commodities except ore and live stock.

The car loadings in detail were:

COTTON PRICES RISE AFTER 10-DAY LOSS

List Gains 14 to 22 Points Following a Steady Deqline Totaling 2c a Pound.

BIG SPOT SELLING IN SOUTH

Sales by Domestic Mills in July Exceeded Output for First Time in Four Months.

After a decline of 2 cents a pound in ten days, price movements yesterday on the New York Cotton Exchange became one-sided. Fluctuations developed irregularity over a range of 30 points and, following new low records for the ninth successive day, the list closed 14 to 22 points higher than on Monday.

Spot sales at markets in the South aggregated 71,000 bales in the last three days, compared with 49,000 bales a year ago, while port receipts for three days totalled 93,000, against 52,000 at the same time last year.

Buying in Liverpool by the Continent and India offset selling from this side, and foreign prices were well maintained all day.

The Cotton Exchange Service, based on the Aug. 1 official crop estimate, figures the supply of cotton in the country this season would be 18,730,000 bales, compared with 17,352,000 last year. Goods held by mills in excess of unfilled orders were equal to 5.68 weeks' production, compared with .24 week at the close of the previous season.

Sales by domestic cotton mills exceeded production in July for the first time in four months, according to the Exchange. The sales were 108.6 per cent of production, against 65.5 in June and 112.1 in July last year. Mill operations were sharply curtailed in July to bring production more into line with consumption, it was said.

NEW MARKET NOV. 1 FOR WOOL FUTURES

Cotton Exchange Will Organize Corporation and Make a Standard Contract for Deals.

MANY SEEK MEMBERSHIP

Weld Says Hedgers Will Be Helped, and Free and Open Market Will Be Established.

The members of the New York Cotton Exchange voted yesterday to proceed with their plan to start trading in wool top futures. This business will be conducted by a corporation to be organized by the Exchange under the title Wool Associates of the New York Cotton Exchange. A standard contract for wool tops will and Class B memberships, limited be formulated, and by-laws and trading rules will be prepared immediately. Trading in the commodity will begin on Nov. 1.

Class A memberships will be held by members of the Cotton Exchange, to 150, will be held by others. Class B members will not be entitled to trade on the floor of the Exchange nor to clear trades in wool top futures, but members of both classes will be entitled to membership rates of commissions on trades.

There are only two small futures markets for wool tops, one in Antwerp and one in Roubaix-Tourcoing. The organizers hope the new market will become one of the principal commodity exchanges and will be utilized for hedging purposes by producers and dealers in raw wool and by manufacturers of worsteds and woolens. The sale of many seats is reported to be assured.

The unit of trading, it is expected, will be 5,000 pounds of wool tops, the basic grade being 64s, with premiums and discounts for higher and lower qualities. Two contracts may be established, the lower having 50s as the basic grade. Although trading will be conducted here, deliveries will be made in Boston and possibly in Philadelphia.

Philip B. Weld, president of the New York Cotton Exchange, said yesterday:

"The Cotton Exchange has studied the problem through special committees which have held conferences in Boston and New York with representative leaders of the wool industry. Much interest has been shown, not only by domestic dealers and manufacturers and brokerage houses, but also by firms engaged in the wool trade in Europe and elsewhere abroad. Applications for membership have already been received from foreign firms.

"The value of the world wool crop is approximately the same as the value of the world cotton crop, but while there are numerous cotton exchanges affording facilities for hedging and trading, there are only two small wool top exchanges. The new Exchange will be organized along broad lines so as to provide a free and open market for the wool industry throughout the world. While the United States is one of the most important wool-producing countries in the world, it produces less than one-half of the wool consumed in this country and imports all of the balance. The new wool top market will provide facilities for hedging import wools produced in South America, Australia, Africa and Europe, as well as domestic wools."

SMALL CHANGES END WIDE WHEAT MOVES

Prices Finish ½c Higher to ⅛c Lower Following Trading Under Conflicting Influences.

CORN AT NEW LOW MARKS

Quotations on Oats Recede, Influenced by Yellow Grain—Rye Also Has Setback.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Conflicting influences caused erratic fluctuations today in wheat and after a range of 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents the finish was ½ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower than yesterday. September showed the most strength, in part reflecting removal of hedges against export sales, and there was also changing over between the near-by month and the December. The trade paid considerable attention to the action of the Winnipeg market, which was ¼ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower at the last. October led in strength, although early reports were that the Canadian pool was selling on all bulges.

Export sales of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas, helped to reduce pressure. Spreaders bought here against sales at Minneapolis, while some selling here was in hedging against cash grain.

Primary receipts were 2,876,000 bushels, a week ago 3,022,000 and a year ago 2,602,000. Shipments respectively were 1,790,000, 2,285,000 and 2,452,000 bushels.

Local longs generally sold corn at the opening and there was also selling on stop-loss orders, prices ending around 2 cents off from yesterday's finish to new lows on the present movement.

Primary receipts of corn were 842,000 bushels, a week ago 584,000 and a year ago 439,000. Shipments, respectively, were 441,000, 324,000 and 490,000 bushels.

Oats finished ⅛ to ⅞ cent lower, corn's action having considerable influence.

Rye lost ¼ to ⅞ cent, with hedging pressure small. Shippers and mills were after cash rye, which gained 1 to 3 cents on the September.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Buyers' Registrations Lower.

The number of buyers listed in the market during the past week still remained under the figures for the preceding week and for a year ago, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. For the week ended yesterday 1,022 buyers were registered, as against 1,153 in the previous week and 1,150 in the corresponding week last year. Yesterday's registrations numbered 447, which compared with 461 reported last Tuesday.

Retail Sales Gain Spotty.

Last week's improvement in retail sales has continued this week, reports yesterday indicated. With but eight shopping days remaining before the end of the month, however, it was considered doubtful whether August turnover as a whole will show up in the average much better than that for July. Gains, where they have been made, contrast sharply as between stores and suffer the handicap of the poor sales volume at the beginning of the month. Several stores throughout the country, however, have been doing notably well. A leading specialty organization here, for example, was said yesterday to be having a 12 per cent gain thus far this month.

Leather for Upholstery Gains.

Tanners of upholstery leather are anticipating greater business from the furniture field this Fall. Two features encouraging tanners are the vogue of single pieces and the activity in 17th century English styles, in both of which leather is finding a marked appeal. The single piece, particularly, is expected to develop volume in leathers to harmonize with the covering of other furniture items. Increased demand for fine top grain leathers is noted, with brown, red, green and blue the favored shades. Some interest is shown in antique effect leathers.

Retail Collections Off Slightly.

Department store charge account collections for July declined 1.8 per cent, according to an average based on figures issued yesterday by the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York City. In the collection of retail instalment accounts, however, there was a gain of 1.03 per cent as compared with the same month a year ago. Furniture instalment accounts showed the slight gain of 0.12 per cent. Collections in the women's wear group, including ready-to-wear and shoe stores, declined 5.76 per cent on the average. Men's wear collections dropped 3.6 per cent for the month.

Stripes Lead Fancy Worsteds.

Stripes continued to maintain their leadership in fancy worsted suitings, accounting for 51 per cent of the orders placed in July, according to figures issued yesterday by the Wool Institute. Plain effects were second with 24 per cent, followed by plaids with 15. In fancy woolens, both above and below $1.50 a yard, plain and small weaves led with 67 and 47 per cent, respectively. Stripe patterns were second, having 38 per cent in the cheaper woolens and 28 per cent in the better grade cloths. Gray, brown and tan and blue were the leading colors.

Sales of Shirts Hit Peak.

Retailers have come into the market for men's shirts on a large scale and are buying all available goods, according to reports from resident offices and manufacturers yesterday. Purchases have practically doubled during the last two weeks, it was said. Converters are reported to be turning out goods on a restricted basis and retailers are now taking what manufacturers have on hand, feeling that prices are attractive and that there may be an upward trend soon. Fair purchases are also being made for Labor Day sales. About 85 per cent of the shirts sold are the collar-attached models. A strong tendency to prints and woven goods is appearing. Most retailers and department stores are interested in numbers retailing at $1.95.

1931 Underwear Pricing Delayed.

With purchasing of Fall underwear lagging behind last year and a good number of commitments yet to be placed, mills are not anxious to quote prices immediately on their 1931 lightweight lines, it was indicated in the trade yesterday. Buyers are not showing much interest, although one mill representative stated he could have disposed of a good volume in the last two weeks if prices had been available. The market now is essentially a buyers' one, it was said, and they will attempt to dictate prices, in addition to expecting better merchandise, such as combed yarn suits instead of carded ones. The general expectation is that prices will not be definitely quoted until after Labor Day, although a few houses have sample lines out now, with prices 5 to 10 per cent below last year's.

Men's Suits Being Reordered.

A fair amount of reorders are coming in for new Fall merchandise in the men's wear line, it was stated in the trade yesterday. Buyers are showing considerable interest in the newest shades in suits, particularly the pastel tones of wine, powder blue, brown and green. The two-button peaked lapel suit remains outstanding in favor. Overcoat buying continues to lag, and estimates indicate that only about 40 per cent of purchases have been made, compared with last year. The orders appearing are concentrated on camel pile and fleece fabrics and the blue form-fitting coat.

Style Piracy in Pajama Trade.

A rather bold attempt at style piracy was revealed by an incident made known yesterday which occurred to a manufacturer of sleeping wear. A man, purporting to represent a New York store, called at the local sales office of this manufacturer and looked over the firm's line of cotton pajamas. He selected six numbers and asked that two of each be sent to his store, giving a Madison Avenue address. Upon making the usual inquiries for financial references, the manufacturer discovered that the buyer was a competitive maker of pajamas. The practice is an old one, but this apparently is the first time an attempt at style piracy was made so openly.

Further Easing in Gray Goods.

Despite the firmer tone in the cotton market, gray goods prices receded further yesterday and additional declines of ⅛ of a cent on printcloths were reported. A fair amount of goods was sold, but volume purchasing was lacking. Apparently a number of mills need money and must dispose of goods at any price, with the result that other producers have to follow suit. In printcloths 38½-inch 60-48s were quoted at 4¼ to 4⅜ cents and 38½-inch 64-60s at 4¾ cents. Orders for 39-inch 68-72s and 72-76s were filled at 5½ and 6½ cents, respectively. In 39-inch 80-squares quotations ranged between 6¾ and 6⅞ cents. Sheetings were dull.

MACHINERY TRADE HOPEFUL

Inquiries Also Increasing in Machine Tool Market.

Increasing optimism is felt in machinery and machine tool markets, according to the American Machinist in its weekly report. Promising inquiries are beginning to become more and more prevalent, the report says, and indications are that manufacturers are ready for the upturn in business.

From the point of view of actual orders there is not much to report from any of the leading centres, according to the publication, although orders are reported increasing in New England and the Southern district.

Store Hour Question Unsettled.

Differences are still unreconciled regarding the provisions of the Mastick bill governing the regulation of hours of employment of women in department stores. A canvass of the local stores, it was learned yesterday, shows that they are almost unanimous in the selection of Plan A, as outlined by the State Department of Labor, permitting a weekly schedule of six days of eight hours each. The Labor Department, however, holds that no overtime is permissible under this plan. If overtime is to be used during the year, the department contends, the stores must elect Plan B at the outset of the year, with no change permissible. Retailers, however, have been advised by attorneys that overtime is permissible under both plans, the only restriction being that during the overtime, one day of that week be of only four and one-half hours.

ASSERTS TRADE RISE IS NOW UNDER WAY

E. R. Johnson, Ex-Head of Victor Company, Calls on Hoover and Expresses Confidence.

CALLS HIGH WAGES REMEDY

He Says R. C. A. and Campbell Soup Company Will Add Thousands of Employes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Confidence that American business is already beginning to recover from the economic slump, and that purchasing power in the nation was not greatly damaged either by the stock market decline or the drought, was expressed by Eldridge R. Johnson, former president of the Victor Company, after a call on President Hoover at the White House today.

Two suggestions to speed the return of prosperity were advanced by Mr. Johnson, one, to buy now without waiting for better times, the other, to give unqualified support to President Hoover, "the best informed man on the business and financial situation in the United States today."

In support of his view that the country is returning to normal, Mr. Johnson stated that the R. C. A.-Victor Company intends to enlarge its force of 5,000 men to 17,500 by Sept. 15; that the Campbell Soup Company expects to have more employes by that date than ever and that the Pennsylvania Railroad has contracted to spend several millions for electric locomotive equipment.

"The thing that will snap us out of the present slump is high wages," Mr. Johnson said. "It is far easier to resume on a high-wage basis than it is on a low-wage basis, because on a high-wage basis everything begins where it left off right away, whereas on a low-wage basis it will take years to build up again to the old standard."

Mr. Johnson, who recently returned from France and Italy, said he had found the business depression general throughout Europe except in France and Holland, but had seen signs of the beginning of a recovery.

He continued:

"I feel, that up to a certain point, the recovery of American business will be comparatively rapid. I feel that it already is beginning. It is true that we have suffered a terrific collapse in the value of securities, but it is also true that prices of those securities had been pushed up to a higher level than was justified. It is also true that a severe drought added to our difficulties. * * *

"The way to start general prosperity is to begin it individually. Let every one who wants something go out and buy it now, if possible. Do not wait for better times."

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT SMALLER FOR WEEK

Decline of 16,800 Barrels in the Daily Average Estimated by Petroleum Institute.

RISE IN IMPORTS SHOWN

Receipts From California Decrease—Stocks East of Rocky Mountains Reduced.

The American Petroleum Institute estimates that the daily average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended on Aug. 16 was 2,463,550 barrels, compared with 2,480,350 barrels for the preceding week, a decrease of 16,800 barrels. The daily average production east of California was 1,843,250 barrels, compared with 1,864,250 barrels, a decrease of 21,000 barrels.

Daily average production, by districts, for the weeks ended on Aug. 16 and Aug. 9, 1930, and Aug. 27, 1929, follows:

Pipe line and tank farm gross domestic stocks of crude oil east of the Rocky Mountains decreased 322,850 barrels in July, according to figures compiled by the institute. These figures include oil in transit, but not producers' stocks at the walls.

Imports of crude and refined oils at the principal ports of the country for the week ended on Aug. 16 totaled 1,860,000 barrels, a daily average of 265,714 barrels, compared with 1,565,000 barrels, a daily average of 223,571 barrels in the preceding week and a daily average of 278,607 barrels for the four weeks ended on Aug. 16.

Receipts of California oil at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports for the week ended on Aug. 16 totaled 399,000 barrels, a daily average of 57,000 barrels, compared with 851,000 barrels, a daily average of 121,571 barrels for the previous week and a daily average of 88,536 barrels for the four weeks ended on Aug. 16.

OIL ACQUISITION RATIFIED.

Stockholders Approve Purchase of Lago by Pan-American.

Stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company yesterday, at a meeting in Wilmington, Del., approved the purchase of the Lago Oil and Transport Corporation by an exchange of one-half share of Pan-American Class B stock for every share of Lago. Pan-American already held about 97 per cent of the outstanding shares of Lago. The Lago stockholders also approved the merger.

As a result of these actions, Lago will become a 100 per cent owned subsidiary of the Pan-American company. Pan-American is controlled by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana through ownership of more than 80 per cent of the combined common shares.

PRODUCTION OF COPPER SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

July Figures for North America Fall Slightly From June—British Stocks Off, French Up.

Production of blister copper in North America for July, including direct cathode copper, amounted to 84,426 short tons, compared with 85,531 in June, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Blister copper production in South America, including direct cathode copper, was 23,328 tons in July, against 23,043 in June.

Copper stocks in Great Britain at the close of July aggregated 7,066 short tons, compared with 7,972 at the end of June. At Havre refined copper stocks amounted to 7,863 tons on July 31, against 6,972 at the close of June.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Shippers continue to find offerings of hogs too small for requirements, and prices today were generally 10 to 25 cents higher, with the top boosted 25 cents to $11.20, the best figure since March 13. So far this week shippers have taken 24 per cent of the local arrivals, and some orders could not be filled today owing to scarcity of desirable kinds. The day's average was 15 cents higher at $10.05. Most sales were at $9.10 to $11, with heavy weights $9.85 to $10.80; medium weights, $10.75 to $11; lightweights, $10.80 to $11.15, and packing sows, $8.40 to $9.30. Packers bought 11,600 and shippers 5,500 with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 19,000, with 15,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Receipts of cattle were not large and prices generally were 25 cents higher, showing an advance of $1 to $1.25 from the recent low. Best yearlings sold at $11.25, with the bulk of the beef cattle at $8.50 to $10.60. Receipts were 6,000.

Lambs sold readily, with the market steady to strong, prices being the best in about a month. Most natives sold at $9.50 to $9.60, with Westerns as high as $10. Sheep were steady at $2.25 to $3.75. Receipts were 18,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

VEALERS AND CALVES—Vealers scarce, steady to strong; good to choice, $11 to $13.50; good Kentucky vealers, up to $12.50; few mediums, $9.

SHEEP—Lambs in fairly liberal supply, fairly active and steady; good to choice $10 to $10.50; top, $11; medium, $8 to $9.50; common, $7 to $7.50; few culls, $6; ewes steady, $4 down.

RETIRED OFFICERS GET ARMY WAR RANK

Under Law Passed in June 695 Are Advanced Without Increased Pay.

BLISS AND MARCH HEAD LIST

They Are Made Generals—Liggett and Bullard Are Raised to Lieutenant Generals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The advancement of 695 officers of the regular army on the retired list to the highest ranks which they held during the World War was announced by the War Department today.

Heading the list are Major Gens. Tasker H. Bliss and Peyton C. March, Chiefs of Staff during the war, who have been advanced to the rank of full General, which they held while serving in that capacity. Generals Bliss and March will receive retired pay of $6,000, the act of Congress passed in June having authorized no change in pay with their advancement in rank.

Of the officers who served as Generals during the World War General Pershing was the only one who retained that rank after the armistice. General Bliss succeeded General Hugh L. Scott as Chief of Staff just before the outbreak of the war. He was a member of the American Peace Commission at Versailles.

Brig. Gen. John Biddle, who has been advanced to the rank of Major General, was Acting Chief of Staff until the appointment of General March.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT DECLINES IN WEEK

Average for Industry Put at 54½ Per Cent, Against 56 Week Before and 90 Year Ago.

Steel ingot production declined further last week to an average for the industry of 54½ per cent, compared with 56 per cent in the preceding week and 58 per cent two weeks ago. The output of the United States Steel Corporation declined slightly to 62 per cent from the 62½ per cent a week ago and 64 per cent two weeks ago.

Independent steel companies are operating at slightly over 49 per cent of capacity, against 51 per cent a week ago and 53 per cent two weeks ago. Last year at this time the United States Steel Corporation reported a drop of 2 per cent to 95 per cent, while independents fell from 90 to 86½ per cent. The average was down 3 per cent to about 90 per cent.

PLANS 100-STORY BUILDINGS

Mexican Architect Asks City to Help Erect Huge Skyscrapers.

Dr. Francisco Mujica, Mexican architect, submitted a plan to Mayor Walker yesterday for building 100-story buildings in the area between Thirtieth Street and Park Place on sites two or three blocks square.

In an accompanying memorandum the architect said the city should cooperate with private initiative in looking ahead toward the transformation of the city. Increased property values that would follow building improvements would make his plan financially possible, he said. He proposed offices on the first twenty floors of his buildings and living quarters on the remaining eighty. Mayor Walker turned the plan over to his engineering assistant, Major Francis Sullivan, who will be head of the new city planning department.

HARDWARE TRADE BETTER.

Shipment of Autumn Lines Begun in the Last Week.

Recent rains and the approach of the Fall season have caused a slight improvement in the hardware trade, according to the weekly review of Hardware Age. Some Fall lines are already being shipped and the midsummer lull appears near its end.

Painting supplies are in good demand, while hardware materials allied to the building trades are dull.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

IN THE COURT OF CHANCERY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE IN AND FOR NEW CASTLE COUNTY.

LORNA I. MEIDINGER, Complainant, vs. J. I. CASE PLOW WORKS COMPANY, a dissolved Corporation, Defendant.

AND NOW, TO-WIT, this 30th day of July, A. D. 1930, the report of Haldeman C. Stout, Receiver of the above named defendant, filed in the above cause on the Fourth day of June, A. D. 1930, being presented, read and considered and it appearing therefrom and from the certified copy of the Certificate of Incorporation of said defendant that, in case of liquidation, dissolution or winding up of said defendant corporation, all its property or the proceeds thereof remaining after the payment of all corporate indebtedness shall be applied first to the holders of the first preferred stock in full to the par value of One Hundred Dollars (100) each of said shares and any and all unpaid dividends and accumulations thereon before the application of any such property or proceeds to the holders of the second preferred and common stock of said corporation; and it further appearing from said Report and the Exhibits thereto attached that the assets in said Receiver's hands for distribution in this proceeding are insufficient to pay to the holders of the outstanding shares of first preferred stock of defendant corporation the full par value thereof; on motion of Charles C. Keedy, Esq., solicitor for said Receiver.

IT IS ORDERED BY THE CHANCELLOR that distribution of the assets in said Receiver's hands be made solely to the holders of the shares of first preferred stock of said defendant corporation to the exclusion of any right of participation therein on the part of the holders of shares of second preferred and common stock of said defendant corporation;

AND IT IS FURTHER ORDERED BY THE CHANCELLOR that the Receiver forthwith send to the holders of outstanding shares of first preferred stock of defendant corporation, by first class mail, at their respective post office addresses, as indicated on "Exhibit C" attached to Receiver's Report in this proceeding of June 4, 1930, notice to file their verified proofs of claim, in the form prepared by said Receiver, for distribution out of the assets in the Receiver's hands in this proceeding, and that said Receiver shall make appropriate publication of this order and notice herein contained once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of daily circulation in the City of Wilmington, State of Delaware, and in the "New York Times," a daily newspaper published in the City of New York, State of New York;

AND IT IS FURTHER ORDERED BY THE CHANCELLOR that all holders of shares of first preferred stock of said defendant corporation who shall fail to file proper proofs of claim in this proceeding for a share in the distribution of the assets in said Receiver's hands on or before Monday, September 15, 1930, shall be barred from receiving distribution in this proceeding out of the funds in said Receiver's hands.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN THE REALTY FIELD

Property Sales Reported in Scattered Areas South of Forty-second Street.

BRONX MARKET IS ACTIVE

Sales, Leases and Mortgage Loans Negotiated There—Some Manhattan Leases Closed.

Only a few scattered holdings in Manhattan changed hands yesterday. Practically all the properties sold were in areas below Forty-second Street. Recorded leaseholds and mortgages fell far below the usual daily total, although brokers reported several good loans, most of which were on properties in the Bronx. The Bronx, incidentally, was the centre of a good volume of real estate activity yesterday, with several sales and leasehold deals closed.

Dr. Frederick N. Whitehorne resold the property he recently purchased at 158 West Fifteenth Street, adjoining the corner of Seventh Avenue, a five-story apartment house. The building is on a lot 23 by 103 feet and accommodates twenty families. The property was bought for investment through the Duross Company. Desider Schoen represented Dr. Whitehorne.

Edwin C. and Carrie E. Maynard sold the five-story building at 228 Washington Street to the Rosetta Realty Company. The sale was made through Philip J. Miller, broker.

The newly formed 176 Front Street Corporation, represented by Koppel Brothers, took title to 176 Front Street, a five-story building on a lot 19 by 87 feet, adjoining the corner of Burling Slip. Isaac Hyman represented the purchaser.

William Van Alen, architect, leased the three-story dwelling at 302 East Thirty-seventh Street to Isidor Feldman, plumber, through Maurice Wertheim, broker.

The building at 768 Madison Avenue, on a lot 20 feet wide, adjoining the southwest corner of Sixty-sixth Street, was leased by Bernroy, Inc., Bernard A. Ottenberg, treasurer, to Joseph and James P. Montllor, doing business as Spanish Antique Shop, for ten years from Oct. 1 of this year, the rent to be $12,000 a year, as well as taxes, assessments, &c. This is a renewal of a ten-year-lease of this five-story building.

Two leases covering the property at 143 and 145-47 East Sixtieth Street have been sold by Poor's Securities Corporation, Henry V. Poor, president, to the 145 East Sixtieth Street Corporation, of which Michael H. Lazarus is president. The latter corporation agrees to expend at least $25,000 upon alterations to these buildings within two years. The City Real Estate Company, which owns 145 and 147, consents to the assignment of its lease.

LAWYERS MORTGAGE LOANS.

Company Announces Financing Total of $10,928,425.

Mortgage loans aggregating $10,928,425 were accepted by Lawyers Mortgage Company at the August meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon. This total has been exceeded during the current year only in April and June, according to Richard M. Hurd, president.

An important feature of the loan activities of Lawyers Mortgage Company this month is the inclusion of $5,605,000 of building loans. This amount exceeds the total of all building loans accepted during the first quarter of 1930 and is equal to 40 per cent of all such loans taken for the first six-months period.

Building and permanent loans on Manhattan and Bronx properties received 64 per cent of the total or $6,988,000. Building loans in Manhattan include the following: $635,000 on eighteen-story and penthouse apartments, 40-44 West Eighty-sixth Street; $700,000 on twelve-story and penthouse apartments, 327-43 East Fifty-third Street; $350,000 on twelve-story and penthouse apartments, 102-104 West Eighty-fifth Street.

New Owner for Brooklyn Dwelling.

The dwelling and garage at 1,231 East Twenty-first Street, corner of Avenue K, Brooklyn, has been purchased by Jacob Lobel through Herman Gabbe and Louis Lande as executors of Julius Morris. The plot is 50 by 100 feet, and the purchase price was reported as $26,000.

BRONX PROPERTY DEALS

Fordham Road Site Leased for a New Building.

The southwest corner of Fordham Road and Jerome Avenue, known as 2 Fordham Road, has been leased by the Forham Operating Corporation, Frederick Berry, President, to the Fordrome Realty Corporation, Alexander Pfeiffer, president, for eighty-four years. The site comprises about 7,200 square feet and is improved with two five-story buildings.

The buildings on the property are being demolished and are to be replaced with a two-story bank and business building, comprising eight stores and second floor. The Bronx County Trust Company will be a tenant under a twenty-one-year lease, according to Gerson & Sweedler, brokers in arranging the leases.

The five-and-one-half-story brick building at 858 Southern Boulevard has been sold by the Haven Riverside Corporation to the 858 Southern Boulevard, Inc., Jacob Berlin, president. The seller was represented by Jacob M. Leibner and the purchaser by Louis A. Jackson.

The S. S. Kresge Company leased the building in course of construction on the east side of White Plains Avenue, 60 feet north of 223d Street. Nickoll, Tourner & Friedman, Inc., arranged the lease.

The Haring & Blumenthal Realty Corporation, developer, sold four houses in its Bronx Heights tract off Pelham Parkway. Dr. Augustine J. Annanziata purchased 1,907 Tenbroeck Avenue; Adele Ehrling, 1,860 Narragansett Avenue; Albert S. and Ruth Gibbs, 1,866 Narragansett Avenue, and Harold B. Cochrane, 1,825 Narragansett Avenue.

CHASE BANK PLANS NEW SKYSCRAPER

Seventy-Story Office Building Is Talked of for Wall Street Block.

PLOT FINALLY ASSEMBLED

Ten Other Huge Structures, in Various Stages of Completion, Changing Aspect of Financial Area.

The Chase National Bank, which recently consolidated with the Equitable Trust Company and other financial institutions, making it the largest bank in the world, with resources estimated at well over $2,000,0000,000, will probably add a new building peak to Manhattan's ever-changing skyline.

The bank, which has about forty-seven branches in the city and many foreign offices, started several months ago to assemble a plot in the heart of the downtown financial district in the block bounded by Wall, Broad and William Streets and Exchange Place.

In this block at the corner of Broad Street and Exchange Place is the thirty-eight-story Equitable Trust Company Building, which company was absorbed by the bank.

About five years ago the Equitable Trust Company sold the twenty-five-story building at 37 to 43 Wall Street to Elias A. Cohen's Thirty-seven Wall Street Corporation.

Last Spring the Equitable Trust Company bought the Wall Street property back from Mr. Cohen's corporation, and it was reported that they paid the seller close to $1,000,000 profit in order to obtain it, as there were other bidders for the parcel who ran the price up.

The Equitable Trust Company also bought the August Heckscher property at 43 to 49 Exchange Place.

These properties, with the Equitable Trust Building occupying a plot fronting 163 feet on Broad Street by 151 feet on Exchange Place, surround the four-story building of J. P. Morgan & Co. at the corner of Wall and Broad Streets.

Plans for the improvement of the site originally assembled by the Equitable Trust Company are being considered by the Chase National Bank or one of its affiliated organizations, and a definite announcement regarding the improvement is expected shortly.

Trowbridge & Livingston, architects, have prepared tentative plans for a sixty-story commercial building, but it was reported yesterday that the structure may go to seventy stories or more.

No definite information regarding the size of the plot to be improved or the height of the structure could be obtained from the architects or the officials of the Chase National Bank.

Two other entire blocks in the downtown financial district have been assembled recently for improvement with skyscrapers. One block bounded by Wall, Pearl, Water and Pine Streets was acquired by Louis Adler, who is now erecting the Continental Building at the southeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second Street.

The second block, bounded by Pine, Water, Maiden Lane and Pearl Streets, was assembled by James Lee, builder and operator.

In the downtown financial district today ten large buildings are being erected for 1931 occupancy. They will have an aggregate of 277 stories and furnish 2,534,617 square feet of rentable space.

200 LEADERS HAIL MORRO CASTLE HERE

Luncheon on Board Speedy Ward Liner Precedes Her Maiden Run Saturday.

OPEN TO PUBLIC TOMORROW

New Boat Will Maintain 20-Knot Schedule Between Here and Havana —Sister Ship Now Building.

Two hundred leaders in the marine world attended a luncheon on board the new Ward liner Morro Castle, fastest turbo-electric liner afloat, at Pier 13, East River, yesterday.

The Morro Castle will sail Saturday on her maiden voyage to Havana. She will maintain a twenty-knot schedule in the New York-to-Havana service, reducing the Ward Line's normal running time between the two cities from seventy-two to about sixty hours, or two and a half days.

The Ward Line is to act as host to an inspection party of railroad, shipping and freight traffic leaders this afternoon. The boat will be open for public inspection tomorrow afternoon between 1 and 4 P. M., 1,000 passes already having been granted.

The Morro Castle is the first of two sister ships in the Ward Line's $10,000,000 shipbuilding program for the Havana express trade. The other, the Oriente, is in the Newport News yard and will be in service by November, according to officials.

The seven-deck vessel is 508 feet long and has a displacement of 14,000 tons. It has a recreation deck, dancing deck, ballroom, children's playroom, gymnasium and two inter-deck elevators.

At the luncheon yesterday Franklin D. Mooney, president of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines, of which the Ward Line is a subsidiary, welcomed the diners in a short address. It was announced that a regular weekly service between the two ports, in both directions, would be started after the Oriente had been launched.

Those attending the luncheon included:

H. E. CABAUD, vice president of the Ward Line.
Captain ROGER WILLIAMS of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.
H. E. FRICK, vice president of the American Export Line.
P. V. G. MITCHELL, vice president of the International Mercantile Marine Company.
H. B. WALKER, president of the American Steamship Owners' Association.
Captain C. A. McALLISTER, president of the American Bureau of Shipping.
ROBERT F. HAND, vice president of the Standard Transportation Company.
IRA A. CAMPBELL, admiralty lawyer.
HOMER L. FERGUSON, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.
Captain R. D. GATEWOOD, manager of the Marine Salvage Association.

Captain Joseph E. Jones, for the past six years master of the Orizaba, is captain of the Morro Castle, which is the third vessel of the Ward Line to bear that name.

RADIO SETS PLANNED FOR BRITISH POLICE

Brighton Force Tests Miniature Apparatus to Be Carried by Men While on Patrol.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Experiments are now being carried out at Brighton by Charles Griffin, chief constable of the town, which, if successful, are expected to result in policemen being equipped with miniature receiving sets to enable them to keep in touch with headquarters while on patrol. Mr. Griffin is chairman of the Chief Constables' Association and a member of the special committee of police chiefs, motor car and wireless experts who are meeting in London to consider the whole problem.

As a result of the Brighton experiments it is hoped it will be impossible for motor bandits to escape after making their raids. The need of finding some means for checking the activity of motor bandits is seen in the fact that three daring raids of this nature were made in London today.

An official, giving details of the wireless sets proposed for the police, said they weigh no more than a policeman's electric torch and could be carried in the breast pocket. The range is sufficient to allow messages to be picked up in any part of the city if the broadcasting station is near the centre of the city. Codes would be used to prevent unauthorized persons from listening in.

Scotland Yard is watching with special interest the results of the Brighton experiments. It has been a pioneer in the use of wireless for the prevention and detection of crime. A powerful transmitter and receiving apparatus has been in use for years at Scotland Yard and has proved invaluable in enabling the flying squad of detectives patrolling in vans and cars to be directed to any part of London without delay.

PASSAIC TO BE FLUSHED.

50,000,000 Gallons Daily From Reservoir to End Pollution.

About 50,000,000 gallons of clear water will be poured daily into the Passaic River from the Wanaque Reservoir, during the next few days, to flush the stream and relieve the pollution which has been accentuated by drought. The North Jersey district water supply commission in Newark decided yesterday to authorize its engineers to release this water on the request of J. Ralph Van Duyne, chief engineer of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

The water commission instructed its engineers to make sure that the water actually would reach the lower part of the rivers. Two weeks ago 50,000,000 gallons were let into the upper reaches of the Passaic, but no effect was noticed in the polluted parts of the river.

Mr. Van Duyne said yesterday that an arrangement had been made with industries along the river to let the additional water flow through. He said that John H. Cook, president of the Passaic Consolidated, had agreed that as soon as the released water reached Beatty's Pond an equal amount would be released from Dundee Dam, fifteen miles further down the course.

River Gives Up Sword and Skeleton.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 19 (AP).—A gold-hilted sword engraved "Jos. W. Morton" and strapped to a skeleton found on the bottom of the Mississippi River opposite this city today started historians searching their reference books. They believed the sword was that of an officer of Admiral Farragut's forces which captured Baton Rouge in 1862. The discovery was made possible by the low stage of the river, as normally the spot would be covered by twenty feet of water.

GRACE LINER SPEEDING HERE FOR A RECORD

The Santa Clara, Due Tomorrow, Likely to Clip Her Own Time for Run From Cristobal.

Churning with all six motors at a steady twenty-knot pace from Cristobal, Canal Zone, the Grace liner Santa Clara was reported yesterday by officials of the line to be approaching New York at a speed which will clip nearly a day and a half from the old time of five and a half days for the trip and reduce her own record of four and a half days by several hours.

The Santa Clara, running at her best speed for the first time, was expected to reach New York Friday morning but radio advices received by the company last night indicated that the liner would pass Ambrose Lightship early tomorrow morning, docking at Pier 33, Brooklyn, during the forenoon.

On her northbound voyage, the Santa Clara in her first maximum speed test from Valparaiso to Callao, clipped a full day from her own time. If the vessel arrives in New York as scheduled, she will have made the trip from Valparaiso in fifteen days, and from Callao in eight.

Declared by the Grace Line to be the fastest vessel built in the United States for foreign trade, the turbo-electric liner was the first large motor liner built under the Jones-White act.

Among the Santa Clara's passengers is General Hans Kundt, ex-commander of the Bolivian Army, who is a refugee under the La Paz revolutionary government. The general embarked at Callao after his escape. He is en route to join his wife and daughter.

COPELAND DENOUNCES CAPITOL FIRE HAZARDS

Senator Tells State Volunteer Firemen That Inquiry Showed 'Terrifying' Conditions.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Fire hazards of the Capitol and other national structures at Washington were denounced here today by Senator Copeland in an address at the opening session of the convention of the New York State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Speaking of his work as head of a Senate committee which recently asked for a survey of public buildings in Washington, he said it was "terrifying" to know the result of this inquiry. Among the factors he enumerated were wooden floors in the Senate and House chambers, open elevator shafts, document rooms piled high with records within two feet of ventilators leading from the kitchen, and the construction of the Senate and House galleries of wood on steel.

A fire originating from such sources, he said, would destroy treasures of art as well as the interior beauties of the Capitol itself.

Acknowledging the "great debt which the country owes the firemen for their heroism and diligence in saving life and property," Senator Copeland declared that an urgent need was the "education of the people against fire hazards."

DENIES BROOKLYN BASE IS TO BE ABANDONED

Army Depot Commander, Tells Federal Workers Government Has No Such Plan.

Colonel Howard L. Laubach, commandant of the Brooklyn army base, First Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, in an address at a meeting of the Federal Business Association of New York at the base yesterday, denied rumors that the War Department had decided to give up the base because of the expense of operation.

"There have been many rumors that the War Department was considering relinquishing this depot," Colonel Laubach said, "but so far as I know there have been no plans for doing away with the base. The cost of the sixty army depots operated by the government amounted to $8,000,000 for the last fiscal year, $1,251,000 of which was spent at the Brooklyn army base. This is truly a great deal of money, but if the government finds it necessary to cut down the expenses, it will do so by combining other depots with this one rather than doing away with any."

SUSPENDS TWO POLICEMEN.

Atlantic City Chief Lays Neglect to Lieutenant and Patrolman.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19.—County Prosecutor Louis Repetto said today that he had received from Frank Harrold, chief of county detectives, evidence gathered in visits to about half a dozen roadhouses and inns in Atlantic County. He said he had not had time to read the evidence yet, but expected to do so tonight.

"There is no concerted movement against such places," said the prosecutor, "and I am unable to say that there is sufficient evidence against any of them to warrant grand jury consideration."

Another step in the drive to reform the Police Department was taken by Chief Patrick Doran today in suspending Lieutenant Harvey Wehner and Patrolman Joseph Harbright for dereliction of duty.

The nature of the charges against Lieutenant Wehner was not given out. He will be placed on trial before William S. Cuthbert, Director of Public Safety, at a date to be named by the commissioner.

Agents Inspect Shipbuilding.

Fourteen general agents of the United States Lines adjourned a conference here yesterday and went to Camden to inspect the company's new 30,000-ton liners under construction at the plant of the New York Shipbuilding Company. Fabrication of steel plating for the first liner, the keel for which will be laid before Dec. 1, is to start this week. The first vessel is to be delivered in July, 1932, and the second in November of that year.

Tom Thumb Golf on Night Liner.

Tom Thumb golf has found its way to the Hudson River Night Line. A miniature course was installed on the Rensselaer Sunday night and the experiment proved so popular, according to officials yesterday, that it will be extended to the Berkshire and Trojan as well.

Where Man's Handiwork is Dwarfed

The Chrysler Building Against Cape Trinity

AS YOU stand on the deck of your ship gazing up at the sheer wall of granite rising above you, you gasp at its height.

Could you but transplant the Chrysler building, the tallest in the world, and set it alongside Cape Trinity, it would be dwarfed by this giant guardian of the Saguenay.

Cape Trinity reaches straight upwards from the water so high that the immense height of the Chrysler Building would come only half way up its rugged face.

It is such scenes as these that bring the same people back to the Saguenay time and time again, no matter if in the meantime they have travelled the world over in search of new wonders.

* * * * *

The comfortable steamers of Canada Steamship Lines sail from Niagara, Toronto, through the 1000 Islands, down the foaming rapids of the St. Lawrence, down the St. Lawrence itself and up the magnificent Saguenay Canyon, the most luxurious and scenic fresh water cruise in the world.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL HITS 'FANATIC LAWS'

Righteousness Cannot Be Forced, He Tells Knights of Columbus at Boston.

DISCUSSES THE PURITANS

Though Critical of Their Harshness, He Asserts There Is Need Today for Their Strong Virtues.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Virtue and righteousness never can be compelled by machine guns and statutes, Cardinal William O'Connell declared at a mass in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross which preceded the opening session of the forty-eighth Annual Supreme Convention of the Knights of Columbus here today.

Speaking to nearly 5,000 delegates, supreme officers and directors of the organization, the Cardinal chose Puritanism and its relation to Massachusetts of today as his topic.

"It is inconceivable," he said, "that the Massachusetts of today, 300 years after its settlement, could be identical in any sense with the Massachusetts of 1630, and it is well that it is not.

"A thousand influences, unsuspected and undreamed of by the Puritans of 1630, have evolved our present position, social, economical and religious.

"Puritanism was extreme—the law of fanaticism. We wish we could say that there was nothing of this unsocial, uncongenial spirit left in America. But, alas, from time to time we are made only too conscious of it by the enactment of laws and statutes which still indicate the spirit of the Old Testament and not that of the New.

"History proves that goodness and virtues and righteousness cannot be forced on a people by statutes or by machine guns. But while we shudder at the fierce austerity of Puritan life, we would do well not to forget that luxury and wealth may lead to the corruption even of the best, and destroy the very foundation of this nation, founded by sturdy men in poverty and privation.

"The Puritan, it is true, had a hard and harsh sense of duty and of the force of law. It would seem from indications all around us that that sense is growing weaker instead of stronger. The Puritan venerated his religion, such as it was. It would appear from what we see about us that this virtue is not growing in their descendants."

ODD FELLOWS CONVENE.

4,000 Attend Opening of State Grand Lodge at Rochester.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—With nearly 4,000 members of the order and affiliated organizations attending, the 107th annual New York State Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows opened its three-day session today, following the conferring of the Grand Lodge degree upon 358 Past Grands.

After greetings by City Manager Stephen B. Story and civic leaders, Past Grand Master William C. Kohlmetz welcomed the delegates in behalf of Monroe County and Grand Master G. Edward Coon responded for the Grand Lodge

Preparations were under way for the annual Grand Lodge parade, in which more than 6,000 members of the Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and affiliated bodies will be in line. The number of convention visitors is expected to be swelled to 20,000.

The Past Grand Masters' Association elected the following officers: President, Edward C. Conway of Albany; secretary, Joel Krone of New York, and treasurer, Frank N. Tyler of Buffalo.

WHAT DOES YOUR MIRROR SAY?

TO MANY WOMEN the mounting birthdays bring a little less beauty, a few more wrinkles, a complexion that has lost its youth and charm. Yet for others, Time seems to stand still.

The difference is often a matter of diet. So many foods lack sufficient roughage or bulk. Without it, constipation is inevitable. Its poisons spread over the whole system, causing ill health and loss of youth.

Today, you can prevent it easily by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, eat ALL-BRAN with each meal. This is so much better than taking pills and drugs that may be harmful.

Advanced processes have improved Kellogg's ALL-BRAN both in texture and in the delicious, nut-like taste.

Delightful with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use it for making fluffy bran muffins, breads, etc.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also brings iron, which paints cheeks and lips with the natural tint of health. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

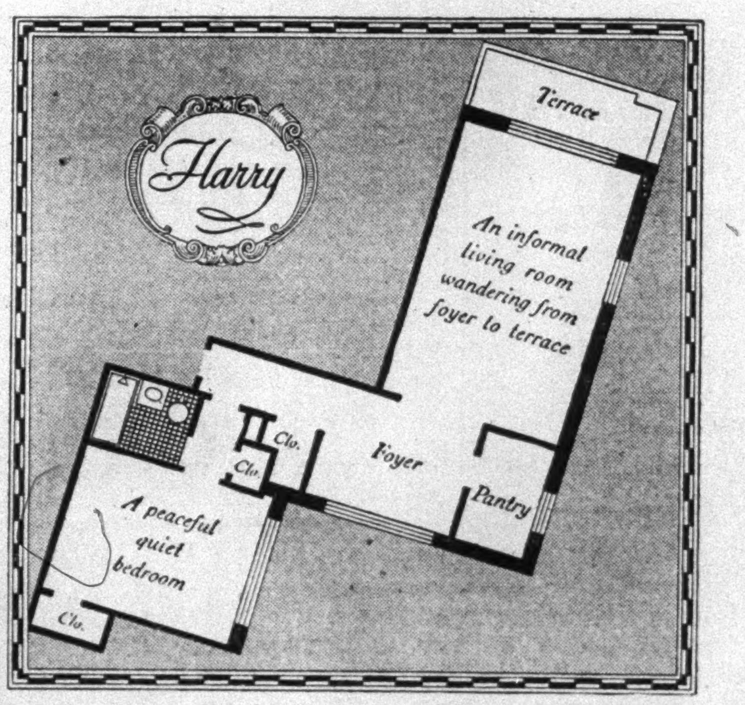
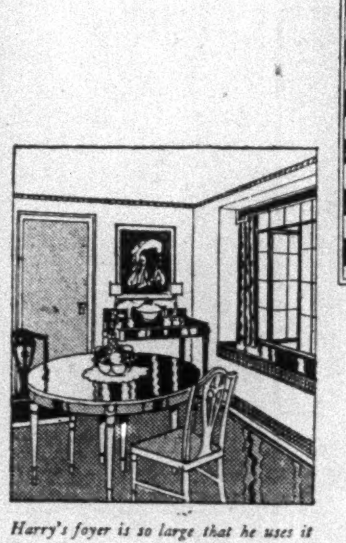
Oh, you'll like HARRY...

HE'S AN INFORMAL, CHEERFUL TWO ROOM APARTMENT





Harry's foyer is so large that he uses it for a dining room. It has wide windows across one side—a complete serving pantry at one end.

At The Town House we've given the apartments names because they're as different and as individual as people. HARRY looks on the sunny side of life through great wide eyes. And he gives the most delightful parties in his big living room (it has a terrace—quite a big one). His foyer is very large and he uses it for a dining room. By the way, get him to show you the pantry—it's really a regular kitchen with a gas stove, silent gas refrigerator and all that. HARRY has lots of depth to him in spite of the impetuous way he flings himself about. The more you see of him the more you'll like him.

HARRY is awfully proud of the adjustable shaving light and shower mixer in the bath; the khrome marble baseboards; chromium fixtures; polished cork floors; the efficient ventilators in the bath and pantry. The gas for the refrigerator and maid service go with HARRY'S rent. Try to come over to The Town House today. (The office is open from 8:30 A.M. to 9 P.M.) We'll introduce you to HARRY and to his cousins, the 1, 3 and 4 room apartments. If you're tired of the commonplace, you'll be pleased to meet an apartment with a personality.
